PLANES SET FOR DERBY

Two Score Wait Race Start

Roosevelt Field Shelters Several Entrants in Spokane Hop

Take-off of Class B Today Initiates Cross-country Dash to West

ROOSEVELT FIELD (N. Y.) Sept. 18. (AP)—The largest assembly of airplanes in two years was concentrated here today in preparation for the start early tomorrow of the first of three cross-country races to Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., in connection with national air races there.

Prizes totaling $43,000 will be awarded the winners of the three races in which pilots from all sections of the country are ready to compete. Light and heavy commercial planes are to be flown.

The arrival of three more contestants overnight brought the total number of derby planes up to forty-two. Aviation officials said this was the largest number of planes grouped here since the air races at Mitchel Field, N. Y., in 1925.

LATE ARRIVALS

The latest arrivals were S. Darius of Chicago; M. H. McMechan of Yakima, Wash., both of whom are entered in Class B, for planes capable of carrying a passenger as well as the pilot; and L. T. Royal of Flint, Mich., Class A, for planes capable of carrying two passengers and pilot.

Maj. Howard C. Davison, staff officer from the military aviation post at Mitchel Field, adjoining Roosevelt Field, who is one of the officials of the starting committee, explained the derby regulations and starting arrangements to the pilots at a conference this morning. The Class B race is scheduled to start at 5:30 a.m., eastern standard time, tomorrow. The planes will take off at one-minute intervals. Their route to Spokane stretches a distance of approximately 2850 miles. The Class B planes, which are expected to arrive at Spokane on Wednesday, are to make overnight stops at Chicago and at Glendale, Mont. They also are to make compulsory five-minute stops at Bellefonte, Pa., Cleveland, Bryan, O., St. Paul, Fargo, N. D., Bismarck, N. D., Billings, Mont., and Missoula, Mont.

The prizes in this race are: First, $5000; second, $3000; third, $1000; fourth, $500; fifth, $250.

CLASS A RULES

The planes competing in the heavier Class A are to start their race westward on Tuesday at 5:30 a.m., eastern standard time. Their route, varying slightly from that of Class B, lies over a distance of approximately 2975 miles. Five prizes, totaling $16,350, will be awarded the winners. One overnight stop will be made at St. Paul on Wednesday.

The third transcontinental race, a nonstop flight, is scheduled to start from here on Wednesday. The contestants are permitted to follow any route, officials said.

A first prize of $10,000 and a second of $5000 are offered in this race.

SCORE OF AIRSHIPS AWAITING RACE DAY

SPOKANE, Sept. 18. (AP)—A score of airships were lined up tonight at Felts Field, the Washington National Guard airport here, or resting in hangars, awaiting the opening next Friday of the national air races to be contested for two days. Half as many more were en route here from east and west.

Three pursuit planes and three observation machines of the Navy were on their way from San Diego, three Marine Corps machines were flying from Quantico, Va., and a Fokker was en route from Wright Field, Dayton, O.

Eighteen of the airplanes that have arrived here—fifteen of them by air—are Army machines; five from Wright Field, four each from Selfridge Field, Mich., and Crissy Field, Cal., and one each from Chanute Field, Ill.; Fort Crockett, Tex., and Brooks Field, Tex.

BORNE CHANGES MIND ABOUT NEW YORK HOP

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Art Borne, pilot, and R. W. Gray, navigator, arrived here by airplane from Los Angeles today to enter the Pacific Coast air derby from San Francisco to Spokane Wednesday. Borne, who had intended to enter the race from New York to Spokane, changed his mind after his departure for New York had been announced and arrived here at 4:32 p.m. after a four-hour flight.

Another arrival for the race was the Plane City of Aberdeen with Art Landomas, pilot, and two passengers, which landed here at 11:38 a.m., after a flight from Red Bluff where the flyers had stopped en route from Aberdeen.

BRITISH ACE ANNOUNCES COAST LINE FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Plans for a coast-line flight from Spokane, Wash., to New York City were announced tonight by Lieut. Kenneth R. Unger, former British ace, whose plane, the Black Crow, is entered in the Spokane air derby. The flight is backed by a group of New York and Brooklyn business men.

Lieut. Unger, whose home was in Newark, N. J., prior to his enlistment in the Royal Air Force during the World War, has laid his course from Spokane down the coast to the Panama Canal, across the isthmus and the gulf and thence up the North Atlantic shore line to New York. He expects to make the flight in a dual-motored amphibian plane shortly after completion of the air derby which begins tomorrow.

The purpose of the flight, Unger said, is to demonstrate the feasibility of long-distance flights without the risks attendant on a transocean course.

Lieut. Unger, a former mail pilot, is credited with 4000 hours in the air without accident, and his war record includes thirteen enemy planes and two balloons destroyed. He holds the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Accompanying him will be John A. McGlyn, his chief mechanic, who served the army round-the-world flyers in 1924 in the same capacity.

Lost on Air Journey to New York

sona line, according to reports from the Mahoney headquarters tonight.

That Jensen had been seen flying north over Imperial at 11:30 a.m. Friday and positively identified was established by reports received here, but beyond that point his fate still is a mystery.

Experienced service and commercial flyers here expressed anxiety for Jensen's safety tonight, pointing out that the lion he carried probably could have thrown the plane into a tailspin if it became frightened and lunged too heavily against the steel bars of his cage. Although Jensen was armed with a revolver to protect himself from the animal in emergency, it was considered doubtful that he would have a chance to use it if that had become necessary to quiet the lion and save his life.

AIR LABORATORIES TO BE DEDICATED

ARMY CORPS' MATERIAL DIVISION NEAR DAYTON TO BE SCENE OF OCTOBER EVENT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The new home of the Army Air Corps' laboratories near Dayton, O., will be opened formally October 12.

War Department officials headed by Secretary of War Davis, army and navy officers in high commands, and representatives of the State of Ohio and the city of Dayton, the aircraft industry, organized labor and chambers of commerce will attend the ceremonies which mark further expansion of the efforts of the government to improve airplane designs, increase efficiency of airplane motors and perfect air navigation and equipment.

The first pursuit group, Selfridge Field, Mich., will fly to Dayton to participate in the dedication ceremonies, arriving at Wright Field on the morning of October 13.

The Army Air Corps' laboratory, known formally as the material division, is the birthplace of many of the improvements in airplane operation and air navigation that have lifted American planes—military as well as commercial—to the high standard of efficiency they possess today. In perfecting airplane motors, the radio beacon, parachutes, the earth inductor compass, propellers, and airplane designs, the Army Air Corps laboratories have played an important role.

Until recently the home of the material division was at McCook Field, also near Dayton. Its new quarters are located six miles northeast of that city on a 4800-acre tract. Not far from the modern buildings and latest type hangars—which front on what is believed to be one of the finest landing fields in the world—stands the humble little shack in which the Wright brothers, after whom the field is named, housed their first airplanes. The site was deeded to the War Department for Army Air Corps engineering purposes by the Dayton Air Service committee, made up of residents of Dayton. The formal presentation of the site will be part of the ceremony.

Woman Killed as Car Upsets

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Word was received here today from Battle Mountain, Nev., that Mrs. Edith Zehr of Pasadena was killed instantly, and her brother Gilbert Schleifer, and her husband were injured when the automobile in which they were riding blew out a rear tire and turned over in the soft gravel.

According to special dispatches to the Nevada State Journal, the trio were en route to Chicago were they expected to study for the ministry of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Schleifer is in the hospital at Battle Mountain and is in a serious condition.

Mrs. Zehr's body will be returned to Pasadena for burial.

Announce Hours for Radio Test

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—American radio fans quipped with short-wave apparatus and much interested in "reaching out," would have little difficulty in picking up the new long-distance service to be started by a British amateur in September. He will try to reach United States receiving sets.

The broadcast is to be made on three nights a week, Sunday, from 6 to 8 p.m., will be one of them. The others are not yet fixed.

Gerald Marcuse, the amateur, is licensed to transmit speech and music, with power for transmission not exceeding one kilowatt on waves of twenty-three and thirty-three meters.

MEETING OF LEAGUE MAY BE DELAYED

Preparatory Disarmament Commission Conference Expected in January

GENEVA, Sept. 18. (AP)—The prevailing opinion in Assembly circles today was that the meeting of the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission, originally fixed for November, will be postponed for several months. Count Von Bernstorff, Germany's war-time Ambassador at Washington, ventured the guess that it will be convoked in January or February.

The United States is represented on the commission, whose task it is to prepare a draft treaty to be submitted to an eventual general disbarment conference. Count Von Bernstorff is the German delegate on this commission.

The American government already has given the interested powers to understand that Washington will continue actively to co-operate in the League's disarmament preparations, although the question of American participation in the conference itself has yet to be decided.

Presumably Hugh R. Wilson, the American Minister at Berne, will represent his government when the League commission resumes its meetings. The Assembly delegates attached to the disarmament committee are still hesitating whether to link the movement to supervise the private manufacture of arms with the general disarmament conference or convoke a separate conference on such supervision.

Moonshiners at Silver Jubilee

BERLIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Moonshiners Club has kept its silver jubilee here. Let it be explained at once that this honorable fraternity has nothing to do with the bootlegging business, for Germany is a decidedly "wet" country anyway. These Berlin Moonshiners are a very respectable organization, now 25 years old, of citizens who have the wanderlust and who believe in going for long hikes into the country at night instead of in the day time.

They hold that the nocturnal stillness and absence of traffic are most beneficial to jaded nerves and is preferable in every way to day time tramping. They are moon worshipers instead of sun worshipers. The club has about seventy members, some of them of advanced age, and they have walked thousands of miles all over Germany.

RECORD SHIPMENT

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 18.—Nearly 5000 carloads of vegetables have been shipped from the Guadalupe and Santa Maria districts of Santa Barbara county since January 1, it was announced today by Eugene S. Kellogg, county horticultural commissioner.

The shipment, which totaled 4980 carloads, is an increase of 210 cars over the entire period of January 1 to December 31, last year, and several hundred more carloads are expected to be shipped out within the next three months.

MAIL CARRIER LIKES HIS JOB

Spends Vacation Painting and Fixing Letter Boxes on His Route

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18. (AP)—W. E. Shawkey, rural mail carrier in the Paradise district, in the Butte county mountains, can well claim to be one of the country's most public-spirited citizens. Shawkey but recently returned to work after a vacation during which he went around his route and "dressed up" the mail boxes.

Where there once was disorderly arranged groups of boxes there now are orderly colonies placed in neat and freshly painted rows on a small table built between painted uprights.

Mrs. Mae Baker, the postmistress, purchased a supply of lumber and Shawkey supplied the neccessary paint and labor.

Paradise boasts 240 mail boxes on its rural route, which represents an increase of fifty householders during the past year.

LOWDEN TO CAMPAIGN IN EAST TODAY

Illinoisan Will Supervise Effort for Support From New York Headquarters

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Frank O. Lowden, ex-Governor of Illinois, is scheduled to start tomorrow his active campaign for support in the East for the Republican Presidential nomination, Lowden will do the directing himself from his headquarters at the Waldorf Astoria. William H. Crawford, press agent for the Lowden boom, has been keeping the fight running for some time.

Crawford today makes public the replies he has received from Republican leaders in Arizona, Colorado, Kansas, Idaho, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma, North Dakota, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin and New Mexico to telegrams asking for their Presidential preferences. The replies show, Lowden, 118; Hoover, 69; Hughes, 19; Borah, 29; Dawes, 10; Longworth, 8.

Replying to the question as to the probability of drafting President Coolidge, 179 think Coolidge is out of the running, 69 do not think so and 207 think the President can be renominated if he wants to be.

Young Slayer's Fate in Balance

OKMULGEE (Okla.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Mathew Kimes, youthful Oklahoma outlaw, has been found guilty of murder by a District Court jury—but whether his punishment is to be life imprisonment at hard labor or death in the electric chair is a question that the twelve men have been pondering since 9:40 o'clock this morning.

District Judge Hays and court attaches were called shortly before 9 o'clock and told that the jury wished advice on the matter of punishment. The jury was told by the judge that the question was wholly theirs to decide and that their instructions were sufficient.

Kimes already is under sentence for life for another crime.

Ex-Governor Dies Chopping Wood

CLEMENTON (N. J.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—"I'm going to chop some wood for exercise," former Gov. Miller of Delaware told Capt. Joseph Baker, whose estate he was visiting here today.

After chopping wood for an hour Miller, who was proud of his hardiness at the age of 69, fell dead of heart disease.

ACTRESS TO QUIT PLAY FOR PARLIAMENT SEAT

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Hilton Philipson, known on the stage as Mabel Russell, announced she has reached an agreement with the managemen' of the musical comedy "The Beloved Vagabond" to continue in the play until November 8. At that time, Mrs. Philipson will resume her Parliamentary duties and her place on the stage will be taken by her sister-in-law and understudy, Nellie Briercliffe. Mrs. Philipson was elected to Parliament in June, 1923. She returned to the stage in aid of charity in 1925, and accepted an engagement during the recess of the House of Commons this year.

ONE DIES AS TRAINS IN MICHIGAN CRASH

LAPEER (Mich.) Sept. 18. (AP)—One person was killed and seven injured, one probably fatally, when a Michigan Central passenger train crashed head-on into a freight train at Carpenter, near here, today. A string of four unoccupied coaches at the head of the passenger train, which were splintered in the crash, acted as a shock absorber for the loaded passenger cars following and saved them from being wrecked.

ALCOHOL STOCK VANISHES

MARTINEZ, Sept. 18. (AP)—Disappearance of 16,466 gallons of alcohol from a warehouse at San Pablo Point owned by the Philippine Refining Corporation was revealed with the filing of a suit for $6235 against the Philippine concern by Mrs. Leonora Mason, one of the owners of the Mason Distillery Company of Sausalito, to which the alcohol belonged.

FOES UNITE TO DEFEAT SMITH

Withdrawal of McAdoo to Align Opposition

Two-thirds Rule Revision Will Be Fought

Principles, Not Candidates, to Be War Cry

demonstrated whether Smith can be beaten.

The time-honored two-thirds rule of the Democratic convention is the slender thread which buoys up the hopes of the anti-Smith elements. It is doubtful, according to their own admissions, whether they can prevent Smith from obtaining a majority vote. If he can be kept from the required two-thirds total and the convention deadlocked, they figure it then may be possible to bring out a compromise candidate with some possibility of success.

Until that time arrives there need be no concentration of favorite son and uninstructed delegations. A compromise candidate, furthermore, according to the calculations of the anti-Smith strategists, will be in a more favorable position if he does not become involved too much in pre-convention strife.

Defense of the two-thirds rule necessarily will be one of the first matters on which all anti-Smith groups will be obliged to unite. A movement to abolish the two-thirds rule in advance of the balloting for President already is gaining headway among Smith partisans. Strong sentiment in favor of such action has been expressed, but even some of the Smith men are hesitant about its abolishment and present indications point to its continuance.

RIDICULE WITHDRAWAL IDEA

Suggestions by some of the McAdoo followers that Smith also withdraw from the race are ridiculed by the friends of the New York Governor, who insist that he is the strongest candidate who can be pitted against the Republicans in the election.

As proof of Smith's potential strength as an election candidate his friends are ready to show just how, in their opinion, he can win over probably any candidate but Coolidge. To start with they regard him as sure of getting the 136 electoral votes cast for John W. Davis in 1924. These votes were from Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Gov. Smith is the one and only Democrat who can carry New York with its forty-five electoral votes, the Smith boosters say. With Coolidge out of it they think he would have a good chance of carrying Massachusetts, where Irish Catholics and vets are strong. This would mean eighteen electoral votes. They think he could certainly carry New Jersey with fourteen electoral votes, and Maryland, another wet State, with eight electoral votes. Prospects would be regarded as favorable in Rhode Island, which has five votes, and in Connecticut, with seven votes. Add-in these votes to the 136 Davis total, makes an aggregate of 233, which still is short of a majority.

LOOK TO THE WEST

The Smith calculators present several different combinations by which a majority could be obtained with the aid of various western States. For instance, in case the La Follette radicals in Wisconsin bolted the Republican ticket, their support, together with the wet strength in that State, might cause its ten electoral votes to go into the Democratic column. Then if Smith carried Missouri with its eighteen votes, New Mexico with three votes and Arizona with three votes, the total would be brought up to 268, or a majority of the electoral college. Even if Wisconsin, where the normal Democratic vote has almost reached the vanishing point, remained regular, the trick could be turned by carrying Kentucky, which has thirteen votes.

These States claimed for Smith do not include several which have one or more Democratic Senators, such as West Virginia, Montana, Wyoming and Nevada, nor is included Ohio, usually a battleground in Presidential elections, but which would be inclined to turn against a wet candidate such as Smith.

There is complete uncertainty at present as to which candidate among the Democrats other than Smith will develop the most strength. Senator Reed, Missouri, promises to be an outstanding figure in the convention deliberations, but his wetness and his opposition to the League of Nations and other pet projects of Woodrow Wilson do not put him in an especially favorable position to enlist the support of the McAdoo followers.

Gov. Ritchie of Maryland also is wet and is looked upon more as a second choice of the Smith faction than as a possible focal point around which the anti-Smith elements could rally. There have been reports that E. T. Meredith of Iowa, Secretary of Agriculture in the Wilson Cabinet, is favored by Mr. McAdoo as the man best fitted not only to assume the leadership in the movement for progressive Democracy and for the preservation of the Constitution, but also to make an appeal to agricultural elements in the West. Mr. Meredith has been in Washington during the past few days and has conferred with some of the McAdoo lieutenants.

Other Democrats mentioned as among those who might be acceptable to the McAdoo forces include Senator Walsh, Montana, who presided over the 1924 convention; Senator Glass, Virginia, who was Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson Cabinet; Newton D. Baker of Ohio, Secretary of War in the Wilson Cabinet; Gov. Donahey of Ohio, and former Gov. Beckham of Kentucky, who is now the Democratic nominee for Governor in that State, and who is an active dry. Evans Woollen, who is to be put forward as the Indiana favorite son, also might have a chance for consideration.

INTERNATIONAL PRIZE GOES TO KANSAS MAN

SEATTLE, Sept. 18. (AP)—Selected from hundreds of designs submitted by architects in all parts of the United States, a plan submitted by Otho McCrackin of Hutchinson, Kan., was awarded first prize of $2000 in an international competition. His was the best design for a residence and garage built principally of wood.

HUNTER ACCIDENTALLY SLAIN

MEDFORD (Or.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Myron Carver, about 25 years of age, of Portland, was killed in the mountains near here when deer hunting with three companions. A San Francisco man in the party shot Carver whom he had mistaken for a deer.

LEGION ORANGE TRAIL PLANNED

Foch, Gen. Pershing, Commander Savage and Mayor Walker of New York.

CARDINAL'S WELCOME

Rev. Father Wolf preached the sermon in English, and Cardinal Dubois welcomed the Legionnaires, saying:

"The ideal of justice and liberty of the American people caused you to come to the assistance of France in her hours of danger in a most tragic war. You are as welcome today as you were then."

The Legionnaires, having celebrated Sunday in a befitting way in the churches, then proceeded to take in the sights, with the boulevards and the Champs Elysees as favored promenades.

Trains from Cherbourg, Havre and Antwerp, bringing the last of the Legionnaires to Paris, arrived throughout today, until late in the afternoon, and the city took on a decided American aspect.

The American visitors achieved the unprecedented miracle of keeping the people of Paris in the city over the week-end, specially as Monday is an official holiday—in honor of the Legion.

The entire route over which the parade passes tomorrow is lavishly decorated with flags and bunting. Great masses of electric lights in the form of intricate designs are to be seen everywhere, and never before has Paris been so profusely lighted. As thousands of bulbs flashed at nightfall, Paris became in reality a "ville de lumiere."

PERSHING VISITS POINCARE

Gen. Pershing and Commander Savage, accompanied by American Charge d'Affaires Sheldon Whitehouse, called on Premier Poincare at noon, coming directly from Notre Dame. They had quite a long chat with the Premier. Later they visited M. Painleve, War Minister. Commander Savage broadcast from Eiffel Tower at 1 o'clock a message which was intended to reach all European countries, including former enemies, if they desired to listen in.

"It is a splendid sight to see Europe at peace," said the Legion commander. "We first saw the land bristling with bayonets, and guns roared. Now we see the people busy in peaceful occupations. We hope, too, during the time we spend here, to give the nations of Europe a truer conception of the people of America. We come from all parts of the country, from all walks of life. We have come as pilgrims to the graves we left here nine years ago, and are here with a message of good will and friendship from the American people."

FLAG PRESENTATION

Presentation to Gen. Pershing and Commander Savage of the national flag for the American Legion, the gift of the French war blind soldiers, was made at 5 o'clock this evening by Marshall Poch, Gen. Gouraud and J. J. Jusserand, former French Ambassador at Washington. Gen. Pershing affixed a marble plaque, the gift of the Legion to the French war blind, to a wall in their headquarters. This, except for an official dinner of welcome by the French government at the Quai D'Orsay, ended the official functions for the day.

Approximately 250 Legionnaires or members of their families are counted among the casualties seeking treatment at the Red Cross first-aid stations. Heavy colds, due to the chill and rain of yesterday and this morning are far in the lead of the ailments. Stomach trouble from too many doughnuts, many say, or the French food, to which Americans are not accustomed, came second. Only six cases are serious enough to send to the American hospital.

The festivities continued tonight with a banquet given by the French government. The guests comprised the most brilliant array of public men seen at a banquet for a long time. Premier Poincare, Gen. Pershing and Commander Savage all delivered speeches.

OUTBURST FOR PERSHING

Gen. Pershing brought down the house with his opening sentence—"The Legion in coming to France has simply come back home."

The general explained that the Legion was born in France, "which was natural enough," he said, "since the spirit thereof was engendered here. The Legion is not merely an offgrowth of the A.E.F., but it is the very soul of the A.E.F. itself.

"An army grows into a personality as distinct as that of a human being. It has its soul, and the soul of the A.E.F. has passed into the Legion. There are many things in life that turn a man toward his boyhood. The Legion has thus been turned toward its original home, which is France. It was born here, and since 1918 has been longing to get back."

Marshal Foch said: "I salute the American army of peace." He had been urged somewhat against his will to make a few remarks.

"It is a great honor for me," the Marshal added, "who had the American troops under me during the war, to welcome them back as members of the Legion, which is so usefully serving the ends of peace."

SIX THOUSAND WOMEN ACCOMPANY INVADERS

PARIS, Sept. 18. (AP)—Six thousand women who stayed behind and tended the home fires when Pershing's army came to France, are right in the thick of the second invasion. The sock-knitters will open their offensive at the Continental Hotel tomorrow at 9 o'clock, and their program leaves Paris small opportunity of forgetting that one-quarter of the second American army is female.

The wives, mothers and sweethearts who had to listen for years to descriptions of "gay Paree," devoted today to getting first-hand information. They got up early and, fortified with rolls and coffee—French for breakfast—wandered along the Seine and sacred spots where history has been made.

All day long they strayed about Paris. They went on foot, by taxicabs and sight-seeing busses, sometimes with men folks but often alone. Six hundred women officially delegated to the auxiliary convention registered early so they could join the sightseers. They will be on hand tomorrow when Mrs. John G. Kipling, president of the Paris Post Auxiliary, welcomes them in the name of the women of Paris.

In the afternoon the women will participate in the Legion parade and their costumes will supply much of its color.

Each delegation has a parade costume, the basis of which is a cape and tam of blue with the name of the State worked in gold. Different groups have added touches of their own.

IOWA DELEGATION LANDS IN BELGIUM

BRUSSELS, Sept. 18. (AP)—Fourteen hundred Legionnaires from the corn belt of Iowa and the cotton lands of Dixie landed in Belgium this morning from the steamer Penland, of the Red Star Line, on their way to Paris. Belgium's "National Drache," that is to say, a pelting, chilly rain, greeted them at Antwerp and dogged their steps to Brussels, but it did not drench their fiery pep nor the enthusiasm of the crowds who got out of bed early to see and cheer them.

From Antwerp the Legionnaires and the wives traveled to Brussels and marched to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, which they literally buried beneath a heaping mound of flowers.

The Iowa boys sang their song about "Out where the tall corn grows," while the orange band of Florida made the air merry with American and Belgian tunes. Wade H. Phillips of North Carolina, a member of the French convention committee from his State did the speech-making for the party at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where the Americans were received by Maj. Dr. Cartier, representing the Minister of National Defense.

POINCARE IN TRIBUTE AT BANQUET WELCOME

PARIS, Sept. 18. (AP)—The expedition overseas of the American Legion forces in the World War to fight with the Allies never will be forgotten by Frenchmen, Premier Poincare declared today at the banquet welcoming the American Legion to Paris for its annual convention. Speaking in the name of the French government, the Premier said:

"Faithful to the memory of the population and your brothers in arms, who witnessed your heroism, even more abiding than the most substantial monument, no Frenchman, indeed, ever will forget that you crossed the sea to come and fight shoulder to shoulder with the Allies."

The Premier recalled America's generosity to the wounded and to the widows and orphans of France during the three years before the United States entered the war and "the private sympathy which outdid official co-operation."

Mexican Flood Disaster Feared

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (AP)—Probably several thousand families are refugees, many with their homes destroyed in consequence of the flooding of perhaps twenty towns and villages and large areas of farm land in the States of Guanayauto, Morelos and Mexico by the inundations from the Lerma River.

Only three deaths have been reported so far, but disrupted communications are hampering details from coming out of the flooded districts and have given rise to anxiety that the casualties may be more.

CAMPAIGN OPENED

Farmer-Labor Party Committee Lays Plans for National Vote Drive

DENVER, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Farmer-Labor party of the United States, through its national executive committee meeting here today, officially opened the 1928 campaign with the announcement of Milwaukee as the convention city and setting May 17 as the date of convening.

The committee urged the farmers to use the ballot as a means of farm relief and score both the Democratic and Republican parties for not helping the farmer.

The announcement adds that it is the intention of the Farmer-Labor party to extend the organization to every State in the Union before the election in November.

FRAUDULENT BANKRUPTCY DECREASES

Drop of 33 Per Cent Cases in Year Shown in Rigorous Prosecution

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. The number of fraudulent bankruptcies reported throughout the country is steadily decreasing, according to the National Association of Credit Men, which is carrying on a nation-wide fight against criminals.

J. H. Tregoe, secretary of the association, said in announcing the twelve-month period ending August 31, 1927, the education department of the association accepted for prosecution 1000 fraud complaints filed in the courts throughout the country. From August 31, 1926, to August 31, 1927, the number of complaints, he said, increased 33 per cent, while from August 31, 1926, to August 31, 1928, the number of complaints increased to 618.

"In spite of the increased number of cases reported for prosecution," he said, "the courts have been speeded up in the disposition of bankruptcy cases. During the period 1925-1926 the average time required for the disposition of commercial cases was 10 months, while during the period 1926-1927 the average time required was 7 months. This is due largely to the cooperation of the courts with the protection departments of the credit men's associations throughout the country in speeding up the criminal cases. Only a sufficient number of cases are pressed to secure conviction, thereby avoiding unnecessary expense to the creditors. During the period 1926-1927 there were 181 convictions."

Mr. Tregoe pointed out that bankruptcy, in itself, is not criminal, but that crooked bankruptcy is a crime and a menace to the community.

Wife of Slain Man to Be

HAMMONTON (N. J.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, who was held in the murder of her husband as a material witness in the case of her 66-year-old father-in-law, William Lillendahl, who was murdered here, was released today by Prosecutor Dr. Lillendahl, Atlantic county physician. Dr. Lillendahl, a veteran physician, was shot to death on the road Thursday afternoon as he progress who the slayer was. Lillendahl, according to evidence made to the authorities while driving with his brother-in-law, Mrs. Lillendahl was questioned by State police headquarters in Hammonton after she had been arrested with her father-in-law. She denied knowledge of the slaying, but the police made statements which they declared at "last complete."

Will Provide for His H

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Sir Alfred Yarrow, baronet, of the late Isaac Pitman, founder of Pitman's Shorthand, Bronte Grove, London, has left £1,000,000 to the Royal Institution for the Blind, according to terms of his will filed today.

By the will of Sir Alfred, none of them may be sold, but the trustees are directed to invest sufficient sum every year to provide for the blind, so that they die of old age or of death.

If the houses are not sold, Mr. Butler specifies, they are to be made to provide "two good flats for the blind," in addition to suitable offices for the grounds are to be preserved "where shall be erected this their teeth shall receive attention and be removed more than twice a year."

RIVER MEETING TO OPEN TODAY

Second Conference Session Will Start at Denver

None Able to Give Forecast of Parley's Result

Arizona Returning to Her Former Stand

BY C. A. JONES
"Times" Staff Correspondent

DENVER, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Governors and river commissioners of the seven States of the Colorado River basin are arriving here today preparatory to the opening tomorrow of the second session of the conference on the Colorado River compact, with no one able to forecast results.

Arizona is returning to her former stand of demanding a supplemental agreement to the compact, allocating all unappropriated waters to the lower basin States. This proposal last month met with opposition that will force the compact before the State Legislatures again.

As to the division of water between Arizona and California, neither State, according to the announcement of their commissioners, is prepared to yield. Arizona, in the words of Gov. Hunt, will not budge an inch from her demand that she be granted a half of the lower-basin allocation with California after Nevada's 300,000-acre feet have been exempted. The last settlement proposed by the upper-basin Governors was 3,000,000-acre feet to Arizona, her tributaries and an equal share in unallocated waters with California, which is to receive 4,200,000-acre feet.

Arizona, however, may yield on water if assured of support on allocation, at cost, to the States, of power from the river, which is proposed under the Pittman State's rights' resolution which will be acted upon at this session.

BROTHER'S DARE TO BOY AGED 4 FATAL

WACO (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Dared by his brother Truett, aged 14, to drop a French 75 "dud" shell, which they had found in a vacant house, to see if it would explode, Charles Rivers, aged 5, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Rivers, threw it down on the floor of his home and is dead as a result. Truett and a sister, 10, were in the room when Charles hurled the shell but both escaped injury. The explosion, which neighbors described as being "like a clap of thunder," tore the little fellow almost to pieces and badly damaged the room. Rev. and Mrs. Rivers were making church calls at the time of the accident.

Eccentric Wharf Worker Dies Without Relatives and Leaves $100,000

GALVESTON (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Alva W. Sanders, eccentric recluse, who for years worked as a laborer on the waterfront here, although he possessed an estate worth $100,000, died here at the age of 80 years. He had no relatives here and his few friends knew little of his former life. He claimed, however, to have been acquainted with Mary Todd, wife of Abraham Lincoln. He was a member of the original Ku Klux Klan when it was founded following the Civil War.

CALIFORNIA IDIOTS GAIN IN NUMBERS

State Has Sixth Place in Number of Feeble-minded and Epileptic Persons

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18. (AP)—A marked increase in the population of California's institution for the feeble minded and epileptics during the past four years is reported by the United States Department of Commerce following a national survey.

The population as of January 1, last, was 47.1 per 100,000 general population, as compared with 40.2 per 100,000 population as of January, 1923. The totals for these years was 2061 on January 1, last, and 1535 on January 1, 1923.

The Federal bureau also reports an increase in the number of first admissions to the institutions over the four-year period, in excess of one person per 100,000 estimated population. During 1922 there were 305 patients admitted for the first time, while four years later the admissions totaled 395.

Of the thirty-six States reporting California ranked sixth in the number of afflicted, being exceeded by New York with 1092 first admissions, Ohio 957, Illinois 748, Michigan 533 and Massachusetts 500.

New York with 8682 persons in its institutions, Massachusetts with 5092, Ohio 5835, Indiana 2412, Illinois 3931, Michigan 3544 and Iowa 2383 are the only States reporting a greater institution population than that of California as of the first of the year.

LISTENERS HIRE HUNTER FOR TROUBLE

Causes of Radio Reception Interference Searched Out by Louisville Man

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Thrills in hunting radio reception interference causes are comparable with those experienced on the trail of big game, in the opinion of K. S. Bixby, a "trouble hunter."

Instead of a rifle, he uses a portable eight-tube superheterodyne receiving set. Functions of the gun sights are replaced with a loop used for pointing out the "game." The thrill comes in encountering some trouble maker.

Employed by the Broadcast Listeners' Association of Kentucky, he "treks" over Louisville, hunting and bagging his game. One railroad made material changes in its block and bell warning system at a crossing. He found this a cause of interference.

His chief trouble makers are "trapped" in house wiring and numerous electrical appliances.

Paris Fails as Tourist Mecca

PARIS, Sept. 18. (AP) — American tourists in large numbers have been passing through France this summer to spend their time and dollars in other countries—just as travelers from St. Louis and the Southwest pass through Philadelphia on their way to New York. Last year France got the lion's share of the trans-Atlantic rubber-neck trade, and the hotels waxed prosperous. This year none of them are filled to capacity—that is, none of the hotels.

Visiting the Saint Lazare station in Paris, where all the trains from Cherbourg and Havre deposit their passengers, a glance at the baggage room reveals what a large proportion of foreign visitors merely pass through France instead of stopping. Much of the baggage from New York is in bond. Labels on the trunks indicate final destination as Italy, Switzerland or Germany—mostly Italy, this year.

Rail Death Toll for Year Given

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18 (AP)—Accidents on steam and electric lines in California during the last fiscal year took 349 lives and injured 4582 persons, states a report issued by J. G. Hunter and William F. Lemon, manager and research head of the State Railroad Commission engineering department. The commission had record of 4218 accidents for the year.

Of the total number of accidents 1638 occurred at grade crossings and were responsible for 143 deaths and 847 persons injured.

Accidents other than grade crossings mishaps were responsible for 206 persons killed and 3788 hurt.

BUILDERS REPORT ON MEXICAN CATHEDRAL

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The Cathedral of Mexico, dedicated in 1667 and the oldest standing church on the continent, is to be saved from destruction.

A governmental commission of engineers and architects after inspecting the ancient structure reported that the seams of the walls, half-covered by clinging ivy, were nothing for alarm and a little plaster, properly applied, would rejuvenate the ancient landmark for another several centuries.

FLOOD CONTROL TOUR OUTLINED

National Chamber Envoys to Leave on 20th Inst.

Mississippi Valley Areas to Be Visited

A. S. Bent of Los Angeles Member of Group

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Headed by Lewis E. Pierson of New York, president, the flood control committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States will leave Washington the night of the 20th inst. for a trip through the Mississippi Valley area. One of the outstanding members of this committee is Arthur S. Bent of Los Angeles.

The purpose of the trip is to obtain by personal observations and, through contact with business leaders, first-hand information to be incorporated in a report which the committee will make to the board of directors of the chamber in October.

Creation of the flood control committee was authorized at the last annual meeting of the chamber, held in Washington in May. The committee was instructed to give study to all factors involved in flood control, together with all proposed remedies, making definite recommendations at the earliest possible moment. The work has been progressing for some time, but it was felt that before a final report is made the committee should visit the flooded territory.

"Business men of the United States," said Mr. Pierson today, "as individuals, have contributed generously through the Red Cross for relief work. Now, through their central organization, the national chamber, the business and industrial interests of the country are giving evidence of their desire to aid in every way to make it possible to prevent future calamities of the kind.

"The effects of disasters of this character are reflected in all parts of the country. One region cannot suffer without loss to other sections. What we are attempting to do is to make business experience and judgment available in a situation which calls for the most constructive kind of leadership."

DECREE HITS REVENUE OF MEXICO CITY

Calles's Ruling Cuts Income 1,000,000 Pesos Yearly on Meat Inspection

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—President Calles, by a recent decree, has automatically lowered the income revenue of this city approximately 1,000,000 pesos yearly as a result of a new ruling affecting the inspection of meats before they were being sold.

Under the old ruling, the merchants and slaughter-house owners were forced to pay a high tax to both the Ayuntamiento and the Department of Public Health for services of stamping and inspecting meats before they could be sold. The dealers complained of having to pay a double tax, when they actually received inspection service from only the Department of Health.

Under the Calles decree, entire inspection will be in the hands of health authorities and the dealers must pay only a moderate duty to this department and not the Ayuntamiento. The decree affects only meats to be sold in the Federal district and a general revision and lowering of revenue rates on various types of meats was announced with the decree, which is now in force.

It was charged that the Ayuntamiento did not have adequate doctors or inspectors to cover the situation and the only service given by the city was placing a revenue stamp on the product. The affected dealers said, in a communication to the President, that since they received inspection service from only the health department, this was the only duty, which should be paid. It was for this reason, Calles made the decree.

Chicago Women Plan Golf Links

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Tired of taking proscribed hours at the links of the city's country clubs so that the men might play unmolested, a group of women golfers of Chicago have organized a golf and country club exclusively for women. Led by Mrs. William Severin, president of the Illinois Women's Athletic Club, they have obtained a 275-acre tract at Lake Forest, Ill., for a golf course.

FINE LIQUOR SEIZED ON BRITISH STEAMER

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Champagne and gin valued by customs officials at $50,000 was seized aboard the British schooner Amarauth, which was brought to anchor off the Statue of Liberty Friday night by a Coast Guard cutter. Her crew of six men will be taken off for examination Monday.

SEVEN COMMUNISTS SENTENCED IN PARIS

PARIS, Sept. 18. (AP)—Seven militant Communists were sentenced by default to from two to four years imprisonment and varying fines for inciting French soldiers to disobedience. The men include the officials and editors of three extremist newspapers and M. Monmousseau, secretary of the Extremist Labor Federation. The Communists did not appear in court, contesting its jurisdiction and will appeal the sentence.

LIONS' CLUBS PLAN MEET AT SAN DIEGO

SAN JOSE, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The annual district convention of the Lions' Clubs of California, Nevada and Hawaii will be held in San Jose from June 7 to 9, inclusive, according to the San Jose Lions Club, which has already began elaborate preparations. Approximately 1500 delegates are expected. Among the entertaining features will be a barbecue which is expected to be the leading attraction.

TAX-SLASH BILL HEARINGS FIXED

Committee Calls Witnesses for October 31

Administration Views First to Get Consideration

Measure to Be Ready When Congress Convenes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Hearings on tax legislation will commence before the House Ways and Means Committee on October 31 and continue until November 10, according to a schedule made public today on behalf of the committee.

The first two dates of the hearings, October 31 and November 1, will be devoted to witnesses who desire to make general statements covering the entire field of taxation. The first witnesses, it is expected, will be Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills, who will present the views of the administration as to which of the proposed cuts in taxes should be given preference.

ON CORPORATION TAX

The hearing on November 2 will be devoted to witnesses dealing exclusively with the proposals to reduce the tax on corporation earnings. Numerous representatives of trade organizations will be heard at that time. On November 3, consideration will be given to proposals affecting the individual income-tax rates.

Persons who are interested in amendments to the sections of the law relating to the Board of Tax Appeals and general administrative features will be heard on November 4 and 5.

Those who are favoring repeal or reduction of remaining excise and stamp taxes will have an opportunity to be heard on November 7. Automobile interests will be on hand on behalf of the repeal of automobile taxes and theatrical groups will seek the elimination of the admission tax.

Two days, November 8 and 9, have been allotted to the estate tax. Delegations from various States have asked to be heard on the proposal for the repeal of the tax. The hearings will be concluded with miscellaneous witnesses on November 10.

Under this program the committee will have a little more than three weeks in which to consider the framing of a tax bill in executive session between the close of the session and the opening of Congress on December 5.

READY FOR OPENING

Members of the committee hope to have a bill ready to report to the House when Congress convenes. The measure will be given the right of way on the floor of the House and will be passed before the Christmas holidays. This will give the Senate ample time to consider the bill and for the two Houses to adjust differences in time to make the new law effective in advance of the filing of tax returns on March 15.

The policy of the Ways and Means Committee will be to first determine the amount of tax reduction which is possible. It is anticipated that the committee will decide that taxes may be reduced safely by as much as $250,000,000 and possibly as much as $300,000,000.

A reduction in the tax on corporation earnings is certain to be given preference over all other proposals. A cut in the present 13 1-2 per cent rate to 12 per cent would mean a loss in revenue of about $120,000. Next, the committee is likely to decide upon a reduction in surtaxes on individual incomes in the so-called middle brackets. This may mean a loss of as much as $50,000,000.

ESTATE TAX FIGHT

A sharp clash is assured over the question of the repeal of the estate tax, the effect of which would be to cut off revenue which in the last fiscal year amounted to $100,000,000, but which, according to Treasury officials, will not exceed $45,000,000 after another year or two. Its repeal will be favored by Secretary Mellon, but vigorously opposed by Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

There also will be a difference of opinion on the matter of repealing the automobile and admission taxes. There will be strong sentiment for such action, but Treasury officials are expected to take the position that these taxes are easily collectible and that the revenue cannot be spared.

Four Cities Take Most of Citrus

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Four cities, New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, are estimated by the Bureau of Railway Economics, maintained here by the carriers, to constitute a market for more than half of the entire crop of oranges produced each year in California and Florida.

The actual proportion of the 1926 crop going to these cities, the bureau said today, was 55 per cent, while there was an additional supply of Porto Rican citrus fruit that goes almost exclusively to New York.

For the year ending September, 1926, the bureau calculated, the orange shipment from Florida and California to the thirty-six principal markets amounted to 42,290 carloads, and the four cities named took 23,016 cars. New York City alone took 32 per cent of the Florida production and 24.1 per cent of the California fruit.

Radio Boon to This Conductor

LONDON, Sept. 18. (AP)—Sir Henry Wood, conductor of the orchestra of the Queens' Hall concerts, which this year is under the control of the British Broadcast. g Corporation, says he is now, for the first time in thirty years, able to enlarge and enrich the Queen's Hall program in conformity with his artistic aspirations.

"With the whole-hearted support of the wonderful medium of broadcasting, I feel that I am at last on the threshold of realizing my lifelong ambition of truly demonstrating the message of music and making its beneficient effect universal," says Sir Henry.

The orchestra is composed of seventy-eight performers, sixteen of whom are women. The whole thirty-seven concerts will be available for broadcasting.

HUNT RETURNS DOUGLAS FIRE

Governor Recalls Attack on Election Backing

Adminstration Supporters in Counter Offensive

Representative Promises to Renew Hostilities

PHOENIX, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—With a year yet to pass before the next Democratic primary election open war between the two major Democratic factions in Arizona has been precipitated by frank declaration of Representative Douglas that the present Arizona State administration is "rotten, inefficient and deplorable."

Later he made slight qualification that, "If it were possible, the Democratic party is the best avenue through which to correct the present situation." But he did not retract his expression of opinion with regard to the administrative control.

"I mean just what I said, and the guilty ones of the administration in the Capitol building know the coat fits. I said what I did for the benefit of Arizona. I believe the people of Arizona have sufficiently high regard for honor and honesty in government to rectify in the next election the corrupt practices of the present administration."

GOV. HUNT REPLIES

He added: "State expenditures are not bad if the public receives the benefit of them, but they are worse than rotten if they are made for perpetuation of the corrupt power of a political machine." He has started for California for a fortnight stay, but promises another broadside on his return.

Gov. Hunt has replied, but in a set of counter-charges, that especially have to do with the manner in which Douglas obtained election, the expenditures made in his behalf and the absence of the Douglas campaign manager from the Cameron slush-fund investigation.

In the answer also is reference to the fact that the Congressman's father is James S. Douglas, described as "multi-millionaire, copper magnate, promoter of the Tucson, Phoenix and Tidewater Railroad, banker and capitalist."

Corruption charges are not referred to in the Governor's letter. He replies only to one charge—that capital has been kept from the State by high taxes and mismanagement—and lists items of State progress to show that this may be untrue, save in the feature of mining, "which can be attributed a great deal to the management of those engaged in this industry." There also is adverse comment on the declaration made by Douglas that the Spring-Jo-son hill is likely to pass at the next session of Congress.

START BACKFIRE

Journalistic supporters of the State administration are starting a strong backfire on Douglas with declaration that he has assailed the Democratic party, as well as the administration. There even is threat to try a recall. His attack on Hunt is called "venomous" and an attempt is made to show that every official in the Capitol was aimed at. Declarastion is made that Arizona will have no official representative in the House in December when the Colorado River legislation is called up.

The outburst is considered by Democratic leaders as merely bringing into the open hostilities that have been under cover for several years. There is a general opinion that the Hunt wing was far from enthusiastic in the support it gave to either Senator Carl Hayden or to Lewis Douglas, while James S. Douglas made the statement in a Senatorial investigation that he did what he could in the last primary against Hunt, this with expenditure of large sums of money.

BOY'S TRICK EARNS TERM OF 3 YEARS

Snake Theft and Resale to Museum Frowned Upon by South African Magistrate

PORT ELIZABETH (South Africa) Sept. 18. (AP)—An ingenious and daring means of turning a dishonest penny was devised by a small boy known as "Jimmy," but his inventive genius has been rewarded by a hard-hearted and unimaginative magistrate with three years incarceration in a reformatory.

Jimmy formed a syndicate with three other boys, the eldest 16 years of age, to supply the snake pool in a museum with reptiles. They scoured the neighborhood and the pools of the Baakens River for live snakes until there came a dearth of snakes, and the syndicate sadly watched its income dwindling to nothing.

But Jimmy was equal to the occasion. Why not rob the snake pool or resell its contents to the museum authorities?

Barefooted, he scaled the walls by night and armed with a piece of wire and a twig, hooked out indiscriminately puff and adders and cobras, deftly gripped the reptiles by the throat and transferred them to a pillowcase. The booty was sold to the museum director as usual.

After two or three months of these practices, however, it was noticed that, despite constant purchases, the number of snakes in the snake park did not increase. A watch was set and the boys' ingenious thefts discovered. The robbers were captured, their reward being birchings and, in poor Jimmy's case, the reformatory.

TEACHERS IN MEXICO WIN PENSION ROW

Calles's Decree Affects Thousands of Instructors Throughout Nation

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—President Calles has issued a decree, which vitally affects thousands of school-teachers who were strikers for five months during the administration of President Carranza, and which allows them just recognition of pension claims, which would otherwise have been lost had not the law been modified.

The President in his decree declared he had considered the arguments advanced by the secretariats of Public Education and Treasury favoring granting pensions to the strikers in 1916, since it was a special case. The strike affected practically all teachers in the nation for more than five months, which under the existing law, which said that if they remained out of work for more than three months, their pension petitions were of no value.

After a determined time of service the teacher reaches the age of 45 to 55 years, he is entitled to a pension, whose benefits may be applied on payment of debts. President Calles, in making the decree, which has already entered into operation, declared he did not believe the instructors affected by the strike should be subjected to the deprivation of rights to pensions.

Farmer Chooses Fatal Vehicle

BERLIN, Sept. 18. (AP)—Heinrich Jerxsen, aged 72, farmer of Harsleben in Saxony, was obliged to make a journey, but waited three hours for a horse wagon rather than trust himself to the local motor bus, which he said was a dangerous contraption. The horse of the wagon bolted and Jerxsen was thrown out and killed instantly.

REPORT ON LOSS TO MEXICANS IN FLOOD

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—More than 8000 Mexicans suffered either by loss of their property or positions as a result of the recent flood of the Mississippi River, according to an official report from Mexican Consuls in the United States to the Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor. Most of those affected resided in the cotton-growing districts, the report said.

PRISON CAMPS INSPECTED

Traeger Declares Success of Honor System for First Offenders Established

Concluding a personal inspection of the four county prison camps yesterday, Sheriff Traeger announced he is firmly convinced that the honor system inaugurated among the prisoners has passed the experimental stage and is now an established success.

Since April, 1921, when the first detention camp was created on the Rindge ranch in the Malibou Mountains, and especially during the last fiscal year, when only two honor prisoners have escaped from the prison farms, it has been proved that these first-time losers can be trusted, the Sheriff declared.

PAY SAVED FOR THEM

"These camps are better for the prisoner as well as for the taxpayer, for instead of being cooped up in the County Jail they are out in the open building county roads that otherwise might not be completed for ten years," Sheriff Traeger said.

"Though a rigid discipline is maintained at the four camps no particular effort is extended to guard the prisoners, all of whom are serving sentences for their first offenses. The prisoners are obliged to work on county roads, receiving 50 cents a day as compensation. Each prisoner is permitted to draw $3 per month for tobacco money and recreation, and any sums beyond that is retained by the county until the man is released from custody, when it is given to him to finance his new start in life."

With creation of the contact office in charge of Col. Robert E. Frith, former prohibition administrator for Southern California and Arizona, the honor system has reached a high degree of perfection, Traeger stated.

WALK INTO JOBS

Since June 15, last, when the department was inaugurated, a total of seventy-two prisoners have been given jobs on their release from jail. Col. Frith declared that due to the fine co-operative spirit of a number of large Los Angeles firms these prisoners have walked into waiting jobs as soon as their time has been served in the road camps.

The county camps are located in San Antonio Canyon on the road to Mt. Baldy, No. 2 in the central part of the Big Pines Park, No. 4 at the mouth of Little Dalton Canyon, and No. 1 in the Big Pines Recreation Park in the Sierra Madre Mountains.

Sheriff Traeger announced yesterday that he is considering the creation of several other prison camps in the near future, one perhaps for women prisoners.

On the inspection tour he was accompanied by Col. Frith, B. A. Dixon and James Richardson, assistant contact officers, and Capt. Fred Starkey, director of the prison camp.

TWO HIT-RUN CARS PICK ONE VICTIM

Father of Three Run Over by Second Car After First Knocked Him Down

Louis Tirre, 115 Grant Place, Glendale, father of three children, died in the Burbank Hospital last night from injuries received when he was struck by two hit-and-run drivers within a few yards of the O. K. Daniels grocery store at 2013 San Fernando Road.

According to the proprietor of the grocery store, who witnessed the accident, Tirre was struck by the first of two cars, traveling at a high rate of speed, as he was crossing the boulevard. The first car, Daniels told the Burbank police officers, carried Tirre almost 200 feet down the road, and that, while the injured man was on his hands and knees attempting to crawl out of the way, the second car ran over him. Neither car, Daniels asserted, slackened its speed after striking Tirre.

Tirre, the officers learned, left his family at 8 o'clock to go to a grocery store to buy provisions for the next morning's breakfast. He had no letters of identification on him when picked up and his identification was not established until the officers located his home.

A passing motorist took the injured man to the hospital, and his family was taken to his bedside by friends. He died within an hour after the accident. The Tirre home in Glendale is just across the line from Burbank.

Thomas Higgins, 55 years of age, of 6222 Ruby street, received a possible fracture of the skull last night when his car collided with that driven by G. F. West, 285 Congress street, Pasadena, at Sycamore Park and Pasadena avenue. Higgins was taken to the General Hospital, where it was said his condition is critical.

Witnesses of the accident reported to the Pasadena police that Higgins was driving his car too far on the left-hand side of the street and that West was unable to avoid the collision.

White Woman's Japanese Mate Kills Himself

Because his wife, a white woman, to whom he had been secretly married for twelve years, would not recognise him as her husband before her white friends, George Mochijuki, a Japanese, 40 years of age, who lived at 144 East Seventy-sixth street, last night ended his life by slashing both wrists and his throat.

Mochijuki left two notes, one to the hotel where he worked and the other to his wife. In the note to his wife he said he could not longer bear her refusal to recognise him as her husband before her white friends.

MEXICAN AIR PILOT RAISED TO CAPTAIN

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Emilio Carranza, one of the best Mexican air pilots, who recently established a nonstop flight record for the republic when he flew from this city to Juarez, has been raised from a lieutenant to a captain in the aviation department of the army and has received several decorations from the Federal government in token of reward.

FUEL FOR PRESS

ENNIS (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) The press wields greater influence than the pulpit, in the opinion of members of the Ennis W.C.T.U. In a general discussion here the organization decided that newspapers reach more people, reach them oftener and give both sides of the question, leaving the reader to form his own conclusions.

FORUM FOR YOUTH HAS PREMIERE

Congregational Church Inaugurates Discussion of Timely Subjects

Attended by the largest evening audience in six months, the youth forum movement was launched at the Wilshire Boulevard Congregational Church last night. Dr. Frank Dyer, pastor, presided over the meeting, which had as its subject Judge Lindsey's recent article on "Companionate Marriage."

Dr. Dyer reported that the youth forum took splendidly with the audience, there being keen interest among the young people present in the establishment of the movement. It is the plan to give over the evening service to the discussion of problems of youth during the current school year. Several judges were present, according to Dr. Dyer, and other students of public questions attended.

Dr. Dyer listed the causes for Judge Lindsey's article and next Sunday will reply to the proposal of "Companionate Marriage." At the invitation of the pastor those present handed in their preference of subjects for the Sundays to come. The young people of the audience will select the topics for discussion after next Sunday's program. A student council of 100 is being formed and many signed up for the organization last night, Dr. Dyer stated.

A. R. PECK SUCCUMBS TO STROKE

Headed Anaheim Sugar and Aldrich Land Companies; Body Sent East

Arthur R. Peck, 65 years of age, president of the Anaheim Sugar Company and the Aldrich Land Company, died last night at his home, 455 South Irving Boulevard. Mr. Peck had been ill for two months, but his death resulted from a paralytic stroke with which he was seized yesterday.

The deceased was born in Ontario, Can., and before coming to Los Angeles fifteen years ago lived in Syracuse, N. Y. He was married in Syracuse in 1893 to Miss Carrie Aldrich, who survives. There is one son, Aldrich Peck of this city.

Arrangements for funeral services here have not been completed but the body will be sent to Syracuse, N. Y. for burial.

Jewish Burial Plot Dedicated at Ceremonies

Dedicatory services were conducted at a new Hollywood Jewish cemetery, a large acreage in Hollywood Cemetery, at noon yesterday by representatives of reform, conservative and orthodox congregations in the presence of a large gathering.

Dr. Maurice Smith introduced Aaron Rich as chairman of the services. Rabbi Ernest Trattner of City Temple read a dedicatory prayer and explained its meaning. Rabbi Joseph Jasin of Temple B'nai Israel of Pasadena, spoke on "Consecration."

Cantor Kars of Temple Talmud Torah, sang "I Shall Not Die, But I Shall Live," a selection from the Hebrew chants, while S. M. Fineshe of Temple Talmud Torah, made the concluding address, stressing the importance of the occasion and after formally dedicating the new cemetery, pronouncing a blessing on it.

Harry Johnson Funeral Service for Wednesday

Funeral services for Harry G. Johnston, former deputy county clerk, former secretary to the Board of Education, and secretary to former Chief of Police Glass, will be conducted Wednesday at Hollenbeck Masonic Hall. Burial will be at Forest Lawn.

Mr. Johnson, who was 55 years of age, died Saturday of heart disease. He had lived in Los Angeles since 1883. For the past twelve years he has been with the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation.

He leaves his father, Peter Johnson, a son, George L. Johnson, two sisters, Mrs. F. E. Health and Mabel C. Johnson, and a brother, Frank W. Johnson.

IMPROVEMENT URGED

Property owners have petitioned the City Council to start proceedings for the improvement of the extension of Tamsen street and Glencoke Boulevard from the westerly city limits of Burbank to the northerly limits of Los Angeles.

EXTENSION CLASSES WILL START TONIGHT

Classes in salesmanship, French, Spanish, interior decorating, law relating to real estate, practice in correct writing and speaking and more than thirty others are on the schedule for tonight's opening of fall courses at the extension division, university of California, in the Hillstreet Building.

Two hundred and five instructors chosen from the faculty of the University of California at Los Angeles and from business and professional ranks in the city are on the staff this year.

WIDENING MAP FILED

City Engineer Shaw has filed with the City Council the map of the district to be assessed for the widening of Crenshaw Boulevard from Wilshire Boulevard to Country Club Drive.

SAFER HIGHWAY IDEAS SOUGHT

Road Builders Offer $1000 for Suggestions

Stage Campaign to Reduce Accident Figures

Year's Toll 25,302 Killed 759,060 Injured

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Prizes totaling $1000 were offered today by the American Road Builders' Association for the best ideas for reducing the number of highway accidents occurring each year. The contest, which is being held in connection with a national safety campaign, is open to everyone. It will close midnight November 15.

More than 114,000 persons have been killed and nearly 3,500,000 injured during the past five years as a result of highway accidents, the association stated in explaining the need of such a campaign.

Last year the accidents toll was 25,302 killed and 759,060 injured, and the economic loss resulting from accidents was $638,875,500.

First prize in the contest is $500. There will be nine other prizes, totalling $500. The awards are offered for "the best workable plan that will decrease street and highway accidents."

Winners will be announced in the press and by radio January 11, 1928, during the annual convention and road show of the association in Cleveland January 9 to 13. A report compiled from the ideas submitted for the contest will be presented to the convention.

Electricity in Los Angeles

No. 1.
[A Bit of History]

Since 1882

SEVEN lighting "masts," 150 feet high and each bearing several arc lamps, provided the first electric service in Los Angeles. That was forty-five years ago—in 1882—when the city had 12,000 population and centered about the Plaza. Horse cars ran on unpaved, gas-lit streets. The telephone had just come into use; and you could buy a 40 by 140 foot lot on Main street, about where the Rosslyn Hotel now stands, for from $300 to $1300.

Original Electric Plant of The Los Angeles Electric Company at Banning and Alameda Streets. Built 1882. Capacity 600 Horsepower.

It was The Los Angeles Electric Company, organized by five venturesome men, with a capitalization of $150,000, which provided this first electric service.

This organization still lives in the electric branch of Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation. It now has millions invested in electric plants and equipment, and serves 140,000 electric consumers through two generating plants, 19 substations of various sorts, and more than 6600 miles of main overhead and underground wire.

Today, electricity is used for light, heat and power, and applied to every phase of the city's social, commercial and industrial activities—stores, hotels, office buildings, hospitals, apartment houses, transportation, communication, and manufacturing of every sort.

The L. A. Service organization is still dedicated to the electrical service of the community.

In a series of newspaper statements to follow, illustrations will be given of the actual application of electricity to the processes and operations of Los Angeles firms and institutions.

FUNDS NEEDED IN UNION FIGHT

Monterey American Plan Forces Fear Violence

Guards Necessary to Prevent "Slugger" Attacks

Open-Shop Battle Nearing Acute Stage

MONTEREY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Facing possible violence from union labor agitators seeking to prevent contractors and industrial organizations from becoming 100 per cent sponsors of open-shop principles, the Industrial Association of Monterey County is urgently in need of funds for protective purposes, it was admitted today by W. A. Edwards, secretary.

Expenses incidental to the organization of the association and its maintenance during a period of threats against nonunion workers have mounted so that only a small balance is left to meet the impending expense of guards needed to prevent feared attacks on open-shop workers.

UNIONS ASK FUNDS

Information has reached Secretary Edwards that Joe Marshall, vice-president of the Hod Carriers' Union local of San Francisco has wired international headquarters to determine if funds will be forthcoming from that organization for a finish fight with American Plan sponsors in Monterey county. Whether or not the international has approved the budget is not definitely known. It is believed that favorable action either has been taken or is imminent because of an influx in the last few days of men of the "slugger" type of labor dominance.

One of these is under a pending indictment in San Francisco county charging assault in connection with disorders there while union carpenters were on strike last winter. He is a brother of a man under indictment for murder in connection with the beating, to death of MacIvan Campbell, a San Francisco nonunion carpenter, last October, and who awaits trial on the accusation. Another is international representative of the pile-drivers' union and former agent of Local No. 94, San Francisco.

CRISIS NEARING

Chiefs of Police of Monterey, Carmel and Pacific Grove have assured officials of the Industrial Association that every resource of their departments will be invoked to maintain law and order. They, however, have only limited staffs and a definite financial budget and officers of the Industrial Association believe it advisable to finance the maintenance of special deputies.

Picketing, in its usual form, has been carried on by representatives of labor organizations ever since the Industrial Association was formed and began operation of the American Plan on August 22, last. Conditions now have reached the stage where they will shortly become acute, it is believed, and additional finances will be imperative.

ANALYZES VOTE IN NATION

National League's First Vice-President Says Unused Ballot Most Dangerous

OLD LYME (Ct.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The most dangerous vote in this country is the vote that is not used. So says Miss Katharine Ludington of Old Lyme, Ct., who as first vice-president of the National League of Women Voters, has analyzed the vote situation in the United States.

"Perhaps if we would focus our attention less on some vaguely 'dangerous vote' and more on the indifferent voter, we might come to grips with one of the actual dangers to the working of democracy," Miss Ludington pointed out.

"The fact that voters must have some comprehension of public questions and must take part in settling them is the vitalizing challenge of democracy—but it is also its danger. We have set up, here in the United States, a remarkable experiment in representative government.

FORGET ABOUT VOTERS

"The best brains of the past and the present have been expended on making the system perfect and on getting the right men to administer it. Recently there have been signs that we are dimly recognizing a third factor in the situation. We are realizing the part that must be played by the electorate from whom all power derives and by whom, in the last analysis, all questions are settled.

"No system of self-government can work if we neglect the 'selves' who work it. And yet, curiously enough, in educating the inhabitants of this country, the last consideration seems are naturalized citizens and if they to have been that these inhabitants are voters. Whatever else they may be, after 21 they are voters if they are not in prison. It is as inevitable as death or taxes!

"You puzzle and ponder how to direct your boy's or your girl's education—whether to train him or her as a teacher, a business man, a minister, a lawyer, a home maker—you are uncertain what he or she may turn out to be. Has it ever occurred to you that whatever else they may be they are dead sure to be voters?"

LEAGUE'S WORK

In discussing the work of the League of Women Voters, which is concerned with bringing voters "into realistic touch with public questions, and training them in habits of independent and responsible thinking," Miss Ludington made know the following principles, which govern the scope and character of league work:

Voters must be trained to function if democracy is to succeed or even to survive; methods for training voters must be found which will catch and hold the indifferent and which will realistically train for the actual and pressing needs of everyday citizenship; if we make democracy succeed we need fear neither reaction nor social revolution.

In addressing itself to this problem of the electorate, Miss Ludington voiced the league's belief that it is meeting this responsibility, and that "however tentatively and gropingly, it is making a genuine contribution to democratic method and practice."

SERVANTS IN AMERICA AID KIN AT HOME

Irish Send Relatives Living in County Kerry $150,000 Per Week

TRALEE (Ireland) Sept. 18. (AP)—Irish cooks and servants in America send almost $150,000 a week to their families in this poor county of Ireland, it is estimated.

Since the Republican war ravished the county several years ago many families have had to depend entirely for support on daughters or sons in America. Thirty per cent of the Kerry county population is poverty stricken, according to a recent survey.

Kerry county girls are said to make the best household servants in the United States.

This summer many sons and daughters have returned home some to marry and resettle in Ireland, preferring the lazy quiet of the bog country to the bustle of cities.

REDISTRICTING CASE UP TODAY

Referendum Mandamus on for Court Hearing

Senator Boggs Contends Petitions Incomplete

Friends and Foes of Measure Gather at Capital

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Legislative reapportionment proponents and opponents will meet in the Superior Court here tomorrow afternoon to continue the fight for and against the referendum that has been filed against the measure enacted by the last Legislature to carry into effect the Farm Bureau redistricting plan approved by the voters last November.

Senator Boggs of Stockton, author of the redistricting law, has filed a mandamus suit against Secretary of State Jordan to prevent him from certifying as to the sufficiency of the referendum petitions certified to him by the county clerks and registrars of voters in Los Angeles, Alameda, San Francisco and Santa Clara counties. This hearing is set for 2 o'clock before Superior Judge Shields.

Senator Boggs asserts that many of the signatures on the petition are incomplete in that the signers did not add the dates of their signatures. On some petitions the dates were filled in by other persons than the signers, he asserts, and also says that if these asserted irregularities are sufficient to invalidate the signatures there will be insufficient names to halt the redistricting movement.

Under the law 57,206 signatures are required. More than 77,000 names were certified by the registrars and clerks, but Boggs holds that there are less than 50,000 complete signatures or less than the number required to tie up the law until it can be voted on in 1928.

Unions Boycott San Jose Paper

SAN JOSE, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The Mercury-Herald, a newspaper here, is boycotted by unions because its executives "dare" to begin construction of the paper's new plant with American-plan labor. Rather than causing concern the action tends to establish more firmly the principles of the American plan in San Jose and Santa Clara county at large.

In the nearly six years the American plan has been in operation in Santa Clara county open-shop construction has aggregated more than twice the amount of union, or closed-shop construction, the figures running approximately $30,000,000 and $8,000,000. Analysis of comparative figures during the period reveals a steadily growing margin in favor of the American plan.

Monument for Famed Epicure

PARIS, Sept. 18. (AP)—Brillat-Savarin, the greatest epicure in history, is to have a monument—in a town called Belley. The seeming appropriateness of the site strikes only English-speaking peoples, however.

The monument to the man who gave France a cuisine that made her famous everywhere is to be inaugurated with great pomp and ceremony, with the Minister of Public Works, Andre Tardieu, in charge. Afterward there will be a gastronomic tombola, combining the best features of a barbecue and a first-class restaurant meal.

The architect of the monument is Vermare, who lives in Lyons, where the cuisine is supposed to be better than anywhere else in France, except, perhaps Alsace.

BIDS ADVERTISED ON TWO NEW LIGHTSHIPS

ONE WILL REPLACE VETERAN LONG IN USE OFF GOLDEN GATE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Both Pacific and Atlantic ship builders have been asked for bids on two lightships for the United States Lighthouse Service, one of which is to be stationed off San Francisco Harbor to replace the veteran that has been on duty there for the last thirty years.

The bids will be reopened in Washington on October 18. Pacific Coast builders have a margin of about $20,000 in their favor on the new San Francisco lightship because it is estimated it will cost that much to send the vessel from the east coast to its new station off the Golden Gate.

The new lightship will be 133 feet long with a draft of eleven feet, and will displace approximately 630 tons. They will be the first electrically propelled lightships to be put into service. Their powerful generators will be driven by four Diesel motors of four cylinders each. Unusually comfortable accommodations for the officers and crew have been specified and particular attention also has been given to the maintenance and the preparation of the food supply. Each lightship will be capable of maintaining itself without new supplies for an entire year. Extra large refrigerating plants will make this possible.

The new San Francisco lightship will be known as No. 100. It is replacing No. 70. It will be stationed at about the same place No. 70 now is anchored, eight and three-quarter miles due west from the Golden Gate in eighteen fathoms of water. Its light will be of 3000 candlepower capable of being seen at a distance of thirteen miles and will be approximately sixty feet above the water. It will be fitted also with a radio beacon and will have the usual 1000-pound fog bell and the large fog horn now found on lightships.

SAN JOSE SCHOOL TO OPEN DOORS TODAY

SAN JOSE, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Classes will open for the fall term in the new Notre Dame High School at Second and Reed streets tomorrow. The new structure, which is rapidly nearing completion, will provide accommodations for more than 500 pupils. The school has large and well-lighted class rooms, a spacious library and study hall. An entire wing of the building will be devoted to music and the secretarial departments.

CANADIAN ROWS 300 MILES BESIDE MODEL 2-FOOT YACHT

TORONTO (Ont.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The desire to bask in the white light of publicity has moved human beings to embark on strange enterprises, but one of the strangest accomplishments in search of a record ever to fall to the lot of this city came to light with the arrival here of Thomas Honey, a Montreal man.

Honey tied up at a wharf here and disembarked from a rowboat which he had propelled all the way from Montreal—a distance of 330 miles. The rowing feat in itself is of no consequence until one is told that Honey rowed all the way beside a model two-foot yacht.

The previous voyage of a model yacht was nine miles, according to statistics produced by the rower, and in setting out to set a new record he seems to have progressed a considerable distance past the old mark. Just what he hopes to obtain as a result of setting a new record for a sport of this nature Honey failed to mention, but he did say he had a royal time en route.

The only trouble he encountered was at Newcastle, Ont., where seals attacked his tiny ship in such large numbers as to halt progress. The seals swam around the mite craft in large numbers and many of them fastened themselves to the little boat. Honey resorted to using his oars and drove them off, but he was so exhausted that he had to pull to shore and hove to for the night. Although he would have the current in his favor on a return voyage, Honey expressed himself as content with his present record.

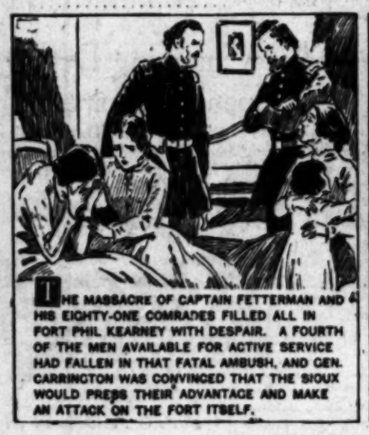
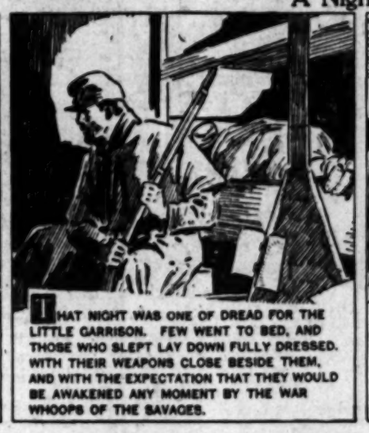
A Night of Dread.

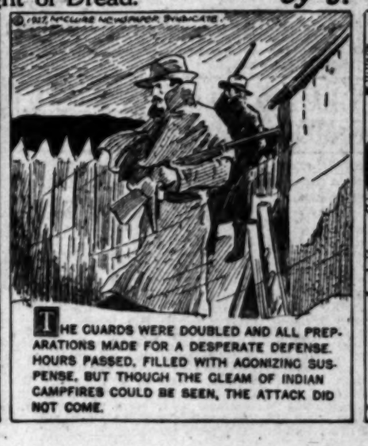
by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



THE MASSACRE OF CAPTAIN FETTERMAN AND HIS EIGHTY-ONE COMRADES FILLED ALL IN FORT PHIL KEARNEY WITH DESPAIR. A FOURTH OF THE MEN AVAILABLE FOR ACTIVE SERVICE HAD FALLEN IN THAT FATAL AMBUSH, AND GEN. CARRINGTON WAS CONVINCED THAT THE SIOUX WOULD PRESS THEIR ADVANTAGE AND MAKE AN ATTACK ON THE FORT ITSELF.



THAT NIGHT WAS ONE OF DREAD FOR THE LITTLE GARRISON. FEW WENT TO BED, AND THOSE WHO SLEPT LAY DOWN FULLY DRESSED. WITH THEIR WEAPONS CLOSE BESIDE THEM, AND WITH THE EXPECTATION THAT THEY WOULD BE AWAKENED ANY MOMENT BY THE WAR WHOOPS OF THE SAVAGES.



THE GUARDS WERE DOUBLED AND ALL PREPARATIONS MADE FOR A DESPERATE DEFENSE. HOURS PASSED, FILLED WITH AGONIZING SUSPENSE, BUT THOUGH THE GLEAM OF INDIAN CAMPFIRES COULD BE SEEN, THE ATTACK DID NOT COME.

FIX CONTRACT BRIDGE CODE

New York Whist Club Committeemen Set Rules of Play for Newly Popular Card Game

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Contract bridge, newly popular member of the whist family, now has an official code for the first time. The New York Whist Club, which for years has been the lawmaking body in America for auction bridge, is the sponsor of the new code. Ralph J. Liebenderfer, a well-known card expert and writer, has taken up the task of analyzing and explaining it. Mr. Liebenderfer's article on the new code, copyrighted by Auction Bridge Magazine, follows:

The Whist Club of New York has just completed and offered for publication its new code of laws for contract bridge. The committee in charge of this revision consisted of H. C. Richard, chairman; R. D. Little, H. S. Vanderbilt, C. C. Cadley and W. H. Talcott. At their request, a special committee of the Knickerbocker Whist Club, consisting of Ralph J. Leibenderfer, chairman; G. M. Scott, F. A. Wetzler and W. C. Whitehead, co-operated. The completed code has now been approved and adopted by both clubs; also by the Racket and Tennis Club, the Cavendish Club and the American Whist League.

The fact that the new code has been adopted by these prominent clubs makes it a certainty that it will receive national recognition. The main change in the code and one that makes it radically different from the contract bridge codes of Europe and South America, and from the code promulgated by the Knickerbocker Whist Club last January (now withdrawn) is the adoption of the Vanderbilt count, so-called because it was originated by Harold S. Vanderbilt, probably the best-known contract bridge player in the country and generally regarded as one of the game's leading experts. The Vanderbilt count changes the trick values of the suits, no trump and game to the following:

NEW VALUES

Clubs	20	points
Diamonds	20	"
Hearts	30	"
Spades	30	"
No trump	35	"
Game	100	"

From the foregoing table it will be evident that the number of tricks required to score game is exactly the same under the Vanderbilt count as in auction bridge. In other words the relative position of the minor and major suits and no trump is the same. There is one striking difference, however, and that is in the demotion of the diamond suit as a possible game scorer from an advanced score. For example, at auction bridge if you score three diamonds (twenty-one points) you are in a position to score game by making one odd either in spades or in no trump, but not so in contract bridge. Three diamonds (sixtypoints) plus one spade (thirty points) or one no trump (thirty-five points) no longer scores game. The result of this is to demote the diamond suit to a parity with the club suit as a game scorer from an advanced score.

It should be noted, however, that the diamond suit still takes precedence in the bidding (three diamonds is a higher bid than three clubs) so it is still the more valuable suit. As compensation for the demotion of the diamond suit as a possible game scorer from an advanced score, note the promotion of the heart and spade suits.

GAME TWO DEALS

It is now possible at contract bridge to go game in two deals if you score two no trumps (seventy points) on one deal and one heart or one spade (thirty points) on another. This is not true at auction bridge, as two no trumps (twenty points) plus one heart (eight points) or one spade (nine points) does not score game.

The next important change made by the new code is the bonus given for the winning game of a rubber. The winners of the first game of a rubber (either side) score no bonus, the same as in auction bridge. The winners of the second game of a rubber (two-game rubber only) score a bonus of 700 points. The winners of the second game of a rubber (three-game rubber) score a bonus of 500 points. Thus for the first time a difference is recognized and properly rewarded between a pair winning a rubber in two games and a pair winning a rubber in three games. It has always been the writer's opinion that a pair winning a two-game rubber is entitled to a greater rubber bonus than the pair winning two games out of three, and the present code has recognized that contention.

COMPLICATED SYSTEM

The various bonuses and penalties awarded for making contract, and failure to make contracts are too complicated to discuss in detail. The readers should study the annexed synopsis and commit the various bonuses and penalties to memory. As an aid until memorized, it is suggested that the synopsis be cut out and retained until such time as scoring becomes easy.

Contract bridge as a game is very similar to auction bridge and yet very dissimilar. Its three main differences may be summed up as follows:

FIRST DIFFERENCE

The declarer can score toward game only the number of tricks actually bid by him. That is, if the declarer bids two hearts and makes four, he can score only two, the number actually bid, toward game. The excess tricks are scored at fifty per trick in his honor-score. As a result of this rule, players must bid the maximum value of their hands. If they have good reason to believe that they can score game at a particular bid, they should be on the alert and bid the requisite number of tricks to score game. For example: The dealer bids one heart and second hand passes. If the dealer's partner holds a hand on which he could properly raise his partner's one heart bid once, he should bid two hearts; if he has two raises, he should bid three hearts and so on.

This duty or obligation to give his partner exact information as soon as possible as to the maximum helping value of his hand, is an absolute one, irrespective as to a bid or pass by second hand. If the dealer's partner has not a raise for his partner's bid and no justifiable bid of his own, he should pass, of course, as in auction bridge. One of the things for the novice to avoid at contract bridge is the take-out from weakness. Such a take-out is rarely of any value, for the weak character of the bid offers little chance for game and may be misread by the partner. For the same reason, original bids at contract bridge should be slightly stronger than at auction bridge. The necessity of trying for the maximum bid on every hand makes it more necessary than at auction bridge, that the original bids be absolutely sound and to be depended upon by partner.

SKILLFUL EXCEL

Players who can accurately value their hands and bid soundly should excel more at contract bridge than at auction bridge. The fundamental principles of bidding at contract bridge are the same as at auction bridge, although the strategy is essentially different, due to the necessity of bidding for game whenever possible.

If the dealer bids one heart, second hand passes and the dealer's partner raises the bid, the dealer is then in a position to determine whether or not he will make a game bid. If he has a much stronger hand than his original bid indicated, he should rebid and make a bold try for game. In this situation, however, the player should use good judgment, for the penalties at contract bridge are much higher than at auction bridge. For that reason, he should not allow a good hand to subject him to a big loss just because he thinks he ought to try for game. Figure out the tricks in your own hand, plus the ones shown by your partner's raise, and if the total shows enough for game, make the bid.

STRATEGY OF GAME

The proper strategy of the opponents is rather difficult to sum up in a few words, for it largely depends on the nature of the original bid and particularly on the support shown by the partner of the original bidder. For example: Suppose the dealer bids one heart. Second hand should consider two things: first, is there a bid in my hand that justifies a try for game with average support by partner? If the answer to this question is in the affirmative, second hand should make the bid, but not otherwise. Second hand should pass much more often at contract bridge than at auction bridge and when he does bid, the bid should indicate considerable strength and a chance for game.

If second hand passes the one heart bid and third hand bids two hearts, fourth hand is in a dangerous position. If he has a justifiable bid, he should make it at once for two reasons: First, because the dealer and his partner have indicated a possible game hand, and a defensive bid must be made then or not at all, and second: to indicate a lead to his partner if the dealer wins the final bid. The necessity of saving game in contract bridge is even more important than at auction bridge, so a bid to indicate the proper lead should be made whenever possible. Bids indicating leads should also be made whenever a double or a bid for a slam is possible. The bonuses for rubbers and slams are now so great that every possible defense should be utilized, if and whenever justified.

SECOND DIFFERENCE

"Vulnerable" or danger zone—A side becomes vulnerable when it has won a game, and from then on is subject to double penalties for failure to make its bids. This novelty has been brought into the game to equalize, to a certain extent, the advantage one side has over the side which has yet to win a game. The double penalties for overbidding are supposed to deter the side ahead from bold tries for game. As a matter of fact, however, such a result is seldom attained. The extra bonuses awarded the vulnerable side seem to offset the greater penalties.

When both sides have won a game both become "vulnerable" and from then on the rubber game is an exciting battle. There is a bonus of 500 or 700 points for the side winning two games or the rubber. These large bonuses naturally make the rubber value much higher than at auction bridge and therefore also make much higher the justifiable penalties incurred in the effort to save the rubber game. All of these points and many more arise at Contract Bridge and make it most novel and interesting.

THIRD DIFFERENCE

The large bonuses awarded for the bidding and making of a little and grand slam, make these events of momentous importance and, therefore, a distinct departure from auction bridge. If a little slam is bid and made, the successful side scores 500 points, and if it has won a game and is therefore "vulnerable," this bonus is increased to 750 points. In the case of a grand slam, the successful side scores 1000 points, or 1500 points if "vulnerable." As a result of these large bonuses, "slam bidding" has become one of the important features of the game. Slams, of course, are seldom possible through the cards held by any one player but result from a happy combination of the two hands, combinations, either of high cards, or of cross-ruffs that make up for the lack of high cards. For that reason slams should not be considered in the initial stages of the bidding but their possibility should always be in the background.

Once a side, by proper bidding, has assured itself of game, each partner should be on the alert for a possible slam. Remember, however, that if you bid a slam and cannot make it, (though sure of game, and possible rubber with their large bonuses at a lower bid) you should not gamble the sure thing for the possible. On the other hand, do not let overcautiousness prevent you from gaining the big slam premiums if the combined hands of yourself and partner warrant the bid.

In conclusion, if you want to become a good contract bridge player, study valuation and the fundamentals of auction bridge until you know them thoroughly. You will need them more to excel in contract bridge than in auction bridge. And, remember, contract bridge is not a different game from auction bridge. It is only an additional feature to add zest and excitement to the regular game.

Synopsis of "The Laws of Contract Bridge 1927," as adopted by The Whist Club, New York, September 15, 1927.

TRICK VALUES

No Trump, 35; Spades, 30; Hearts, 30; Diamonds, 20; Clubs, 20; Doubling doubles trick values. Redoubling multiplies them by four.

RANK OF BIDS

A bid of a greater number of tricks ranks higher than a bid of a lesser number. When two bids are of the same number, they rank: No Trump, Spades, Hearts, Diamonds, Clubs.

GAME

A game is won when one side makes a trick-score of 100 or more points. Of the tricks made, only those contracted for are scored in the trick-score. All extra tricks (tricks made over and above those contracted for) are scored in the honor-score.

RUBBER

VULNERABLE

After a side wins one game it becomes "vulnerable." Until a side wins a game it is "not vulnerable."

PREMIUMS

All premiums are scored in the honor-score and are classified as follows:

Honors:
4 in one hand	100 points
5 in one hand	150 points
4 Aces in one hand in No Trump	150 points
All other	None

Final game of rubber (if a two-game rubber)	700 points
Final game of rubber (if a three-game rubber)	500 points
Other games	No bonus
Making Contract:
If Undoubled	Nothing
If Doubled
(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable)	50 points
(When Declarer is Vulnerable)	100 points
Extra Tricks:
If Undoubled	Per Trick
(When Declarer is Vulnerable or Not Vulnerable)	50 points
If Doubled
(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable)	100 points
(When Declarer is Vulnerable)	200 points
Slams Bid and Made:
Little Slam
(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable)	500 points
(When Declarer is Vulnerable)	750 points
Grand Slam
(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable)	1000 points
(When Declarer is Vulnerable)	1500 points
Unbid Slams Made	Nothing

Slam premiums are additional to all other premiums.

Doubling and redoubling do not alter Slam premiums.

PENALTIES

Undertricks (Scored in Adversaries' Honor-Score):

If Undoubled
(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable) per trick	50 points
(When Declarer is Vulnerable) for first trick	100 points
for each subsequent trick	200 points

(When Declarer is Not Vulnerable)
100 points per trick first two tricks.
200 points per trick for third and fourth tricks.
400 points per trick for subsequent tricks.
(When Declarer is Vulnerable)
200 points for the first trick.
400 points per trick for subsequent tricks.
Redoubling:
Doubles the doubled premiums and penalties.

Doubling and redoubling do not affect the premium for games, Slams and honors or the undertrick honor-score penalty.

REVOKE

The revoke penalty for either side is the loss of two tricks for any player's first revoke. 100 points additional penalty for each subsequent revoke.

Inventors of a new type of standard for high jumping, which eliminates any pegs above the cross bar, claim that it removes all mental hazard for the athletes.

ORATORY PARTY LANDS IN EAST

Finalists in New York After Voyage Over Atlantic

Representatives of America and Europe in Group

All Ready for Capital Contest October 14, Next

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18. (Exclusive) International Oratorical contest finalists, representing England, France and Mexico, arrived in New York Saturday with Randolph Leigh, director of the national and international oratorical contests, and the seven national finalists of the United States, aboard the S. S. President Roosevelt. The party spent the week-end in New York, terminating the summer tour of Europe provided the American national finalists, and initiating the month visit of the international finalists in this country, the conclusion of which will be the second international oratorical contest to be conducted in the Washington auditorium, Washington, on October 14, next.

Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to the United States, will deliver an address at the contest, which will be presided over by John Hays Hammond and at which the contestants will represent England, France, Canada, Mexico and the United States. The finalists will speak in their own languages upon their own governmental institutions, as follows:

ROSTER OF FINALISTS

For the United States: Miss Dorothy Carlson, 17 years of age, senior of East Side High School, Salt Lake City, Utah; subject—"What the Constitution Should Mean to an American Citizen."

For France: Georges Guiot-Guillain, 18, student of the second class at the College of St. Claude, Jura, France; subject—"French Culture as a World Asset."

For Canada: Frederick P. Hotson, 16, student of Continuation School, Tavistock, Ont.; subject—"Canada's Diamond Jubilee: Her Accomplishments Since Confederation."

For England: James Keith Watson, 18, student of Ilkley Grammar School, Wharfdale, Yorkshire, Eng.; Subject —"England's Contribution to Constitutional Government."

For Mexico: Arturo Garcia Formentis, 19, senior of National University law school, Mexico City; subject —"Pan-Americanism or Latin-Americanism?"

LAST YEAR'S CONTEST

In the international contest last year, which was the first, William Meades Newton, of the Holt Secondary School, Liverpool, represented England; Maxime Raymond Puel of the Lycee Henri Poincare, Nancy, represented France; Herbert Marus of Oakwood High School, Toronto, represented Canada; Jose Munoz Cota of the National Preparatory School, Mexico City, represented Mexico, and Herbert Wenig, of the Hollywood High School, California, represented the United States.

The meeting was presided over by President Coolidge and was attended by an audience of approximately 8000 people. The international champion each year receives a handsome silver loving cup. The judges are multi-linguists capable of passing upon all of the speakers in their native tongues. At the international finals last year the five judges were from five different nations. The same general policy will be followed this year.

MARQUETTE BIBLE DATED VENICE, 1482

Guarded Trophy Bound With Wood Property of University Library

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 18. (AP)—A two-volume edition of the Old Testament which antedates by ten years Christopher Columbus's discovery of America is a guarded trophy of the Marquette University library.

The books were printed in Venice in 1482 by Heuner de Heilbrun, and the yellowed pages, bound between wooden covers—worm-eaten and broken are in the custody of the Rev. Hugh Finnegan, 84-year-old librarian of the university.

The text occupies a small portion of the printed pages. In the margins are extensive commentaries written by Nicholaus de Lyra, famous teacher and doctor of theology in Paris. On the flyleaf appears the inscription in Latin: "This book belongs to Peter Felgi, gotten on the 7th day of October, 1616."

ENGINEER HAPPY TO GET BACK WHISTLE

HOUSTON (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Hugo Rich, veteran engineer, forty-three years on the Sunshine Special of the Missouri Pacific Railway, has his own private whistle back again. In 1922 the president of the Lackawanna Railroad gave him a whistle for his locomotive. Recently Rich was transferred to one of the newest of the Missouri Pacific's locomotives. He was proud of his new engine but missed his old whistle. Vice-president Safford heard of the case and had the whistle transferred to Rich's new engine. And now Rich is happy.

"Times" Daily Short Story

Seventy-seven's Coward

By Arthur Stanley Riggs

"Seventy-seven! Seventy-seven! Come on in!"

PATRICK lay miserably on his cot in Engine Seventy-Seven's quarters, trying to be a man; but it was no use. He had flinched—not at a fire, not from danger of the terrible sort that fascinated him, but before a mere runaway horse, and the man he might have saved lay in the Morgue. Try as he might, the boy could not forget the silence with which the men had greeted him on his return to quarters, the story having somehow preceded him.

"I was off duty! I was off duty!" he kept whispering to himself, vainly attempting to crush the sense of cowardice that filled him with shame. He could never hold up his head again—the disgraceful tale would go the rounds of every fire-house in the city. Grim and severe, Seventy-Seven's captain had said nothing to the new man—merely stared at him savagely; but the wordless contempt of a veteran who twice had been medaled for heroism ate into the sturdy young Irishman's soul.

Banging out its imperious call, the great gong at the desk below cut short his agony. Instantly the sleepy house was alive. Men sprang to the pole and shot through the floor to the engine. The horses were in their places, pawing and eager. Quick-hands snapped the harness fast, the engineer fired his oil-soaked kindlings, the driver caught up the reins and engine and tender rolled out together, red-headed Patrick clinging with one hand to the rail of the tender as he pulled on his boots and rubber coat with the other. Above him, on the accurately piled hose, straddled the captain, cursing the hot weather, the slippery asphalt, and fires generally, his white mustache all a bristle, his blue eyes hard.

Shrill and terrifying, the whistle demanded right of way as Seventy-Seven thundered down the avenue, her three splendid grays at a panting gallop. Through a side street the crew could hear Fifty-Four's whistle, and knew that she too, was clamoring and straining for first place at the dangerous turn a block ahead.

"Hit it up, Tom!" yelled the captain. "We can make it."

Leaning forward with cutting lash and pleading voice, the intrepid driver answered by urging the plunging team on, and Seventy-Seven took the corner on two wheels. Fifty-Four's horses nosing the men on the flying tender.

Just ahead the fire roared through the roof of a large paint store, menacing a restaurant on one side and a wholesale chemist's at the other. Already the battalion chief had rung in a second and a third alarm, and for blocks the city thrilled to the wild shriek of the racing engines.

Seventy-Seven halted beside the nearest hydrant, and before the chief could give an order the coupling was made smartly, hose led out, and the nozzle men staggered toward the inferno with their heavy line, Patrick and the other pipemen dragging the weight of the writhing hose behind. The boy's eyes widened as he gazed at the belching fury before him, thought of the watching thousands behind, for the noon-hour crowd had gathered like magic. Recruit that he was, he knew he was experiencing his first great conflagration, and shivered as he wondered disgustedly if he would flinch here as he had flinched at smaller peril.

A hatless man rushed excitedly to the battalion chief, who instantly rang in two more alarms, and running forward, began shouting, waving to the men, who could not hear anything but the gruff voice. Glancing quickly back as he helped with the hose, Patrick saw his captain beside him, white as paper, and felt the veteran's hand on his arm.

"Back, men! It's full o' chlorate! Back out! She'll go up in a minute!" the captain yelled, jerking each man as he shouted in his ear.

"The chemist shop, you mean?" roared Patrick.

No attention was paid to him, and he stood dumbly staring at the smoking drug-warehouse, from whose interior, though as yet scarcely fired, small explosions were already popping.

"Tons of it! Git back!" he heard the captain bellow at the nozzlemen, who dropped their brass tube and ran back. Fifty-Four's men sprang back, too. Up on the elevated structure the crew of a hook and ladder were rapidly picking their way to safety over the deadly third rail. Only Patrick stood immovable as comrades and commander dashed toward security. It was one of those rare moments when terror incarnate melts the hearts of the bravest; and notwithstanding their records for undaunted courage, both crews fled from the intangible spirit of fear.

"Come back, you fool!" roared the officer. "Can't do nothin' till she blows up. She'll go in a second!"

The boy looked around. Inside the fire-lines there was no one but the grizzled veteran and himself. The sudden panic had seized upon crews and crowd alike. His face brightened.

"I'm goin' in! You think I'm a coward, I'm goin' in! Help me git that nozzle!"

Furiously the captain struck at him, but Patrick dodged the blow and darted forward, his big frame suddenly endowed with berserker strength and determination. Turning, as he wrestled with the spouting serpent, he called to his comrades across the street:

"Seventy-Seven! Seventy-Seven! Come on in!"

Only the flames and a volley of terrifying little explosions answered him. Gritting his teeth, he fought with the hose, falling headlong as it suddenly flattened out with the cutting off of the water.

"Good old cap!" muttered the young recruit, jumping up and plunging desperately into the smoking cellar.

Across the way, the firemen watched enthralled as the pipeline writhed its way into the darkness inch by inch, until the staccato alarm of a gong proclaimed the arrival of the chief himself.

"What's this?" he demanded angrily, struggling into his white rubber coat.

Seventy-Seven's captain caught the battalion chief's sign, and told him.

"She's full o' chlorate—blow up any second—called back crews to—"

"Who's in there?"

"Only a recruit—first coward Seventy-Seven's ever had. Guess he didn't understand. Too risky to go after him now. Might lose my whole crew!"

"Coward!" exploded the chief. "Gimme an ax. Darn the chlorate! Turn on your water full there, Seventy-Seven. Come on boys, follow me!"

The panic was gone. With a yell the men sprang after the disappearing white coat and helmet and the bobbing lantern. A minute later, Patrick, deathly sick on the floor of the cellar as he lay face downward over the nozzle spouting a torrent against the barrels of chlorate of potash, upon which he had stumbled by mere luck, felt his heart leap as the lantern approached and he heard a muffled voice say:

"Good boy!"

While the ambulance surgeon worked over him on the sidewalk, the irate chief heard the whole story. The big man's face grew blacker and blacker as the uncomfortable captain told it, shifted his helmet uneasily, and waited.

"Do you know what would have happened if that chlorate had exploded?" the chief asked.

"No sir."

"Why don't you? It's your business to know! You, the oldest captain in the department! Report to me at headquarters after you wash down!"

Without a word the chief strode over to Patrick, his face still dark as the recruit struggled feebly to his feet and saluted.

"What is your name?"

"William Patrick, sir—Engine Seventy-Seven," hiccoughed the half-suffocated recruit.

"Don't you know you were a fool to disobey orders and go in there?"

"No, sir."

"Eh?"

"No, sir. I knew what would happen if she ever blew up," he said haltingly, as the crews of Seventy-Seven and Fifty-four gathered about in respectful curiosity, "an' I thought I could stop her. Was I wrong, sir?"

The entreaty in the lad's voice stirred the chief's tough old heart, and he made his voice very gruff to conceal its tremble.

"Wrong—no; it was the only thing to do. Report sick and go home for a day. You've done enough."

"Please, chief, I don't want to go home. I'd rather stay in the house!"

Gazing hard at the grimy, shame-faced heroes surrounding him, the chief laughed harshly.

"Anybody think bad o' the boy?"

"No sir!" shouted the crews in chorus.

"I got a vacancy, chief, an' if you'll let me have him, the boys'll be only too glad to have such a partner," broke in Fifty-Four's captain, extending his hand heartily to Patrick. "We need all the brave men we can get."

"D'ye hear, lad?" the chief asked kindly. "You're transferred, Fifty-Four, you're in luck!"

And both crews answered with a cheer, completing the mystification of the uncomfortable Patrick.

PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR R. GUERRERO
Del Departamento Español de "The Times"

En mi Plática anterior habrá hallado el lector estas erratas: "nunca esta otha" en vez de "nunca esta otra"; siete líneas más adelante dice "del 'mutuo'" por "de 'mutuo'", y seis líneas después, "ejemplod etan" por "ejemplo de tan".

Anuncié en mi lección precedente que habláría en ésta de la distinción entre "mutuo" y "recíproco". Es perfectamente aplicable al español lo que sobre los vocablos ingleses equivalentes dice H. W. Fowler en su "Dictionary of Modern English Usage":

"Mutuo" se refiere a una acción, actitud o sentimiento simultáneos de ambas partes; nunca a los de sólo una de las partes. De allí que sea correcto decir, "el odio mutuo de Juan y Pedro"; pero no "el odio mutuo de Juan para Pedro". Debemos decir, "el odio recíproco de Juan para Pedro".

"Recíproco" puede siempre usarse en lugar de "mutuo"; "el odio recíproco de Juan y Pedro" vale lo mismo que "el odio mutuo de Juan y Pedro", por más que en estos casos de sinonimia se prefiera "mutuo". En cambio, "mutuo" no puede substituir a "recíproco" cuando éste califica, como en el último ejemplo del párrafo anterior, la acción o sentimiento con que una de las partes corresponde a la otra: "el odio recíproco de Juan para Pedro".

"Recíproco" es, pues, útil para suplir las deficiencias de "mutuo". Si Juan le ha prestado un servicio a Pedro, podría decirle a éste con toda propiedad: "¿Puedo pedirte ahora un servicio recíproco?", y no "un servicio mutuo". Dos personas pueden prometerse mutua o recíproca protección (uso correcto y sinónimo de ambos adjetivos); pero si habla una sola de esas personas, no puede prometer a la otra "mutua", sino "recíproca" protección. En el siguiente pasaje del Presidente Wilson está correctamente usado "recíproca", y no podríamos reemplazarlo por "mutua":

"Espero que vuestro gobierno haya visto en los calurosos agasajos tributados a Su Alteza Real, la manifestación de la mistosa buena voluntad que la gente de los Estados Unidos profesa a la de Gran Bretaña. Y como creo en 'la amistad recíproca' del pueblo británico, mis propósitos en lo futuro serán, etc." Si el Presidente hubiera dicho, "la amistad recíproca de los dos pueblos", entonces sí podría haber empleado "mutua" en substitución de "recíproca"; aunque, a la verdad, en ese caso habría sido superfluo el uso de cualquiera de los dos, por cuanto la idea de amistad entraña la de mutualidad o reciprocidad.

Del Manual de Correspondencia de Fuentes y Elías tomo, para conocimiento y estudio de mis lectores, la carta siguiente, en la que una compañía manufacturera ofrece canoas:

Bradford, Maine, 5 de Abril de 1927.
Sres. Hijos de Alvear, S. en C.
Plaza Mayor, 16,
Managua, Nicaragua.
Muy Sres. nuestros:

Nos seguro enviarles en la presente el catálogo ilustrado de canoas que fabricamos, con los precios respectivos.

Una canoa en una quinta de recreo puede decirse que representa ese espíritu del siglo XX, que se manifiesta por la tendencia al retorno a la naturaleza, a la vida al aire libre. Esa clase de embarcación ofrece sobre las demás y sobre los vehículos modernos la inapreciable ventaja de que, una vez satisfecho el primer gasto, ya no hay que hacer desembolso alguno, y la de que el último modelo que se construye es exactamente igual al que se construyó diez años atrás, que a su vez está calcado sobre el que construyeron los indios, sin que jamás pase de moda, como sucede con los botes automóviles y con todos los demás vehículos de deporte, que muy pronto resultan anticuados.

Las canoas que salen de nuestros talleres son de lo más resistente y de lo más elegante que se fabrica. El costillaje y la tablazón son de cedro liso, sin nudos y sin la menor imperfección. La madera es de los bosques del Estado del Maine, la cual se distingue por su ligereza y elasticidad, al mismo tiempo que por su consistencia. Al doblaría por medio del vapor y al colocaría en los moldes conserva sin el menor esfuerzo la forma que quiere dársele.

La tablazón tiene el largo completo, y queda sujeta al costillaje por medio de sólidas clavijas de cobre. Las regalas y barandillas son de la mejor clase de abeto. Los asientos, los bancos de bogar y las cubiertas son de fresno, de abedul y de arce. Los asientos de proa y de popa son de rejilla, de quitaipón. Las ligazones por toda la canoa son de cobre, de latón y de hierro galvanizado. El casco de la embarcación se empapa en un aceite especial con el fin de hacerlo inatacable a la humedad. La quilla, de madera dura, abraza todo el lareo de la canoa.

Construímos canoas de lona con una buena capa de pintura especial para hacerlas impermeables, y también de caoba en las cubiertas, los bancos, la armazón de los asientos, y las barandillas. En las páginas 8 y 9 del catálogo hallarán Vds. los detalles de esa clase de embarcaciones.

En la confianza de vernos honrados con sus gratos pedidos, somos de Vds. afmos. y S. S.

IDEAL CANOE MFG. CO.

Tomando como base la redacción de la carta transcrita en mi Plática anterior, ruego a los estudiantes de español que escriban otra, dirigida a la National Boat Mfg. Co., 1245, Depot St., Salem, Ohio, y subscrita por don Julio Alvear, de Managua (Nicaragua), quien pide le sean remitidos catálogo, lista de precios, y descuentos correspondientes a diversos tipos de botes para cazar. Desea Alvear un barco con motor de dos tiempos y arranque automático; con casco de acero y cámaras neumáticas, que lo hagan insumergible. Ha tenido este señor muchos botes de madera; pero le han resultado inadecuados para aguas tropicales, porque se rajan y se abren en las uniones, y la carcoma, tan común en países cálidos, llega a agujerearles el casco. Acrega que escribió a la Ideal Canoe Mfg. Co., manifestándole que tenía interés por conocer una casa fabricante de embarcaciones metálicas, cualquiera que fuese su velocidad. La Ideal le recomendó a la National, y por tal motivo le dirige a ésta la presente carta. Termina con los cumplidos de costumbre.

MEXICO CITY DRIVES OUT CRIME ELEMENT

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Delinquency in the Federal District is at the lowest ebb in many years and there is no crime wave in existence there. The same rapid strides are being made in many sections of Mexico to rid the nation of professional criminals with surprising good results. This is the substance of a recent statement by Gen. Roberto Cruz, Chief of the Police in this city. Cruz pointed out he had been in office two years and when he assumed the position, he promised the residents that the city would be rid of crime and thoroughly cleansed. Today, Mexico City is enjoying one of its best periods of crime riddance.

For it is not apparent on the surface of things just why a gentleman of such high repute should sign a false name in approval of a contract which would bring him into partnership with a social, professional and moral inferior.

Substantially, the facts of the case which Mr. Dempsey now revives with such sinister implications are these:

A few days before the first Tunney-Dempsey prize fight, Mr. Will Gibson, manager of Mr. Tunney, appeared at Mr. Tunney's training cottage in Stroudsburg, Pa., accompanied CHICAGO (Ill.) Sept. 18.—With Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey virtually through their training, let's see how they measure up. I have put the tape measure on the champion and the challenger.

So far as size and weight are concerned, they appear evenly matched. Dempsey seemed to be stretching a bit when he was measured for height, in which he just matches Tunney, although Tunney looks slightly taller.

That's the amazing thing about the figures: they show these men to be almost identical in build and yet they appear entirely different. A casual observer would not guess them to be anywhere near even in anything except possibly height and weight. When you're with one, he

St. Louis Thumps Phillies Twice to Gain on Giants and Pirates; New York Splits Twin Bill

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Phillies were polished off in both games of a twin bill by the St. Louis Cards here today, 7 to 3, and 8 to 3, giving the world's champions three straight victories in the series.

In their clean sweep of today's double-header, the Cardinals gained a game on Pittsburgh and New York, working up to within a half-game of the latter.

Bottomley, the Cardinal first baseman, swatted a homer in both games, while Williams, the Philly right fielder shoved his home-run tally up to twenty-seven with a circuit drive in the opening game. Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran Cardinal twirler, pitched his twentieth victory in the first game. Scores:

SEALS AND STARS SPLIT

Hollywood Takes Eleven-Inning Nightcap, 3 to 2, After Losing Opener, 8 to 1

BY BOB RAY

After doing an 8-to-1 flop in the opener, Oscar Vitt's Hollywood Stars came back strong to battle the Seals all over the lot in the nightcap, which they eventually won in the eleventh inning, 3 to 2, after a thrilling struggle, to gain an even break in yesterday's twin bill at Wrigley Field.

While the first game wasn't such a much to look at, the finale was one of the best games played here this season. Young Tom Holley finally broke up the struggle in the eleventh inning, when, after Pat McNulty had opened up with a single, he tripled down the left-field line. Lefty O'Doul made a game try to cut down the hit to a double, but reached the ball just as it was skidding along the concrete base of the box seats and was unable to pick it up as it caromed along stands.

Holley's punch broke up a twirling duel between "Pinches" Kunz and Curt Fullerton, who had replaced Bud Teachout on the mound for the Stars in the fourth inning. Both Kunz and Fullerton were pulled out of and saved from several tight situations by the sensational support accorded by both sides. Joah Lowell, the young Hollywood first-sacker, came up with a couple of seemingly impossible plays, while Dud Lee and Chuck Gooch also fielded brilliantly. For the Seals young Donovan made a great catch of Heath's foul fly in the eighth, reaching over into the box seats to make the play, while Babe Pinelli and Andy Vargas also gave Kunz excellent support. However, both Pinelli and Vargas failed to last ti... game, the former being spiked by Lowell in the eighth and the latter retiring in the ninth when a foul tip from Sam Agnew's bat apparently ruined, for a while at least, the Seal catcher's right thumb.

A big kid... by the name of Glover volunteered to catch for the Seals and accorded the fans a lot of amusement by the veteran-like manner in which he

Bambino Leads Lou Gehrig by Nine Circuit Swats

Hoyt Wins Twenty-second Victory of Season

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Yankees took both games of today's double-header from the Chicago White Sox, 2 to 1, and 5 to 1, and now are within two games of new American League record for games won during a season. The Hugmen have won 104 contests and the league mark is 106 games, established by the Boston Red Sox in 1912.

Babe Ruth poled out his fifty-fourth home run of the season in the fifth inning of the second game. Ted Lyons was pitching, and Koenig was on base.

The Babe now is only five home runs behind his 1921 record and nine ahead of Lou Gehrig.

Pipgras had the better of Thomas in the first game, allowing the Sox only four hits. A double by Falk and a triple by Kamm saved Chicago from a shutout. Gehrig's triple and Lazzeri's sacrifice fly in the sixth sent home the winning run for the Yanks.

Waite Hoyt registered his twenty-second victory of the season in the second contest. The game was marked by six double plays, both infields turning three. The champions bunched their hits in the third and fifth innings for the victory. Scores:

TUNNEY LOOKS GREAT IN HIS LAST PUBLIC WORKOUT

LAKE VILLA (Ill.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Before a crowd of 4000 Sunday visitors, the largest that ever has watched him in training, Gene Tunney worked out today publicly for the last time before he steps into the ring with Jack Dempsey next Thursday night. It also was the last serious drill for the heavyweight champion, who will "coast" the rest of the way, engaging in a light workout before newspaper men only tomorrow and exercising Tuesday and Wednesday to add the final tuning-up touches.

The fighting marine impressed critics today with his fine condition, speed and boxing ability during a seven-round session. He belted the light bag for two rounds, boxed a pair with Jackie Williams and finished with three more against Billy Vidabeck.

Apparently "peeved" by the newspaper attack leveled at him under

Women Golf Stars Open Play in National Championship at Cherry Valley Tod

FRENCH CHAMP AFTER TITLE

Experts Name Los Angeles Woman as Favorite

Mrs. Stetson Not Expected to Defend Crown

Entrants Qualify 18 Holes This Morning

NEW YORK, Sept. 18. (AP)—Another "French athletic challenge against the United States is to be launched tomorrow when the field of 140 contenders for the women's national golf championship gets under way at the Cherry Valley Club, Garden City, N. Y.

Mlle. Simone De La Chaume, an 18-year-old French girl, whose iron play has greatly impressed American observers during her practice rounds, is regarded as one of the favorites likely to reach the final round of the tournament. Mlle. Chaume made her first bid for golfing greatness two years ago, when she carried Miss Glenna Collett to the thirty-fifth hole before going down to defeat in the French women's championship. She has improved steadily since then and this year annexed the women's championship in England and France.

With Mrs. G. Henry Stetson, the defending champion, playing below her game of 1926, critics were looking toward her possible dethronement, and out of the list of possibilities they have not yet found a more promising aspirant than the French girl.

The national women's championship never has left the United States. Six years ago it appeared that the trophy would be taken overseas, but the favored contender, Miss Cecile Leitch of England, who had annexed the British, French and Canadian titles in rapid succession, fell in the first round of match play to Mrs. Fred C. Letts, Jr., of Chicago.

Among those whose chances are liked this year are Mrs W. G. Fraser, formerly Miss Alexa Stirling of Canada; Miss Leitch; Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd and Mrs. Harry Pressler, western women's champion.

Upsets may come fast at Cherry Valley, for the course is a rugged one and will provide a championship test to the women golfers. Tomorrow's qualifying round will be eighteen holes and match play begins Tuesday. There will be thirty-two qualifiers. Among those paired in the qualifying round are Mrs. Seetson and Mrs. Fraser; Miss Chilett and Miss Dorothy Page of Madison, Wis.; Mlle. Chaume and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago; Mrs. Hurd and Miss Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J.; Mrs. Pressler and Miss Marie Jenney of Yonkers, N. Y.

first and maneuvered for position before he drove his fist t the mark.

He worked up a fair perspiration in this round and that took on Rocky Russell. Dempsey began in a boxing fashion but in a minute he began to let drive for the body and the head with a series of punches that Russell could not stand up under. After about a half a round Russell was stopped and Dave Shade went in to finish the round. Dave, of course, boxed Dempsey and Jack did not look so good against him. Dave made Dempsey miss several times.

Oak ... finished the sparring with Dempsey.

I have seen Till give a better workout than Jack got out of him in this last round of boxing. But even at that Dempsey was not able to connect like he should be able to connect with a man like Till against him.

Jack finished with a round of calisthenics. His movements in this were free and easy and though they did not seem to have that lithe power that I have noted in some of his fights.

Seated at the ringside was Jack Sharkey, over whom Dempsey scored a knockout in his last fight. When Dempsey spotted Sharkey he yelled over, "Hello, kid."

SHARKEY WATCHES DEMPSEY

"Hello, Jack," came back Sharkey. "I wish you all the luck in the ...rld."

Dempsey's work on the punching bag showed me that he undoubtedly plans to depend a great deal on that murderous left hook to the body. He shot this punch with his old accuracy. When he finished I went into the dressing room with him. Jerry the Greek said to me:

"The champ looks good, yes, Benny?"

"He looks good and strong, Jerry, but I though he was a little slow out there today."

"Well," he replied, "this fellow Tunney will look slower, Benny."

OBSERVATIONS

PITY the poor official. Particularly in the opening game of the football season. New rules are always difficult to interpret and everybody seems pretty well agreed that the 1927 brand of new rules is going to be particularly difficult. Apparently a whole lot is going to be left up to the discretion of the officials. From all we can hear if the Trojans are going to use the same double shift they used at the start of last season and in addition are going to have a backfield man in motion the officials are in for a busy afternoon.

Last year's Trojan shift was a tough baby to call, not so much because the players were likely to be offside, but chiefly because there was some question as to the number of men in the line of scrimmage at the time the ball was passed. This year, with a perceptible wait between the final jump and the actual passing of the ball, it will be easier to count the number of men in the line of scrimmage anyhow. The backfield man in motion isn't particularly new but it is very effective when used properly.

In our humble estimation it is going to be just about as funny watching the officials as it is watching the game. The new rules seem to be more susceptible to variations of interpretation than any previous new ones and the officials themselves, in their preseason meetings to discuss the regulations, haven't been able to agree very thoroughly. The chances are that most of the coaches all over the country will try pretty nearly everything to see what they can get away with and what they can't.

One thing most coaches are pretty sure to do is to instruct their men to fall on a loose ball regardless of whether or not it was dropped in the course of a lateral pass play. The side that drops the ball may be aware of the fact that it was dropped in a lateral pass play, but the officials may not see it exactly that way and it will be just another one of those cases where "possession is nine points of the law." Can't afford to take too many chances.

SEALS AND STARS SPLIT

hopped all over Umpire Beck for his decisions on balls and strikes. Heath McCrea and Jolley had already appeared in the Seal lineup earlier in the game, which explains why Glover got his chance. Glover was up but once and that time he pounded out a hit.

STARS START STRONG

The Stars started out in the nightcap as though they were going to make quick work of Kuns. Lee opened with a single that knocked Kuns's legs from under him, but Gooch hit into a double play. Then came successive hits by Twombly, Frederick and Lowell that scored a run.

Hollywood's second run came in the third when Lee walked, Gooch sacrificed, Twombly popped out, Frederick walked, and Pinelli fumbled Lowell's grounder, enabling Lee to score.

After pitching hitless ball for three innings, Teachout blew up in the fourth and the Seals put over two runs to tie the score before Fullerton came to the rescue. With one away O'Doul homed into the bleachers to account for one run. Pinelli singled and Averill walked. Mishkin's sacrifice fly sent Pinelli to third, while Averill advanced to second on a short passed ball. Baker walked, filling the bases. McCrea bounced an infield hit off the tip of Teachout's glove and Pinelli scored with the tying run. After pitching two wide ones to Kuns, Teachout was lifted. Fullerton retired Kuns on a long fly to McNulty.

In the San Francisco sixth the Seals threatened when Averill doubled to ... one out, Lowell made a great stop of Mishkin's grounder for the second out and Averill went to third. Jolley was sent in to bat for Baker, but was purposely walked. Suhr, batting for McCrea, forced Jolley to end the round.

STARS FILL BASES

The Stars filled the bases with one away in the eighth, but a snap throw, Vargas to Pinelli, picked Lowell off second to help pull Kuns out of the hole. Donovan then reached into the box seats for Heath's foul fly to end the round.

In the opener "Buckshot" May held the Stars to six hits, while the Seals bunched hits off Hank Hulvey with Hollywood errors. Earl Averill gave the Seals a three-run lead in the first when he homed into the right-field bleachers to score Johnson and Suhr ahead of him.

The Stars got their lone run off May in the fifth when Frederick doubled and Kerr singled him across the plate.

The Hollywood defense cracked in the eighth, the Stars making four errors, and the Seals helped out their own cause with four singles to produce five unearned runs off Hulvey.

Oh, yes, the Seals captured the odd game of the series. No more baseball here until Wednesday when the rejuvenated Angels open with the Portland Beavers for seven games. Scores:

BELLS BOW TO ANGELS TWO TIMES

Seraphs Nab Twin Bill by 6-5 and 2-1 Scores; Gabler Features

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Los Angeles won both games from the Missions today and swept the series six games out of seven. The Angels took the morning game, 6 to 5, and won the afternoon affair, 2 to 1.

Principal interest centered in the afternoon game which Glenn Gabler, a long, lanky kid from the Southland, pitched for the Angels. It was announced that he is only 16 years of age. If that is true, he will be quite a flinger by the time he reaches voting age. ... a matter of fact Gabler looks and acts like a well-grown lad of 21 and one who has pitched quite a lot of ball.

He flung eight and one-third innings today and had it not been f... errors he would not have allowed a run in that time. In ... ninth inning, with the Angels leading, 2 to 1, and one man out, Gabler walked Rodda and Slade followed with a single to right that put Rodda on third base.

Then the rival managers began jockeying. Manager Hooper grabbed a bat to hit for Whitney. Manager Krug yanked out Gabler and sent in Weatherby, a southpaw, to do the pitching for the Angels. Then Hooper took himself out and let Griffin, a right-handed clubber, face the pitcher.

Griffin drew a pass to fill the bases. Barfoot struck out. Swanson forced Griffin at second base to end the game.

Barfoot pitched a fine game of ball, but he lost the decision. For five rounds he did not allow a hit. In the sixth, with two men down, Gabler got a hit but was left stranded. In the seventh Brazill led off with a hit, was bunted to second and scored on Jahn's hit. That tally tied the score, for the Missions had counted in the fourth due to a couple of errors and a hit. The Angels scored the winning run in the ninth on a double by Staley and a single by Hood. The scores:

POMONA NEEDS BACKFIELD MEN

Sagehens Shy Substitutes for Ball Packers

Coach Nixon Uses Lineman to Lug Pigskin

Heath Has Plenty of Beef for Forwards

CLAREMONT, Sept. 18. (Exclusive) One of the gravest problems that ever faced a football coach has arisen for Coach Eugene Nixon at Pomona College this year, in the dearth of capable backfield men. Although much of the football talent that returned this season was centered in behind the line, the reserve strength for the backfield is pitifully lacking. Capt. Jack Manildi, Harold Merritt and Lee Williams, are all letter men, and good backs, and there is Poke Hartman to fill in, but the point is, that there are no other men to take their places in case this set gets injured somewhere.

When Nixon called the first practice last week, he had just exactly five backfield men. The three veterans were present and Art Colley, sub half and Cliff Bright, frosh fullback of 1926, were the only ones. The following night, Poke Hartman showed up and swelled the number to seven, but even so, that isn't enough to provide for emergencies or allow any leeway for a hot, fatiguing day when a hard-working backfield man doesn't last long.

The reason for this lack of men seems to lie in the fact that there is no much veteran talent back at Pomona this year. All the frosh ballpackers of 1926 got scared out and determined to have a try at the line, and several of the subs didn't show up at all. Dyer, Bishop and Martin, sophomores, all wanted to play on the line, seeing no possibility of an opening to back, however, they changed their minds for them early in the season, and the result is that he has about ten or eleven backs.

Last year, it looked as though the same problem was facing Nixon, but the meteoric rise of Lee Williams and Art Colley, who showed up well despite their inexperience, averted all the trouble. With the addition of those two men, who could be depended upon to perform creditably all the time, Nixon didn't have so much to worry about.

If he ever needed a lot of reserves for the secondary, the Pomona mentor does this year. He hasn't a heavy man on the squad. Merritt, Manildi, Williams and Hartman don't average 165 pounds back there. It's obvious that a quartet of small men like that can't stand the gaff of pounding and hard-going for seven games. That long and hard schedule is going to be hard on the boys who play regularly and Nixon's only hope is to develop some new men as he did last year.

Conversely, "Beefy" Heath, the line coach, is fairly swamped with burly linemen. There isn't much experience in the whole outfit, but there is plenty of weight. He has the quantity while Nixon has the quality. If the two Sagehen leaders can figure out some way to exchange talents, everything will be lovely.

WHERE THOSE FORTY BUCKS GO

CHICAGO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Here is how the purchaser of each $40 ticket for the Dempsey-Tunney battle contributes to the various items making up the expected $3,000,000 "pot:"

Federal tax, $3.64. Illinois State tax, $3.64. Tunney's share, $13.33. Dempsey's share, $6.00. General expenses, $3. Rental of field, $1.34. Promoter's profit, $9.05. Total, $40.

These approximate figures are proportioned on Tunney's purse of $1,000,000, Dempsey's end of $450,000, general expenses of $300,000, field rental of $100,000 and the taxes to the amount of $340,000, leaving Tex Rickard a profit of $810,000.

PERSSON WINS OVER GORMAN

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18. (AP)—Harry Persson received the decision today over Bud Gorman in the fourth round of their bout. Gorman was obliged to give up because of a sprained knee. The men are heavyweights. Twenty thousand persons gathered in the Stockholm Veldrome to watch the open-air bout. Included among the spectators were Princes Carl, Lennart and Wilhelm.

Dr. Arthur Buelow of Berlin, judge of the bout, stopped the contest and awarded the decision to Persson.

The spectators were much disappointed but remained orderly. Gorman wept as he was assisted from the ring.

JACK DEMPSEY ACCUSES GENE

clap upon the wrist, a reply in which he twitted Jack for not writing his own "stuff" and branding it a poor play for public sentiment.

REHASH

While Dempsey's "challenge" is simply a rehash of what has been reported and hinted at during the past year, it has assumed added significance because of the Dempsey signature and the proximity of Thursday's title battle.

And your correspondent has gained the impression that Gene Tunney will never tell any more than as told today if he can help it. Dempsey blew the lid off with his challenge to the champion about the Boo-Boo Hoff case—a matter which Gene consistently has tried to avoid in the past.

Briefly, Dempsey asked Tunney to explain:

(1.) The suit which Boo Boo Hoff fired at him.

(2.) The conference which Gibson, Tunney and Hoff had the night before the fight and which inspired the betting plunge by Abe Attell and his clique on Tunney.

(3.) The tip which he (Dempsey) got the night before the fight that "there's something phoney about it."

(4.) The deal to steal Dempsey's title, whereby there was no chance for Dempsey to win except by hitting Tunney on the top of the head, and he might be disqualified even then.

(5.) The stacking of the referee and the judge against Dempsey before the fight in the event of a close decision and the cries of "foul" if Tunney was hit anyplace below the head.

(6.) The 6 o'clock p.m. plunge of the gamblers on Tunney.

(7.) The sudden cessation of betting at 9 p.m. when it was learned the referee had been switched.

(8.) The $25,000 loan made by Boo Boo Hoff, a big "interest" man in Philadelphia, to Gibson the night before the fight for an interest in Tunney when it would have been so easy to wait another day and obtain the money from Tunney's cut of the gate receipts.

Apparently some of Dempsey's betting information comes from Joe Benjamin who said today that Abe Attell told him the day of the bout to get down on Tunney because the fight was in.

Joe also explained that it would have been impossible for Dempsey's face to have been cut as bad as it was if Tunney's gloves had not been "doctored" and he demonstrated the manner in which he believed Tunney's seconds operated.

He said Dempsey's seconds, which included Gene Normile, Jerry the Greek and Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, were not on the job or they would have detected what was going on in Tunney's corner between rounds.

WIND UP TRAINING

The Dempsey bombshell dropped today just as both principals in Tex Rickard's big whacking soiree next Thursday night definitely wound up their boxing practice.

Both of the boys were in playful mood, so they succeeded in crossing up nine-tenths of the scribes. Tunney, scheduled to work at 4 o'clock appeared at 3 o'clock and was all through by the time most of the war correspondents appeared on the scene.

Down for an evening engagement, Dempsey worked at 4 o'clock.

He refused to see any of the newspaper gentry except three of his California friends, Pat Fayne, Sid Ziff and the writer.

Dempsey looked great in his short workout, which included one round apiece with Allentown Joe Gans, Johnny Russell, Dave Shade and Cal Till, and he simply was a thing of fury in his three-minute session with the punching bag. He all but tore it to pieces, and really demonstrated terrific hammering power.

BACKERS CONFIDENT

So confident are the followers at Dempsey's palatial camp at the Lincoln fields track that they are betting two to one on a Dempsey knockout. Dave Shade told me today he is down on just such a bet, and he expects to win.

"And don't be surprised if Dempsey outboxes Tunney either" said Shade.

"He's learned a lot of new tricks in the past few weeks. But the best part of it is that Dempsey is hitting right now. He is delivering his punches flat footed, but he comes up on the balls of his feet and everything goes into his wallops. Before Flynn changed his style he was hitting on his toes, and the wonder of it is that he ever hit as hard as he did."

BROWN BUSY AT LAKESIDE

E. S. (Eddie) Brown, one of the two—or possibly three Los Angeles golfers to win flights in the State amateur at Del Monte two weeks ago, is shaping up a fine competitive program for his Lakeside members. Work on the new fifteenth hole is progressing rapidly and will be opened for play before Christmas. The new hole, replacing the one washed out last spring, will again enable Lakeside to offer one of the very best tests in the country. In view of the fact that local officials planned to stage the last Southern amateur at Lakeside, it is very probable that the next down-State classic will be decided over the Culver City layout.

THOMPSON DROPS ACE AT OAKMONT

Russell (Buddy) Thompson, the Oakmont youngster designed to become a future golf champion, dropped his first hole in one yesterday when his tee shot to the 150-yard fifteenth in his home layout, trickled into the cup. The resultant ace enabled Buddy to clip par with a 71.

CATALINA LINKS NOW ALL GRASS

Joe Patrick drove the first ball over Mr. Wrigley's new all-grass, nine-hole Catalina course, yesterday. Billy Bell, architect in charge of the extensive reconstruction that has changed the former "goat" layout into a real golf course, played with E. J. Amar, David M. Benton and Patrick in the first foursome to officially open the revamped layout. Scores of celebrities who played the course yesterday, proclaim the layout to be one of the best in this section. Island golfers have been using sand greens for years.

FINE DELEGATION IN WOMEN'S NATIONAL

Los Angeles will start the greatest sectional delegation in history in the women's national at Cherry Hills this morning. Mrs. Harry Pressler of San Gabriel, the youthful matron who annexed the women's western in her first start two months ago, has already been named by eastern critics as one of the favorites in the titular affair. Mrs. George M. Lewis, former women's State champion, recently returned from an extended trip abroad and will also carry considerable prestige in the back-East classic. Mrs. Gregg Lifur of the California Club, wearing the women's Southern California championship for the second consecutive year—after a disappointing start in the last women's western, may be depended upon to qualify—and do much better in the annual competition.

COOKS WIN AT SAN GABRIEL

Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Cook, two of the best golfers playing at San Gabriel, turned in a fine 84-5-79, to win low-gross honors in the two-ball mixed foursome event staged over their home course yesterday. L. H. Buell and Mrs. Gray Cowan, 93-8-85; L. D. Cheney and Mrs. George Laubersheimer, 93-8-85, and G. A. Arbogast, playing with Mrs. Phil Gough, turned in a 102-17-85, to land in a triple tie for low net.

Walter Noble, 72-4-68, led the Class-A field at San Gabriel over the week-end. W. Brem, 79-6-73; J. W. Peniel, 85-12-73, and B. B. Bennett, 89-16-73, tied for second. J. C. Johnson, 83-9-74; R. Wescott, 80-6-74; Dr. C. W. Cook, 79-5-74, and P. P. Olson, 79-5-74, tied for the last place in the sweepstakes arranged for club members by Harry Pressler, professional.

HORRELL LEADER AT FLINTRIDGE

W. A. (Bill) Horrell, scored a 73 to finish 2 up and win the match play against par sweepstakes at Flintridge, yesterday. A. W. Maine, 75, even, tied with A. W. Lewis, who scored an 87, for second prize. Dr. S. H. Baker and T. H. Kendall, 2 down, tangled for third honors. Jock Adams, popular club professional, returned yesterday from an extended vacation at Del Monte, and will be back on the job this morning.

SMOOT WINS AT BEVERLY

C. E. Smoot finished 1 down to win the Class-A sweepstakes at the Los Angeles Country Club yesterday. Dr. Mark Kelsey, 2 down, led the Class-B play.

GOLFERS TIE AT OAKMONT

H. C. Hawtelle, 102-24-78 and W. G. Cawley, 102-24-78, tied for second, while George Lindsay, 85-8-77 and W. O. Headley, 87-10-77, tangled for first prize in the club sweepstakes at Oakmont over the week-end. H. C. Pillsbury, G. N. Reinke, M. S. Hillion, M. S. Elliott and G. Laird, tied for the third prize.

GAINES PACES BRENTWOOD PLAY

Hugh Gaines picked up 40 points to pace the Class A field in the tin-whistle sweepstakes at Brentwood yesterday. J. B. Ransom was second and Harry Borde, third. George Fenimore led the Class B field. J. H. Fiske and H. B. Erkes tied for second.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kelly, 101-17-84, and Will Stranhan and Mrs. L. B. Elliott, 91-7-84, tied for first prize in the club two-ball mixed foursome event. V. J. Holt and Mrs. H. E. Smothers, 96-11-85; J. L. Martin and Mrs. Willie (Jo) Hunter, 94-9-85; Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Coulter, 109-24-85; H. A. Seivert and Miss Helen Seivert, 109-24-85, all missed putts that would have broken the tie the last prize.

SCRIBES' TOURNEY AT CHEVY CHASE

Local golf scribes will engage in a tee and greens free-for-all, billed as a "Scribes' Tournament" at the new Chevy Chase club, today. Bert Farrar, president of the newest organization, planned to leave town last night and the selection of his championship layout as the scene of the scribes' event should not cause him to change his mind.

Cherry Valley offers a very rugged test that will appeal to both Mrs. Pressler and Mrs. Lifur. Mrs. Dan Jones, California State titlist, is also capable of championship golf and may be the fourth Angeleno to land among the thirty-two low scorers at the end of the eighteen-hole qualifying play, today.

Mrs. Anne Trabue, chairman of the women's auxiliary of the S.C.G.A., left for New York last Monday and will be on hand this morning to encourage all Los Angeles starters in the championship. Miss Helen Lawson of Wilshire, who defeated Mrs. Brent (Sylvia) Potter of San Francisco, for the woman's Del Monte championship last week, did not make the trip East but should be one of the Southland's outstanding chalgers in next year's classic. For the first time since Mary Browne dropped out of national golf affairs, Los Angeles will command respect in the national—the major event of the feminine international card.

WESBROOKS LEAVE FOR CHICAGO FIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wesbrook—the "Wild Wesbrooks" of Eagle Rock Annandale and Lakeside fame—left on Jack Doyle's special, last night, for the Dempsey-Tunney fight in Chicago, next Thursday. With the principals in the muchly heralded $3,000,000 spectacle interested in golf and golfers interested in the fight, anything may happen. Wesbrook has a return trip ticket so the fact that he is backing Tunney, won't make much difference. Wesbrook, like many other local sportsmen, may shift at the last minute, for Dempsey should win—about seven up and less than three to go—in other words, no later than the eighth of the scheduled ten-round battle.

PALOS VERDES PLAY OPENS NEXT WEEK

Los Angeles golfers are going to be introduced to one of the snappiest layouts int he country, when Jimmy Fiske's Palos Verdes invitational gets under way next week. The immaculate eighteen-hole golf course nestling in the Palos Verdes Hills rightfully boast many of the feature holes on the west coast. Perfect putting surfaces first called local attention to Palos Verdes and narrow, well kept fairways have added just the necessary touch to make the layout one of the sportiest in this vicinity. Palos Verdes pays a perfect premium for accuracy—but enough skillfully placed traps and bordering rough will combine to ruin many potential medalists.

Golfers may qualify eighteen holes in the Palos Verdes invitational either next Monday, or Tuesday. Match play in eight flights will get under way Wednesday, the day following, with an eighteen-hole medal consolation round Friday, for non-qualifiers and players defeated in first-round matches. A two-ball mixed foursome event, one week from next sunday, will conclude what should turn out to be one of the most enjoyable invitationals of the season.

McNAMARA WINS LONG BEACH PLAY

Bill McNamara, rangy home club youngster, defeated Harley (Spec) Stevenson, of Virginia, 5 and 4, yesterday, in the title flight finals of the Long Beach invitational. Stevenson has been gunning for McNamara for months past, and the former Virginia caddy was runner-up to McNamara who incidently proved the sensation in the southern amateur two years ago, and who collected the Long Beach city municipal crown several months ago.

Capt. A. Bullock-Webster of Hollywood and Mrs. W. P. Lohman of Lakeside, teamed to score an 84 and win low gross trophy in the two-ball mixed foursome event that ended the Long Beach invitational yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wells of the home club, 87-12-75, won low net. There were eight flights in the annual club affair.

HUNTER STARS AT BRENTWOOD

Wee Willie Hunter, California open champ, scored a 70 while his partner, Howard Hughes, was slipping up to an 84, to break even with George Von Elm and Harry Cooper in a fast practice foursome at Brentwood, yesterday. Von Elm, familiarizing himself with the layout where he will start defending his Southern California open title, Friday, claimed an easy 73 and Cooper, Biltmore professional who tied with Tommy Armour in the last national open, also finished with a 74.

TAYLOR SLIGHT FAVORITE TO BEAT SANGOR TOMORROW NIGHT

All roads will lead to the Olympic tomorrow night so far as fight followers are concerned. Probably the biggest indoor fight of the year is scheduled between Bud Taylor, known to Californians as the "unconquerable," and Joey Sangor, the world's greatest fistic entertainer.

They are fighting at 134 pounds and so far as the West is interested it is for the featherweight championship.

Fans have watched Taylor win and win and win, looking more unbeatable every start, that he would figure over anybody in either his own bantam class as well as the division above him.

The betting has stubbornly refused to budge from 10 to 8 odds on Taylor ever since the match was made, although few fighters are as popular as Sangor here.

Both boys have boxed here so often that Los Angeles claims them as its own. It has taken nine months to get them together in a return match following their dramatic clash in Milwaukee last November.

According to the reports Sangor gave Taylor quite a slamming, having him on the floor twice and closing one eye.

It would be a bitter pill for Taylor to have to swallow a similar defeat here for Bud has made more friends here in the last two years than he has in all the rest of the country in his whole life.

This blond-topped kid has just about quit singing the "Wabash Blues" and has made "California, I Love You" his national anthem.

Nobody could help but idolize Taylor as a fighter after seeing him in his splendid contests here.

But pitted against Taylor is a boy who has also edged himself into the affections of the mob who like great fighters. It is doubtful if any other fighter will ever do what Sangor has.

Joey lost four straight battles in a row and each time sold out the Olympic. His fifth fight when he whipped Santiago Zorilla a few weeks ago drew another packed house.

It is estimated that Sangor has drawn $100,000 through the gates in five bouts here while Taylor has magnetized around $200,000 in his thirteen battles.

That is tremendous drawing power for the little fellows.

The Sangor-Taylor card is supported by a pair of six-round bouts which are 100 per cent.

They are Mike Watters vs. Jimmy Fox and Dario Barron vs. Joey Medill. Both these bouts were originally signed for semi-wind-ups so it has been agreed a coin will be tossed in the dressing-room to decide which gets the spot.

It makes little difference except the prestige attached to a semifinal position on a card the magnitude of Sangor and Taylor.

There are still good seats left for this show, but the house figures to be packed to the rafters when Joey and Bud answer the bell Tuesday night.

PRICE HUSTLING TO BUILD UP CALIFORNIA GRID TEAM

BERKELEY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The more or less thorny side of a coach's life today was being given serious consideration by Clarence (Nibs) Price upon whose slight shoulders falls the duty of winning games for the University of California football varsity.

It was Price's solemn task today to commence preparing, man for man, run for run, and attack for attack toward the season's opening game next Saturday afternoon, that is to say, the clash with the University of Santa Clara, in the Memorial Stadium.

The Galloping Broncos did not furnish Price with a nightmare last year, but they most certainly supplied the California mentor with a number of uncertain and decidedly peculiar feelings in the region of his tummy. When the excitement was over and there unquestionably was a lot of excitement, the Broncos had earned a "moral victory" in a 13-to-7 defeat. It was only California's stubbornness toward admitting that it was really the weak machine later events proved it to be that prevented a loss in last year's game.

Bringing fifteen lettermen back to tickle the Bear men under the ribs and to kick him from behind, the Santa Clarans can in no wise be rated as a set-up. To meet the Bronco horde of lettermen, Price has some thirteen letter winners himself, a bunch of experienced transfers and some excellent frosh material from 1926, perhaps the best turned over to any coast conference school.

Harsh scrimmage, the kind that brings ball carriers to earth with a thud and a bit of an oath now and then, just to pepper the proceedings, will more than likely be indulged in tomorrow. Price gave his extra large squad three days of stern practice the past week, including a several-hour workout yesterday. Four more workouts this week with a rest on Friday, will put the Bears in a fair way for the introductory stand of the season Saturday.

Apart from the actual conditioning of his men Price has the problem of selecting a backfield from five different combinations, each containing the elements of success but also lacking in experience as a unit of coworkers. Further than this, he must also decide quickly those men to fill the place of the five linemen stolen by graduation last spring. Coaches do not spend their lives in an incessant bombard of roses, not "Nibs" anyway.

ED MINOCK CELEBRATES BY WINNING TRAPSHOOT

Hey, fellows, look! Ed Minock and his new gas pipe topped the bunch at the Los Angeles Gun Club yesterday with the grand score of 99x100. Ed stood treat for the crowd as it was the highest score that he ever made.

The champion, A. J. Stauber, B. A. Gillespie and Fred Grewell rapped out 98x100, each, for second honors. E. A. Ward and Frank Mellus annexed 96 each. C. J. Gregg, L. B. Clarke and E. L. Kost accounted for 95 each. Guy Haughtelling and W. T. Webber broke 93 out of the century.

A. J. Stauber and B. A. Gillespie tied for Class-A trophy and, in a shoot-off at fifty more, each broke 48x50. The toss of a coin gave the latter both trophies. Ed Minock won both Class-B trophies with fifty straight, and 49x50. E. C. Van Gilder won both Class-C trophies. George Warner and J. A. Speer won the Class-D trophies. B. A. Gillespie and Mrs. J. W. Ingle won special trophies.

POP WARNER JOLTED HARD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY (Cal.) Sept. 18. (AP)—Substitute fullbacks were football unfortunates last week and as a result, Stanford will open practice again tomorrow with but one reserve player for that important backfield position.

Herb Fleishbacker, giant candidate for the position made famous here by Ernie Nevers, suffered a broken ankle in practice Friday, while the day before, Ernie Patchett of last year's varsity squad, came out with a broken arm. Both will be out of the game for several weeks. It leaves Coach "Pop" Warner with only Sam Josephs, a somewhat inexperienced gridder, as an understudy to "Biff" Hoffman, regular fullback.

SMOKE EATERS DEFEAT SAN BERNARDINO TEAM

Showing plenty of power but at the same time throwing away several chances to make the score larger, the Los Angeles Fire Department football team won its first game of the season at San Bernardino yesterday, defeating th Santa Fe Shops eleven by a 19-to-12 score.

Coach Bill Blewett's men had the situation well in hand all during the afternoon but fumbles at critical junctures gave the home boys several opportunities that were well taken care of. The smoke eaters carried the oval straight down the field right after the opening kick-off only to have a fumble by Jimmy Dyer on the Gate City 20-yard line scooped up by Hicks, who ran eighty yards unmolested for a touchdown.

The Los Angeles eleven came right back with a well-earned touchdown a few minutes later, Jimmy Danks going over. Jimmy Dyer scored again in the second quarter and converted for the extra point. Les Grimes scored the final touchdown in the last quarter, going over on a well-executed split buck after the ball had been advanced the length of the field.

Jim Dyer, Danks, Casey and Royce Wheeler starred for the winners while "Patso" Levering and Van Bergen carried off the honors for the hometown boys. The line-ups:

Fire Department (12)		Santa Fe Shops (12)
R. Wheeler	L.E.R.	Hicks
Kenwall	L.T.R.	Glover
Hardy	L.G.R.	Dickson
Morris	C.	Grubbs

FIGHT SPECIAL OFF FOR BATTLE FRONT

Jack Dempsey should bring home the heavyweight title, if loyal supporters have anything to do with winning a boxing championship, according to the consensus expressed among those who left for Chicago last night on the Union Pacific fight special.

The train sheds at the Arcade station were crowded last night just before the Union Pacific special pulled out. George R. Bierman, general passenger agent, and Johnnie Wilson, who was in charge of reservations for the Union Pacific fight train, made a canvass of the crowd to get an idea of how the vote stood.

FALL STYLES

Buckminster—sturdy Nettleton last. In selected black or tan calfskin.

We've never unpacked finer shoes

IN years of selling shoes to the men of this city, we've never seen shoes so smart in style—so matchless in fit and comfort—so accurate as to lasting and making—as the new Fall Nettletons.

Here are the sort of shoes well-dressed men like at first glance—and praise later, after long hard service has proven their worth and sound economy.

Whether you need new shoes at the moment or not, it will be a pleasure to show you Nettletons. For some day, we think, you'll want to enjoy a pair.

HARRISON COPS TENNIS HONORS

Seller Loses in Finals of State Title Play

Vines Drops Tough Match to San Francisco Boy

Woman's Champion Disposes of Edith Cross

BERKELEY, Sept. 18. (AP)—Bradshaw Harrison, holder of the Oregon, Pacific Northwest and Washington State men's titles, added the California State to his tennis honors today.

In the final of the State tennis championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club, he defeated Robert Seller, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2. The woman's State title was retained by Helen Jacobs, who defeated Edith Cross, Washington State champion, 6-4, 6-2.

Mrs. Lucy McCune Yates of Pacific Grove, and Marjorie Thorn of Corning, won the women's doubles title, 5-7, 6-2, 6-1, defeating Louise McFarland of Pasadena and Alice Manchett of Santa Barbara. Joe Coughlin of San Francisco, became the State champion of the junior boys by winning an extended match from Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, 3-6, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

The junior boys' doubles title went to Harry Flymire and Jack Cosgrove, who put out Vines and Limmie Bobbitt of Glendale, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1.

Miss McFarland won the girls' national hard-court championship by defeating Adelaine Brohm, 8-6, 6-3. The doubles title in the girls' national hard-court championship went to Betty Fitch and Margaret Smith, 6-0, 2-6, 6-3. They defeated Miss Brohm and Ethel Burkhardt.

Jack Cosgrove won the boys under 18 title, and Evelyn Parsons of Palo Alto took the girls' under 16. They defeated local players.

Harrison and Sherman Lockwood won the men's doubles title by defeating Edmund Levy and John Strachan, 4-6, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1. The mixed doubles title went to Edith Cross and Marvyn by default.

Mat Game in Bow Tonight at Pasadena Arena

Wrestling will be introduced to Pasadena tonight by the boy promoter of that city, Morrie Cohan, who has scheduled three high class bouts for his first mat show at the Crown City arena.

Carlos Sepulveda, former heavyweight mat champion of Spain, will attempt to stay the full two hours with George Kotsonaros, the Greek rougher, in the feature event of the program. Kotsonaros is a slight favorite to win because of the showing he has made in his bouts this year.

The special event featuring Bull Montana against Al Baffert, Canadian heavyweight champion, is expected to be a rough battle. The Bull is naturally rough, while Baffert, although a clean grappler, is expected to display some of the inside punching tricks he picked up in the four weeks he was one of Jack Dempsey's sparring partners at Ojai.

Bemmell Vis, mat instructor at the Los Angeles Athletic Club and former world's amateur welterweight champion, will clash with Nathan Sosnofsky of Seattle in the opening bout.

P. E. BEATS MONTEREY PARK

Pacific Electric's ball club beat Monterey Park yesterday by a score of 8 to 2. Cy Williams proved too much for Monterey Park, allowing but seven scattered hits and striking out fourteen. Game was featured by hitting of Layne and Rennie Cross behind the bat for Monterey Park, did good work.

OLYMPIC GRID STARS TRIUMPH

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. (AP)—The Olympic Club eleven defeated the Ninth Corps Area's Army team, 20 to 12, in a football game here today. Bill Gilmore, Army halfback, was the outstanding star. The game opened the season for both teams.

MISS WILLS LIKELY TO PLAY HERE

Fair Helen May be Seen in Tournament Slated for Tennis Club

Local followers of tennis are looking forward with increasing interest to the tournament that is to be held here October 3 to 8, under the auspices of the Tennis Patrons' Association of Southern California, due to the number of stars of international note who will take part in the matches.

Announcement was made yesterday by Cliff Herd, president of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, that Helen Wills probably will be among the notable tennis players seen in action during the tourney. According to a telegram received from Tom Bundy, former head of the club, who is now in the East to invite prominent players here for the matches, Miss Wills is planning a trip to California this fall and is favorably considering the invitation to play here.

Prominent tennis stars who already have given assurance that they will be here for the matches include William T. Tilden and his partner in their recent tour abroad, Francis T. Hunter, Manuel Alonso, Spanish Davis Cup star, who is considered one of the fastest players in the world; Jean Washer, spectacular left-handed champion of Belgium; Helen Jacobs, regarded as America's second best to Helen Wills; and Miss Kea Bouman, women's champion of Holland.

Local tennis stars who will take part are John Doeg, Norval Crist, Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Miss Marion Williams, Southern California champion, and Ben Gorchakoff. Bill Johnston and Gerald Stratford of San Francisco also are expected for the matches.

Among other notables who may participate are John Hennessey, Julien Williams and George Lott. It is also likely that the Japanese Davis Cup players will be here for a tournament on their return to the Orient.

The Tennis Patrons' Association, which is arranging the meet, is an organization formed recently by prominent business men to create greater interest in the sport, looking forward to the 1932 Olympic Games to be held in Los Angeles.

FIGURES GIVEN ON TWO BOXERS

looks bigger, and then when you size up the other fellow you find yourself wondering if he isn't the larger.

But these are the figures, and they say figures don't lie.

In comparing these measurements with those taken a year ago at Atlantic City, just before Tunney wrested the heavyweight championship from Dempsey, I find that both men have grown bigger in spots.

Dempsey has added half an inch to his neck girth and half an inch to the girth of his chest in repose. He is an inch wider around the waist and he has half an inch more around the forearm. He has clipped half an inch off his ankle and half an inch off his calf.

Dempsey has increased his chest expansion by half an inch through practicing a set of deep breathing exercises he learned comparatively recently.

This difference in Dempsey's ankle, which changes very little, as a rule, and the calf, can be explained, I believe, by the fact that the measurements last year were taken after Dempsey had just been on his feet a good deal, whereas these were taken before he began his workout.

Lots of times, when the blood has sagged down in the legs the ankles "swell," and I am inclined to believe that Jack's ankles either were in this condition last year, or else his circulation has improved. His blood pressure is nearer what it should be than it was when he was training in Atlantic City.

JACK IN FINE SHAPE

This would tend to show that Dempsey is in better physical shape now than a year ago, which undoubtedly is true.

Tunney has grown bigger in the arms and wrists, and he also has added an inch to the girth of his waist. Tunney always carries a contraption which he grips tightly and holds loosely alternately when he is on the road, and this has helped to increase the wrist half an inch. He has added a quarter-inch to his biceps and the same amount to his forearm.

Now, while these measurements show the men to be evenly matched in size, they may mean nothing whatever when the pair square off in the ring. It will be a question of speed, hitting power and stamina, and these things cannot be measured with tape.

But the measurements in a way assure us that Tunney and Dempsey are probably evenly matched so far as strength is concerned. It will be a matter of using the stuff inside the skull to a large extent in this contest. Both men are provided with machines that appear to be geared up to racing form. Now it's up to the drivers.

WALTER SPENCE WINS GOLDEN GATE SWIM

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Walter Spence of the Brooklyn Y.M.C.A. stroked his way to an easy victory today in the third annual swim across the Golden Gate sponsored by the San Francisco Chronicle. His time for the approximate mile and a quarter stretch was 21. 5s.

Carl Stevenson of the Oakland Athens Club, winner last year, came in fifth. Of the 184 starters, 77 finished.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD ON HURDLES CLAIMED

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 18. (AP)—What is asserted to be a world's record was made in a 110-meter hurdle race today when Sten Peterson covered the distance in 14 7-10s., beating the time of E. J. Thomson of Canada. Athletic record books credit E. J. Thomson of Canada with running the 110-meter hurdles at Belgium August 18, 1920, in 14.8s.

DE HART HUBBARD BREAKS JUMP MARK

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18. (AP)—De Hart Hubbard, Cincinnati negro athlete and holder of the world's record for running broad jump, set a new mark when he cleared 26ft 2 1-4in. at a municipal track meet here yesterday. His former mark was 25ft. 10 7-8in.

Hubbard also equaled the world's record of 9 3-5s. for the 100-yard dash in today's meet.

TRANS-PACIFIC MAIL

Following schedule of sailing is provided for the Trans-Pacific mail:

September 20 and 21, from Los Angeles. Mail for Panama Canal and some for Honolulu.

September 21, from San Francisco. Mail for Hawaii.

September 24, from Los Angeles. Mail for Honolulu.

For connection at Seattle, mail must leave Los Angeles the third day prior to date of sailing, not later than 3:30 p.m.

To connect at San Pedro for the Seattle liners every other Saturday, mail leaves Los Angeles at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Note—To connect at San Francisco mail must leave Los Angeles on dispatch made not later than 3:30 p.m. the day prior to date of sailing.

The 30c-ton high-density cotton compress to be installed at its new Wilmington plant by the California Compress and Warehouse Company will arrive this morning from Mobile aboard the McCormick-Redwood liner Alamo. The Alamo will unload two fifty-ton sisters of the giant press at the yards of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Corporation, S he also has 1600 tons of general cargo from Mobile, Gulfport and New Orleans for local discharge. The Alamo, reported by radio having passed through the center of the Mexican hurricane of the 4th to 13th inst.

Another McCormick liner which also was struck by the four-day storm, the West Cape, is due tomorrow from North Atlantic ports, bringing 3000 tons of general cargo for Los Angeles consignees. It is one of the largest single consignments for this port ever brought from the east coast by a McCormick steamer. The West Cape is in command of Capt. Martin Mohrer, veteran of the old McCormick lumber fleet.

The Matson steamer Wasington of the National Navigation Lines arrived yesterday from Salina Cruz after having passed through the West Coast hurricane. Her officers report no damage suffered as result of the storm. They also report that the port of Salina Cruz is not materially damaged. The sister ship, the Bolivar, for several days believed lost in the storm, is safe at Manzanillo and will leave that port today for coast ports.

Capt. Martin Rider will bring the Dollar steamer President Van Buren in to this morning on the eighty-second cruise of the Dollar globe-circling fleet, carrying 100 passengers and mail from twenty-two-thousand world ports. The President Van Buren went to the rescue of the Dollar freighter Grace Dollar, Admiral Peoples, when the latter ship, the Dollar, Cape San Lazaro. The Grace Dollar now is bound for Los Angeles Harbor in tow of the Merritt, Chapman & Scott salvage tug Peconic, which reached the disabled vessel late yesterday. She is expected to bring the Grace Dollar into port late this afternoon.

Fears for the safety of the British motorship Cape of Good Hope, believed lost off the Central American coast while en route here from Cuba, were set at rest yesterday with receipt of a radiogram from her master, Capt. H. E. Lascelles. The vessel sailed from Batbon, Canal Zone, on the 11th inst., and is due here by Sunday or Wednesday, having erroneously been reported as sailing from Balboa on August 28, last.

FRUIT CROP SELLS FOR HIGH PRICE

Orange County Growers Receive Largest Returns of Citrus Shipments

SANTA ANA, Sept. 18.—Southern California's greatest citrus year will see Orange county growers receiving higher prices than ever before, figures released by the Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange and the Orange County Fruit Exchange indicate.

Sales of Orange county fruit to the 1st inst. through the two exchange organizations total $14,684,326.51. Sales since the first of the month for the two organizations have passed the $1,500,000 mark. With two months of the present season left and a larger shipment of fruit scheduled with high prices being obtained, citrus officials predict that the total returns to those concerned in the citrus harvest of this county will aggregate $25,000,000. Each of the two exchange organizations is aiming for a $10,0...,000 goal in returns to the ...wers.

Independent houses in the county are expected to report a total return to their growers of nearly $5,000,000 when the season is completed. Figures for the Orange County Fruit Exchange have been compiled to the end of August, estimates being given for the remainder of the season. Figures released from the Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange were tabulated today up to date. According to Dale R. King, manager, sales today or September are $709,825 for his organization. Sales previous to this month in the Northern Orange County organization amounted to $6,775,000. Sales to the 1st inst. of the Orange County Fruit Exchange amounted to $7,789,326, according to L. D. Palmer, manager.

For September, last year, the Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange did $554,338.10 worth of business to September 15. The exchange estimates the total sales for this month will be $1,500,000, as against $1,306,521.70 for last September, according to Manager King.

August was the record month of the year for the Northern Orange County Fruit Exchange, $2,098,000 in returns being reported. The Orange County Fruit Exchange did a business of similar proportions. Shipment for the remainder of the season will be higher for both oranges and lemons, but higher prices are being received, it is said. Best quality Valencias are bringing from $6 to $6.50 on the market, it is reported. Higher prices are also being received for lemons, a new record being hung up Thursday.

Boost Proposed Intercity Road

MONROVIA, Sept. 18.—With Beck Road now assured as a direct outlet to El Monte, Chamber of Commerce officials have turned their attention toward a proposed new highway connecting between Monrovia and Baldwin Park.

A tentative route for such a highway was worked out yesterday following a survey of the territory by County Supervisor Beaty, Road Commissioner Jones, City Engineer Gierlich of Monrovia and C. M. Commins, secretary; W. H. McCune, Jr., Sam Ryan and Walter Keefe, all of the Monrovia chamber.

It was decided that a portion of Peck Road should be utilized for the Baldwin Park connection, necessitating a connecting road between Peck Road and the north end of Main street in Baldwin Park.

The contemplated Arrow Highway through the San Gabriel Valley would supply this connection and it is probable that the local project will await the expected completion of the Arrow route.

Set Date for Murder Trial

MADERA, Sept. 18.—Second trial of Mrs. Jennie Laura Brown, Fred Mills and John Tipton, on charges of the murder of Lee Camp, young Kings county farmer and foster son of Mrs. Brown, was today set by Superior Judge Stanley Murray, to whose court the case was transferred on change of venue from Kings county, for October 17.

Mills was admitted to bail for $20,000 upon motion of his counsel and acquiescence of Dist.-Atty. Ferguson, who recommended that his bail be set at that amount, the same under which Mrs. Brown, who is an invalid, is at liberty.

Tipton, who acted as his own attorney in the original trial, accepted Judge Murray's advice and accepted legal counsel for the second trial and the court appointed Harry I. Maxim of Madera, after Tipton, who is Mrs. Brown's uncle, first refused to accept counsel.

BOND FOR CONTRACTORS

Ordinance Proposed at San Diego Designed to Protect Home Builders

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 18.—Intended to eliminate the unscrupulous, fly-by-night building contractor, and to protect thoroughly all citizens who desire to invest their money in homes and other building construction, an ordinance will come before the Council tomorrow morning requiring that all persons engaged in the building contracting business in San Diego be licensed and bonded.

This ordinance, the work of long months of preparation by building Inspector Oscar Knecht and various interested organizations, was filed with the City Clerk by Councilman Frank W. Seifret, who will formally present it to the Council tomorrow. The ordinance is reported to have the support of a majority of the Council members.

In drawing up the or...inance, Inspector Knecht and his associates have made every effort, he says, to avoid working any hardships on the small contractor or "little fellow." The amount of bond required is graduated for the protection of the lesser contractors.

Contractors engaged in construction work not exceeding $5000 value on any one job must give a bond of $1000.

Intermediate contractors, doing work up to the value of $15,000, are required to give a bond of $2500.

"Unlimited contractors," doing work up to any value, would have to give a bond of $5000.

The annual license fee for all contractors would be $10, Inspector Knecht declared yesterday that both the license fee and cost of the $1000 bond would only mean an expense of about $1.70 a month to the small contractors.

The ordinance has the approval of the Contractors' Association, the Architects' Association, the building trades, the realty board, the Material Men's Association, and many other organizations.

The only complaint heard has come from a few small contractors, and Inspector Knecht believes that the ordinance has been drawn so greatly to protect their interests that they will withdraw their protests.

SUCCESSFUL NIGHT SCHOOL

ANAHEIM, Sept. 18.—Night-school classes conducted with much success at the Anaheim Union High School last winter are to be held again this year, starting next Monday evening, according to announcement today by Principal J. A. Clayes. Bookkeeping, typing, automobile mechanics, wood shop, Spanish and physical education for both men and women are the subjects to be included in the night-school curriculum, according to present plans, it is announced.

SENTIMENT WINS AT ALHAMBRA

Village Fire Bell Saved From Auction Block by Impassioned Speech of Former Chief

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 18. — When the enforcement of a curfew ordinance was revived several months ago, an old bell which had done duty for the fire department when the town was young, was brought out of retirement and placed on top of the City Hall where its ringing sent the children scurrying home at 9 o'clock each evening.

Recently it was found that the vibrations caused by the ringing of the bell were endangering the structure of the City Hall and the curfew ceased. Then the city, wishing to turn the bell into money, advertised it for sale. Bids were asked and one was received.

Just as the City Commissioners were about to declare the bell sold, up stepped Fire Chief Frank Bovet and in an impassioned speech appealed to the officials that the bell be retained as a souvenir of olden times. He called attention to the fact that the bell was wont to call the volunteer firemen to duty in the olden days and that there was a lot of sentiment connected with the bell. He wanted it preserved by the city and dedicated to the volunteers.

Sentiment won out and the bell has been saved from the auction block.

POMONA, Sept. 18.—P. T. Barnum, who pioneered big tops and showmanship, is a poor piker in the light of Los Angeles county's annual exposition of her agricultural and industrial wealth at the Los Angeles County Fair, Pomona. The stage is all set for the 1927 fair, which opens Tuesday at 10 a.m., when Lois Wilson, star of "The Covered Wagon," places the coin in the automatic gates, which starts them clicking for the remainder of the week as an estimated attendance of 150,000 passes through.

The center of attention at the big fair will be the "big top" which covers the agricultural and horticultural department, the largest, most varied and colorful exhibition of agricultural and horticultural produce in the United States. It is the largest canvas spread in the world, over 700 feet in length and covering the square area of an average city block. All the Japanese crepe and silk obtainable on the Coast in one season was required to decorate the interior.

The automobile department, heavy machinery, industrial department, poultry and rare bird show, rabbit show, and several other departments cover space enough to stage a couple of Barnums's big-ring events.

Since Saturday evening more than 400 horses were unloaded at the fairgrounds for the fair. Included in this number were 200 of the best show horses from the bigger stables of the United States and Canada for the big night horse show. There will be jumping and hunting exhibitions, and many outstanding thrillers in addition to the large display of fine harness horses and gaited saddle animals. Ninety of the fastest horses of the West are working out on the track this morning loosening up their muscles the last time before the fastest race events of the West open on the West's fastest half-mile track tomorrow afternoon. Several large barns are filled with mules, heavy-draft animals and stock horses in the breeding classes.

There will be several hundred dairy cattle and fat stock, 1500 poultry and rare birds, 1000 rabbits, 800 pigeons, swine, sheep, etc.

A spur track built into the fair grounds this season by the Pacific Electric facilitated the unloading and housing of all this live stock, which was all handled within twenty-four hours.

A complete central telephone equipment and service capable of handling the demands of a city has been installed, a fire station with city trucks and apparatus, completely equipped emergency hospital, which handles about 300 cases of fatigue and minor injuries each year with ambulance, doctor and full corps of nurses in attendance.

There is no dust under foot. The aisles, roadways and parking stations in the fairgrounds have been treated with a chemical process for months and they are hard as concrete. Rest arbors, comfort stations, drinking fountains and every convenience has been provided for the public comfort. The racing program, night horse show and daily band concerts will be the regular entertainment features but there will also be free entertainment attractions of the first order.

Tuesday, opening day, will be Lindbergh day, school day and Rotary day. There being no place for Col. Lindbergh to land during the rush of the fair, he will encircle the big grand stand and the fairgrounds several times, flying low, and wave a greeting to the throngs on his way from Reno to Los Angeles. He is expected some time after 11 o'clock. Admission will be free to school children on that day and there will be thousands of them from all sections of the county. The fair will open formally at 10 a.m., when Lois Wilson will open the gates. The judging of all exhibits will begin immediately. The afternoon racing program is at 1 o'clock each afternoon and the night horse show at 7:30. There will be an elaborate fireworks display each evening preceding the horse show. The Pomona Municipal Band will occupy the bandstand.

Wednesday is Kiwanis day, San Gabriel day and Pomona day. Business houses in Pomona and several other San Gabriel Valley towns will close their doors on that day to attend the fair en masse. The Burbank and Whittier municipal bands will provide the concerts on that day as well as the afternoon and evening programs at the races and the night horse show.

Thursday the Santa Monica Band and the Union Pacific Band will provide the same entertainment. Thursday will be Navy day when several notables of the Pacific Fleet will be in attendance. It will also be Santa Monica Bay district and Lions' day.

The Long Beach Municipal Band, an attraction at the fair for many years past, will give several concerts on Friday, Long Beach day. The Long Beach Band is always accompanied by a large following of their townspeople. It will also be San Bernardino county, Orange county and Riverside county day.

Saturday will be the closing day of the fair. It will be Los Angeles, San Fernando Valley and Antelope Valley day. The Downey Band will occupy the bandstand on that day.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

MONROVIA, Sept. 18.—The Monrovia Chamber of Commerce annual membership drive will be launched Tuesday, the 27th inst., and continue four days, it was announced today by C. H. Banks, president. F. A. Baughan of Los Angeles, publisher of the Chamber of Commerce Digest, will direct the campaign.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS ON TOUR

Travel Over Pasadena Streets; Stage Three Successful Hold-ups

PASADENA, Sept. 18.—Two youths in a roadster toured around Pasadena's streets for a couple of hours late last night and held up three men at widely separated points in the city, escaping with about $75, a watch and other articles.

Although police were given fairly accurate descriptions of the bandits, who appeared to be young and well dressed, none of the victims was able to get the license number of their car, so that clews are scarce.

The first victim was O. E. Krebs, 109 Waverly Drive, who was walking along the street at Orange Grove and Marengo avenues, when the two men drove alongside, leaped out and demanded his money. Krebs attempted to beat them off, and was slightly cut in the scuffle that took place before the robbers pinned him to the ground. One of the men wielded a knife while the other had a gun. They took $14 from Krebs and drove away.

A short time later Peter Brandenberg, 360 North Holliston avenue, was confronted by the same pair at Holliston avenue and Walnut street as he was walking home. One covered him with a revolver, while the other extracted $34, a watch and miscellaneous articles from Brandenberg's pockets.

The third victim was J. Alvarez, who was robbed of $13 and a check for $14.50 as he started home from the Lamanda Park station of the Santa Fe. His description of the assailants led police to believe that they were the ones who committed the other hold-ups.

New Law Has Little Effect on Dan Cupid

SANTA ANA, Sept. 18.—After a slump that followed inauguration of the new marriage law requiring a wait of three days between the notice of intention to marry and the issuing of the marriage license the Orange county marriage license bureau is resuming normal business, it was indicated by County Clerk T. M. Backs.

A total of twenty-six licenses a day represents the average volume of daily business under the old law just before the rush to evade the new law. This rush resulted in a new record of more than 600 licenses for one month last June. Then, when the new law went into effect July 29, marrying couples became scarce. All planning matrimony at the time had procured their licenses under the old law.

Now Backs believes, the inevitable urge to matrimony, is overcoming the slump and normal marriage traffic is about to be resumed. So far, events have borne out Backs's predictions that there would be a rush to evade the new law, then a slump, and then more local marriages than ever before.

Backs is of the opinion that while the new law will weed out hasty marriages over the State as a whole, it will increase the business at Santa Ana, the Southland's Gretna Green. The present practice of publishing notices of intention to marry three days in advance of the issuance of license will bring more and more couples from Los Angeles and other near-by cities to Santa Ana to avoid publicity, he thinks.

School for Grown-Ups

ALHAMBRA, Sept. 18.—A course in home education for parents will be offered at the Alhambra High School beginning October 3, it is announced by Forrest V. Routt, superintendent of schools. This new feature is being sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association and will be free, except for a small charge for textbooks.

The course will consist of lectures, directed observations and laboratory work, with group discussions, selected readings, and such co-operative sharing of the work with the community as proves feasible and helpful, according to Routt's announcement. The study will not be academic, the main purpose being to give parents the best aid possible in the vocation of home-making and child nurture.

The instructor will be Regina H. Westcott, an educator who has specialized in research work in behalf of children and the home.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the new course and many registrations are being made, it is said.

READY TO HANDLE LARGEST NUT CROP

SANTA ANA, Sept. 18.—The largest crop of walnuts in the history of Orange county will be handled this fall by the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' Association, according to J. E. Gowen, secretary and manager of the association. Gower estimates that at least 3000 tons will go through the association's hands this year. This amount represents only 80 per cent of the whole crop, Gowen declared, as 20 per cent of the local walnut growers handle their walnuts independently. Gowen stated that ranchers are looking forward to a good crop next year. "It will not be as large as this year's crop," Gowen said, "but it will be a good normal crop judging by the showing of the buds which have already formed.

VETERAN IN SERVICE

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 18.—Seventeen years ago, Mrs. P. O. Wilson was elected president of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church and she was again honored with this official position at the meeting held Friday, having served continuously since the year in which she was chosen to head the organization, which now has a membership of more than 200. The other officers selected at the session were Mrs. Elsie Risheberger, vice-president; Mrs. C. F. Brand, treasurer; Mrs. Lulu Johnson, recording-secretary, and Mrs Carl Tumbleson, corresponding secretary.

"DEATH DIVE" SPAN STARTED

Famous Aviator Will Fly for Fair at Riverside

Dives Through Small Bridge at High Speed

Full Program Announced; Many Entries Received

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 18. — Work was started yesterday on the bridge in the center of the fair grounds here where Roman Warren, cowboy aviators, will do his "dive of death," each afternoon during the Southern California Fair, the 27th inst. to October 2.

Warren, climbing to a height of 2000 feet, dives down and through a bridge sixteen feet high and fifty feet wide. As his plane is twelve feet high, it gives him only four feet clearance. Warren obtained permission from the United States Department of Aeronautics to perform this feat only after long negotiations.

He is speeding at 135 miles per hour when he goes through the bridge. It is regarded by all aviators as one of the most dangerous feats ever performed in the air. Warren obtained wide recognition several years ago by flying under the Riverside bridge near Mt. Rubidoux, a feat never before attempted.

TENTS GOING UP

"We expect this to be the greatest attraction ever offered at a fair in Southern California," said President Oscar Crowell today. "We worked long and hard in order to obtain the necessary permission for Warren to perform the feat, and we believe that the result will be satisfactory to all visitors at the fair."

Work was also started on erecting the three huge tents which will house the exhibits. They will be up in ample time for the exhibitors to get their shows in place.

"Each year sees a larger number of entries in the live-stock department and this year is no exception. As this is the first time in the fifteen years of the fair's existence that it has been subsidized by the State, the Southern California fair has attracted wider attention than ever before," said Mrs. C. G. Cravens, secretary. "I attended the State fair at Sacramento and I firmly believe that our show will rival that in every particular. Never before have we had such a rush for space. Everything is booked up and they are asking for more. We will provide all additional space possible."

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED

The evening program during the fair will feature the W. H. Rice-Water Circus, regarded as the finest attraction of its kind in the United States. Numerous high divers and spectacular stunts are listed on the program.

The following program has been arranged:

Tuesday—Southern California children's day. Free admission to children. Indian day.

Wednesday—Riverside day. Parade at 11 a.m. March Field day.

Thursday—Artists of Southern California. Coronda, Norco, Arlington, Chamber of Commerce, San Bernardino day.

Friday—American Legion, Riverside County Farm Bureau, Riverside County Children's and Ventura county day.

Saturday—Service clubs, Los Angeles county, Imperial county, San Diego, Orange county day.

Sunday—Southern California day.

Cole Active in Civic Affairs

PASADENA, Sept. 18.—Galusha M. Cole, widely known Pasadenan who recently celebrated his 101st birthday, is planning to make a house-to-house canvass in behalf of the movement to extend South Lake avenue, the street on which he lives, to Atlantic Boulevard, providing a direct route to Long Beach.

Forty years ago, when Mr. Cole first moved on to Lake avenue, he circulated a petition which resulted in the street's being graded for the first time. Now he thinks it is time for him to act again. When Mr. Cole first took up his abode there, the street boasted eight houses. Now it is one of the busiest north-and-south thoroughfares in the city.

The city of San Marino has withdrawn its objection to the extension of Lake avenue through its limits, according to C. M. Davis, secretary of the Metropolitan Business Men's Association, and the project is expected to go ahead rapidly.

GAME PRESERVE HARBORS BIRDS

TULARE, Sept. 18.—Within the next thirty days a 20,000-acre game preserve under control of the State Fish and Game Commission will be established southeast of Tulare, according to officers of the recently organized sportsmans' club. More than 15,000 acres of land lying in a body has already been signed to comply with the essential provisions of establishing a preserve and the first year's plant of Chinese pheasants is expected to arrive at an early date.

The Tulare Fish and Game Protective Association, sponsoring the project, will receive each year for the next three years, 300 Chinese pheasants which will be freed on the preserve and allowed to propagate without interference for five years. At the end of that time the State will remove legal barriers and local sportsmen can enjoy good shooting.

REFUSES CHURCH CALL

SOUTH PASADENA, Sept. 18.—Faced by overwhelming protests on the part of his congregation, Rev. A. F. Roadhouse, pastor of the South Pasadena Christian Church, has changed his mind about going to Inglewood and has now refused a call to head a church there, which he had previously accepted. The urgent pleas of leaders of his church, who asked him to stay, caused his change of heart. Rev. Roadhouse has been pastor of the local church for about eighteen months.

OIL AND MINING

WILDCAT HOLDS MUCH INTEREST

Project at Huntington Beach Attracts Attention

Success Would Mean Addition of New Oil Field

Most Promising Venture Ready for Test Shortly

The California National Oil Company's well northeast of the producing district of Huntington Beach is one of the most interesting projects in that district. The well is down 4473 feet, and is getting ready for a test, the success of which would mean the addition of a new field, or an extension to the Huntington Beach group.

It is understood that the California National has penetrated about fifty feet of oil sand, showing a fair degree of saturation. In addition there is said to be good gas pressure, and it is generally considered that the well is the most promising wildcat in the Huntington Beach district.

J. E. O'Donnell's well, northwest of the Buck property of the California Petroleum Corporation is another project that is getting its share of attention. O'Donnell hung up a record for fast work on this well, and is down to the point where showings should begin to appear, if they are to be found at all.

The townlot area at Huntington Beach showed a considerable decline last week, the inevitable result of natural drop in the production of wells, with no new completions to bolster up the total figure. The output of the city field was 32,000 barrels, against 35,000 barrels for previous weeks.

The theater of operations in the city field is shifting definitely to the east. Several wells are drilling in the edge of the business district, and one well is to start east of the business part of town, on the old Methodist camp ground.

Recent developments seem to indicate that operators may be fairly sure of production in the business section of Huntington Beach, but that wells may not yield more than 300 or 400 barrels per day, from depths between 3500 and 4000 feet.

Artesia Takes Step to Admit Gas Company

ARTESIA (N. M.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The Artesia City Council has ratified a franchise submitted by V. S. Welch for piping natural gas into the city from the Artesia oil field. The franchise, however, will have to be submitted to a popular vote before it is finally approved.

No opposition is expected to develop against the franchise, and as soon as the preliminaries are completed work will start on the pipe line.

SILVER MINE TO OPERATE AT CAPACITY

Property of Angelenos in Yuma County, Ariz., Increase Output

The Silver Mines Consolidated of Los Angeles, conducting mining and milling operations in Yuma county, Arizona, reports the recent consignment of 2600 ounces of silver-gold bullion to the mint at San Francisco, this lot to be followed by similar shipments in the future.

Hamilton Forline and J. M. Shiner, company officials, will leave for the mine this week, and while there will increase the mine output of ore to the full capacity of the milling plant, running twenty-four hours daily.

Within the next few months, Manager Shiner says, the capacity of the milling plant may be doubled, while an installation is now being made of a device for the dewatering of mill climes, which will materially increase the capacity of the milling plant, and at the same time conserve the water supply; a matter of importance and economy in a dry country.

The working force at the mine has recently been increased, and exploratory work in new ground has uncovered large reserves of ore of higher metallic content than was anticipated, according to a report sent in by Supt. S. B. Drum.

LUCKY BOY OPERATING NEW HOIST

United Verde Unwaters Shaft and Starts Work on Cross-cut Project

OATMAN (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) — The United Verde Copper Company has unwatered the Lucky Boy shaft, which has been given electric hoist and compressor equipment, current furnished by an extension of the Desert Power Company's lines from the Telluride shaft. Cross-cutting has been started from the shaft toward the mineralized section of the Oatman Eureka, which has been bonded by the noted Jerome Corporation.

A large tonnage of high-grade ore is going to the Tom Reed mill from the Aztec mine of the Tom Reed estate. Drifting is to be started at once on the 700-foot level toward the United American west-end line, through stoping ground. Fine ore also is coming from the 500-foot level of the Ben Harrison section.

Only a few feet remain to be driven by the Western Apex management in the cross-cut from the bottom of the sixty-foot Baltic shaft. Promise is made that the Western Apex soon will be sending selected ore from its 700-foot level stopes to the Tom Reed mill.

Job of Fishing Delays Miley's Goleta Project

The Miley Petroleum Exploration Company has been slowed down on its deep-test well in the Goleta district of Santa Barbara county by a fishing job at 5314 feet. The recovered drill pipe is now being straightened.

Little effort is being made to obtain production from the company's four commercial wells at Goleta, H. J. Miley says, because of the low price of crude. The wells are being tested at different levels. Two wells are now flowing and two are on pump.

The Barnsdall Oil Company's No. 1 well on the Edwards ranch is drilling at about 2700 feet, in red shale formation.

The Channel Oil and Development Company' well on the mesa, west of Santa Barbara, is drilling in blue shale at 5490 feet. Several showings of oil and gas have been had below the 4600-foot level.

H. B. Osgood of Santa Barbara has leased 320 acres of prospective oil land from Frank Reyna of Santa Barbara in the mountains near the Ventura county line and some distance northwest of the Ventura-avenue field. It is strictly wildcat territory.

United Metals Unwaters Old Mine Workings

CLIFTON (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The workings of the United Metals Company have been entirely unwatered and a winze from the main 800 level is being retimbered in preparation for sinking to 900 feet depth. The main shaft also may be sunk from the 800 to the 900-foot level, though an entirely new shaft may be determined upon.

The water problem is not a material one. Two 150 horsepower Diesels have been installed, giving ample reserve power, and an electric hoist has supplanted the former gasoline hoist.

The mine is the famous old Carlisle, in Steeplerock mining district in New Mexico, thirteen miles east of Duncan, Ariz., on the line of the Clifton branch of the Southern Pacific system. P. F. Boswell, the company's treasurer, and Alfred Strong Lewis, its secretary, are in charge.

McKITTRICK SELLS OUTPUT OF WELLS

McKITTRICK, Sept. 18. (Exclusive) The McKittrick Oil Company has contracted to sell to the Standard Oil Company, all oil produced on wells on the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of Sec. 18, 30-22, in the McKittrick oil fields, near Reward. A notice of the sales contract was filed for record here. Terms of the agreement were not stated.

POTRERO INTEREST REVIVES

Associated Will Deepen Hole; Considerable Gas Present; Gravity Test Reported as High

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Development of the past ten days has started things to popping at a brisk rate in the Potrero district of East Inglewood, where the Associated Oil Company has again been trying to find out what it has in the Cypress No. 1 without letting anybody else know. From visible indications and reports from field scouts it is learned that the company has gotten some oil from the hole and that it had a brisk little gas blowout there a week ago last Friday.

Considerable oil has been coming up with the mud and below the mud and oil there appears to have been gas but no water, so there is strong probability that the crew succeeded in getting a water shutoff.

Following the gas blowout some time ago samples of oil and gas were obtained and the gravity test on the oil appears to have indicated that the product will run something better than 33 deg., and that the gas might be expected to produce approximately two and one-half gallons of gasoline per 1000 cubic feet of gas.

The company now is getting ready to drill the well a little deeper. It is understood that some of the Associated men think that the drilling mud which has been in the hole for many months clogged up the formation so that the well will now flow freely, so they are going to deepen it into new formation.

GEOLOGISTS SKEPTIC

Several geologists who have pondered over this theory are free to admit that they take no stock in it, their belief being that such gas pressure as manifested itself there ten days ago would clear the formation of any obstructing materials. Some of the geologists do think, however, that as soon as the company deepens the well a little it will stand rather a good chance of getting commercial production.

The question now is, will the company produce the well if it proved that it is a well? From indications of the last four days, company officials are understood to be of the belief that the well should be good for from 1200 to 1500 barrels a day with but little deepening. Guessing at what a wildcat well may yield when there is no other producer near it is purely a waste of effort and it is doubtful if the Associated boys have bothered to make any production estimates, although they have had plenty of time to do so in recent weeks while sitting around the derrick, shouting "Go 'way, bad man!" at the pestiferous scouts who have slept in their cars around the fringe of the lease, waiting to see what the bailer would bring forth.

JUST CURIOSITY

Unquestionably the Associated will test the well after deepening it a little, but it is doubtful if it will produce it other than for a brief test, because it is reasonably certain that the company doesn't want to start a new development campaign there for some time.

According to fairly authentic reports, the Associated would have to pay $16,000 spot cash to hold one five-acre lease, if the Cypress No. 1 was placed on regular production, and there are other expensive land propositions thereabouts which make it appear advisable to hold the Cypress No. 1 back as long as possible.

In the meantime other operators are getting busy in the Potrero district. The Mariand Oil Company, which some time ago gave up a 160-acre Connelly lease on the east side of the field, still holds its eighty-acre Connelly lease, due north of the Potrero Country Club and surrounding the lease on which the Julian Petroleum Corporation drilled its deep Cypress Heights well some months ago.

The Shell Company, which until now has failed to see the slightest ray of hope for the Cypress No. 1 of the Associated, is reported to be eagerly endeavoring to get a tail-hold on the 160-acre Connelly lease which Mariand surrendered.

George W. Johnson, who has done considerable wildcatting in the Los Angeles basin, is reported to have bought the derrick and taken the lease of George F. Getty, Inc., which is 675 feet north of the Cypress No. 1 well.

MARLAND INDIFFERENT

Mariand recently gave a well-known investor of this city an option on its eighty-acre Connelly lease, but it is asserted that the option, which lease men say the Associated was considering, was not exercised.

A few months ago there were fourteen derricks at Potrero, and at least five holes are reported to have been drilled around the Cypress lease—two by Associated. Before Associated started the Cypress No. 1 half a dozen major companies shot that territory full of holes and got nothing but gas.

FIND OLD COIN

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—While digging in the backyard of his home here, Giles Jowers, aged 10, unearthed an ancient Spanish coin. One side of the coin fixes its age with the date, "1770," and with the inscription—"Rex Carolus III."

ORD GROUP OF CLAIMS ACQUIRED

Consolidated Virginia to Operate Properties on Larger Scale

Zeb Kendall of San Francisco, general manager of the Consolidated Virginia, has taken over the Ord group of twenty-eight claims, eight of which are patented, in the Ord-Belleville mining district of San Bernardino county, fourteen miles south of Daggett, and will begin at once extensive equipment and development of the property.

The Ord mine is owned by Col. Frank A. Werner of Los Angeles, and was held under bond and option by the Ord Mines Company, which has released its contract and agreement to the Consolidated Virginia.

The property has been quite extensively developed, and $300,000 has already been expended in exploratory work. Approximately 4,000,000 tons of ore is in sight averaging about 3 per cent copper to the ton and $3 in gold, with occurrences of high-grade going 40 per cent copper and $40 in gold.

The Consolidated Virginia begins immediate heavy operation under the supervision of Gordon Cole, engineer in charge, and the construction of a large milling plant is contemplated.

Getty About to Fulfill Terms of Kern Lease

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—With fifty-one wells completed, George F. Getty, Inc., is preparing to meet final drilling agreements within the next two months on the Lenhardt and Tegeler leases on the West Front of the Kern River oil field.

One well is being cemented on the Lenhardt lease, and after it is put on production only two more wells will have to be drilled before the lease agreements are rounded out. There remain but two wells to be drilled on the Tegeler lease before it is completed.

Getty is looking around for new production in the West Front area. A steel derrick has been erected for a prospect well to be drilled on the Grady lease, Sec. 26, 28-27, which would extend the West Front boundary one mile southeast from present production if oil is found.

SECOND WELL BEGUN

Associated Oil Starting New Project at Olidale

OILDALE, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Associated Oil Company has spudded in its second West Front well, No. 1, on the southwest corner of the northwest quarter of Sec. 23, 28-27, after cementing its first well, No. 56, drilled on the same section.

As soon as No. 56 is completed the crew will be moved to the third well site for immediate drilling. The derrick is up and rigged. No. 56 was cemented at the ten-inch casing at 1894 feet.

FUEL LEADS FOR WEEK IN OIL EXPORTS

Movement Slightly More Than Half of Aggregate of 1,856,900 Barrels

While bulk petroleum exports from Los Angeles Harbor last week dropped below the 2,000,000-barrel mark to a total of 1,856,900 barrels, the total for the first two weeks of the month was 4,617,028 barrels. Last week fuel oil movement amounted to a trifle more than half the total movement of petroleum products, the exact amount of fuel being 939,731 barrels.

The Pacific domestic trade took 772,303 barrels, embracing 335,094 barrels of crude, 280,800 barrels of fuel and 156,409 barrels of gas. The Pacific foreign trade took 324,438 barrels of fuel.

The Atlantic domestic trade took 614,115 barrels, embracing 74,465 barrels of crude, 392,586 barrels of fuel and 247,264 barrels of gas. The Atlantic foreign trade called for 146,044 barrels, embracing 42,127 barrels of fuel, 21,457 barrels of Diesel and 82,460 barrels of gas. The shipments are listed as follows:

PACIFIC DOMESTIC

Kekoskee to San Francisco with 48,760 barrels of fuel for Richfield Oil Company.
Olympic to Seattle with 33,106 barrels of fuel oil for Olympic Steamship Company.
J. A. Moffett to Richmond with 65,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
El Segundo to San Diego with 32,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Socony to Seattle with 27,359 barrels of gas for General Petroleum Corporation.
Socony No. 88 to Seattle with 24,153 barrels of gas for General Petroleum Corporation.
Barge No. 1 to San Diego with 4540 barrels of gas for Standard Oil Company.
J. C. Fitzsimmons to Point Wells with 72,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
El Segundo to Seattle with 32,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Montebello to Manila with 75,094 barrels of crude for Union Oil Company.
J. A. Moffat to Richmond with 65,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Kekoskee to Portland with 56,000 barrels of gas for Richfield Oil Company.
Warwick to Seattle with 42,537 barrels of gas for Union Oil Company.
Richmond to Richmond with 65,000 barrels of crude for Standard Oil Company.
Frank H. Buck to Avon with 65,000 barrels of crude for Associated Oil Company.
La Purisima to San Diego with 44,000 barrels of fuel and gas for Union Oil Company.

PACIFIC FOREIGN

Cape St. Agnes to Yokohama with 45,000 barrels of fuel for Anglo-Saxon Petroleum Company.
Chanaral to Chanaral with 49,346 barrels of fuel for United States Navy.
M. H. Whittier to Honolulu with 72,000 barrels of fuel for Associated Oil Company.
Nora to Balboa with 51,750 barrels of fuel for W. R. Grace & Co.
Chilkoot to Chanaral with 47,542 barrels of fuel for Chile Steamship Company.

ATLANTIC DOMESTIC

H. C. Folger to Philadelphia with 77,319 barrels of fuel for Atlantic Refining Company.
La Brea to Philadelphia with 73,511 barrels of gas for Union Oil Company.
Fred W. Weller to New York with 74,000 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.
Cities Service Petrol to Boston with 94,727 barrels of fuel for Cities Service Company.
Janan Arrow to Providence with 96,440 barrels of gas for Standard Transportation Company.
Hadnot to New York with 74,495 barrels of crude for Cities Service Company.
Wandoo I to New York with 132,949 barrels of fuel for Standard Oil Company.

ATLANTIC FOREIGN

Montana to Rio De Janeiro with 63,984 barrels of fuel and Diesel for Mexican Petroleum Corporation.
Penolope to Hamburg with 32,000 barrels of gas for Baltic American Petroleum Company.

MINE SHUT DOWN

Mexico Issues Permit to Close Clarines Property

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The San Francisco Mining Company has received permission from the Secretariat of Industry, Commerce and Labor to close its "Clarines" mine in Chihuahua because it is unable to work it at profit.

Agents of the Secretariat made an investigation of the case and it was found that at present the mine could not be worked profitably and that a readjustment of a wage scale was not feasible as a means of reducing operation costs.

OPIUM SALE SPREADS

PEKING (China) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The sale of opium in Kaifeng, in the Province of Honan, now controlled by Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang, "The Christian General," has become quite open and widespread and there are now more opium shops throughout the city than there are restaurants.

VENTURA DEAL IMPORTANT

Shell Lease of 400 Acres on Top of Simi Dome Held More Than Usually Interesting in Oil Circles

Papers which have just been filed with the Recorder of Ventura county reveal one of the most important land transactions that has been made in Southern California in recent months. The records indicate that the Shell Company of California has just obtained from the Ventura Land and Water Company interests, represented by Ralph Lloyd, 400 acres practically on top of the Simi Dome, where E. A. Parkford last year found shallow production.

Parkford made a deal with Lloyd to develop 800 acres embracing practically the entire structure, and now Shell is taking half of it, and it is reported by field scouts that Shell plans to start drilling a deep test within thirty days. This well will be drilled at a point about 500 feet due north of Strathern Station, approximately a half-mile south and west of the Parkford well, which is now drilling at 3500 feet, after having had exceptionally good shallow showings.

The deal is regarded as an exceedingly important one for the reason that several major operating companies have been trying to get in on the Simi structure for six months. Quite recently there was a deal on through which Union, Pan American and Shell were to join in a deep test at Simi, but it fell through after considerable negotiation and no sooner was it declared off than Shell made a deal with Lloyd and Parkford to take over half the acreage and develop it at once.

The consensus of opinion among oil operators is that the Simi structure is probably a small one, but that it is almost a sure shot for oil. Parkford is said to have had the making of a fifty to 100-barrel well at very shallow depth, but decided to pass it up and go on down for bigger production.

CONDITIONS AT JACKSON LOOKING UP

Mill Operating Steadily on Ores From Estate of Moore Mining Company

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Conditions are reported improving in the holdings of the Moore Mining Company, near Jackson. The mill is running steadily on ore from the 1100-foot, 1600-foot and 1800-foot levels, with explorations at many points said to be exposing profitable material. The company is deepening the shaft and preparing to seek the extensions of the Kennedy and South Jackson ore bodies.

The Swastika Mining Company of Los Angeles is preparing for comprehensive operation of its placer-gold property in the Newtown district, near Placerville. Orders have been placed for hoists, pumps and sluices, and a powerful pump has been installed. The Swastika is believed by engineers to contain the rich channel which is proving highly productive in the Hines and other properties.

Gold Mountain Mines, Inc., of Los Angeles, has launched a campaign of comprehensive developments on its gold-quicksilver properties at Wilbur Springs, near Colusa, and is preparing to erect the first 500-ton unit of a large reduction plant. An enormous tonnage of low-grade ore is reported as being in sight, and mining will be by means of open cuts and steam shovels, the cheapest method

Chloride Mill Plans to Work Three Shifts

CHLORIDE (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The mill of the Chloride Mining Company now is handling about 100 tons of ore a day in two shifts, and is expected to run three shifts to handle an offering of 1000 tons of ore from the Twentieth Century Mine.

Ore now being milled is from the Chloride's Hidden Treasure mine, from a vein five feet in width, with principal values in lead and zinc, in addition to $5 a ton in gold and copper.

The mill is reported by President W. B. Twitchell to be making a wonderful extraction, with practically no values in the tailings. The selective flotation process is separating accurately concentrates that run 68 per cent lead and 52 per cent zinc.

OIL POOL UNDER SURF SOUGHT

Long Beach Group Drills on Tideland Acreage to Test Theory

The theory that the main pool of oil in the Huntington Beach district lies out under the surf is soon to be tested by a group of Long Beach financiers associated with Dr. James Workman of Santa Ana.

The group has obtained from the State a permit to drill on sixty-two acres of tideland, one and one-half miles west from the extreme eastern tip of the Huntington Beach field. The strip is 210 feet long.

The well has been spudded in and the drill is going ahead steadily. The men associated in the enterprise have had considerable experience in oil development in the Summerland district.

Rice Ranch Oil Company to Pay Dividend Soon

The board of directors of the Rice Ranch Oil Company at a meeting Thursday declared a dividend of 3 cents per share amounting to $30,000, payable to stockholders of record the 24th inst.

Checks will be mailed to stockholders the 30th inst., company officials say.

OIL PERMIT FOUGHT

Texas Court to Decide Legality of Rail Line's Plans

McCAMEY (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Companies owning producing leases adjacent to the right of way of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad in the Upton-Crane county field, will test in the courts the right of the railroad company to drill oil wells upon its right of way, bordering the leased area.

The Railroad Commission recently granted the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient a permit to drill six wells upon its right of way in that field. It is stated that the proposed suit will be based on the ground that the railroad company has no corporate authority to engage in the oil-producing industry.

Tax Refund in California

Jersey Central Power & Light Company

First Mortgage and Refunding Twenty-Year Gold Bonds, Series B.

Price 96½ and Interest, yielding Over 5.30%.

Business: The Company was formed under the laws of New Jersey, with the approval of the Board of Public Utility Commissioners of New Jersey, by the merger of several public utility operating companies and distributes electric light and power service to 187 communities, and gas service to 72 communities in northern and eastern New Jersey. A subsidiary company supplies water service in Lakewood and vicinity. The territory served, which includes a portion of the great Metropolitan District tributary and suburban to New York City, as well as a section of the New Jersey coast communities, has an aggregate population in excess of 360,000, and includes Morristown, Summit, Millburn, Dover, Pompton Lakes, Boonton, Lakewood, Toms River, Lake, Long Branch, Asbury Park, South Amboy, Keyport, Red Bank, Ocean City, Wildwood, Atlantic Highlands, Toms River and Barnegat.

Earnings: (As officially reported for 12 months ended July 31, 1927): Gross Earnings, $6,158,151; Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Local Taxes, $3,544,770; Net Earnings, $2,613,381; Annual Interest Requirements on Mortgage Bonds, including this issue, $1,261,640; Balance, $1,351,741. Net earnings over 2.07 times annual interest requirements on total mortgage debt outstanding. The above earnings do not fully reflect the economies resulting from the interconnections of the gas and electric properties, recently made, or from the expenditure of over $5,000,000 made on the properties during the past twelve months.

Valuation: Upon completion of these additions, these bonds, in the opinion of counsel, will be secured by a direct first mortgage on electric power and light and gas properties which as recently appraised have a depreciated valuation of $18,209,385, and a direct mortgage subject to $3,206,500 divisional bonds, on the remaining properties appraised at a depreciated valuation of $10,777,230. In addition they are secured by the deposit with the Trustee of all the bonds and stock of Lakewood Water Company with a valuation as recently appraised of $1,197,953. These bonds and underlying bonds aggregating $23,439,500, will therefore represent less than 70% of the total value of such physical property of $30,184,568.

Purpose of Issue: These bonds are being issued to reimburse the Company in part for expenditures made or to be made in connection with improvements, extensions, and additions to the plants and properties of the Company.

Further information regarding this issue will be furnished without obligation to you.

Mine and Oil News From Far and Near

LEASERS ACTIVE AT BAKERSFIELD

Papers Filed on Fifty-eight Residential Lots

Largest Block Taken Over by California Petroleum

Seventeen Made in Favor of Petroleum Securities

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Oil-drilling activities within the city limits of Bakersfield again loom with the filing of leases covering fifty-eight residential lots in two widely separated areas in the southern portion of the city. One lease, covering sixteen lots, was executed in favor of the Petroleum Securities Company by Lawrence and Della Massa. The other, a community lease in favor of the California Petroleum Corporation, was signed by Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Righbert and Mrs. Virginia A. Brundage. It covers fifty-eight city lots.

The larger of the two leases, calling for one-sixth royalty from the California Petroleum Corporation, includes lots 10, 12, 14, 15 and 16 in Block 1, lots 6, 8, 10, 11 and 12 to 21 in Block 2; a part of lot 3 and all of lots 4, 5, 7 and 8 in Block F and lots 22, 23 and 24 in Block 2, Subdivision "E," all in the Virginia tract along South Chester avenue. According to the agreement, Mrs. Brundage is to receive 12½ per cent of the royalty and the Righberts the remainder. It is understood that the lease is not to be assigned by California Petroleum.

The second city lease, executed in favor of the Petroleum Securities by Mr. and Mrs. Massa, covers lot 1 in Block B, lots 10 to 18 in Block 4, lots 1 to 5 and also 10 in Block 5, and lots 1 in Block 8, of the Palm tract in the southwest corner of the city. The oil company agrees to drill in three years and pay one-eighth royalty.

The Massas sold outright to the Petroleum Securities, lots 1 to 12 in Block 2, lots 1, 2 and 4 to 23 in Block 3, a portion of lot 1 and all of lots 2 to 23 in Block 6, and lots 1 to 9 in Block 9 in the Palm tract. Consideration was not named in the grant deed filed for record.

Three other new oil leases also have been filed for record here. They are:

A. A. and Bessie Hopkins to California Petroleum, lease to south half of northwest quarter of northwest quarter of Sec. 19, 30-29, in the Union-avenue district; terms, five years to drill and royalty one-eighth.

L. C. and Anna Dora Ross to California Petroleum, lease to portion of southwest quarter of Sec. 19, 30-29; terms, three years to drill, royalty one-eighth.

Petroleum Development Company to William J. Jacobson, lease covering northeast quarter of northwest quarter of Sec. 29, 30-22, and northwest quarter and east half of northeast quarter of Sec. 30, 30-22, comprising 160 acres; terms, one-sixth royalty, drilling to begin September 15, 1927. One well to each six acres.

NEW FREAK OIL WELL IN FIELD

Project on East Side of Sunset Suddenly Turns Gusher

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—To the list of West Side oil freaks the Empire Gas and Fuel Company has added its No. 1 producer on Sec. 4, 11-23, on the east front of Sunset oil field, which came in as a gusher Friday as the crew prepared to clean it to increase pumping production.

As the tubing was being removed, the well began flowing and a few seconds later it began sending up a regular little geyser of oil, two-thirds of the way to the crown block.

COPALITOS MINE GOAL HELD NEAR

Officials of Venture in Mexico State Sanguine of Ultimate Success

After an extended trip into Mexico where, during a period of twenty years he was successful in rounding out a large tract of rich mineral ground in the State of Sinaloa, Martin J. Conroy of Los Angeles, president of the Copalitos M. & S. Co., continued on to New York, where he established main company offices in the General Motors Building with Harry McMeans, company vice-president and director, in charge.

The ultimate success of this big mining enterprise is now seemingly near at hand, President Conroy says, and from a small working force a short time ago the company is now giving employment to about 200 men, who are engaged in carrying on intensive development work in the several mines embraced in company holdings.

At its chief property, President Conroy reports, recent ore disclosures from the 350-foot level down to the 450-foot horizon, have placed in sight large tonnages running from eighty to ninety ounces in silver to the ton, on an average, the ore also carrying appreciable gold values, while some of it is high grade.

The company, Conroy stated, just before leaving for New York last week, is amply financed, and expects to be able to begin regular and heavy ore production within the next eight months, with a monthly output in excess of $300,000. The Los Angeles office of the company will be maintained, as practically all of the machinery and mine equipment will be purchased here.

NEW MEXICO ACTIVITIES TOLD

Heavy Wildcatting Expected in Southeast Corner

Angeleno Company Plans Test Northwest of Kenna

Second Important Wildcat on Schedule for Lea

ARTESIA (N. M.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Southeastern New Mexico appears to be due for an extensive wildcatting campaign during the fall and winter months. Outlying areas, which were passed up by the early operators, are expected to get a share of the play. The present outlook lends weight to the theory that this section will receive a share of the big West Texas development campaign, which is now under way to the southeast.

McQuigg Brothers of Los Angeles, who operate in the Artesia field as the Frontier Petroleum Company, have recently made a location for a 3500-foot test in Chaves county, twelve miles northwest of Kenna, N. M., on the Nels permit. The well is located in the Olive basin, which has been recommended by at least three leading geologists.

Lea county is to be given a second important test. It will be the Jennie Hughes No. 1, in the center of the south half of Sec. 27, 19-38. The well is located four miles south of the Midwest location, and four miles from the Texas-New Mexico line.

The test will be put down in a block of 10,000 acres. The contract calls for a depth of 4000 feet, unless oil in commercial quantities is found shallower. Material is being moved to the location preparatory to rigging up.

Little progress has been made on the Rhodes No. 1 of the Texas Production Company, Sec. 22, 26-37, in Southeastern Lea county, since it struck the last flow of gas at 3130 feet, which blew the tools up in the hole and hung them. The drillers lost the fishing tools in an effort to fish out the broken line and bit and are now trying to clear the hole.

Two important wells in the area of the Texas Production Company gasser have started drilling. They are the Gesster No. 1 of the Pueblo Oil Company on Sec. 1, 17-31, and the Texas Production Company's Robinson No. 2 on Sec. 25, 16-31.

ORE BODY RUNS TO DEEP LEVEL

Calumet and Arizona Opens Up Additional Ground

Campbell Shaft Section of Property Extended

Showings at 1800 Feet Found in 2000 Crosscut

BISBEE (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Recent developments in the deep Calumet and Arizona workings are encouraging. Demonstration has been made that the big ore body in the Campbell shaft section, from 1600 to 1800 feet in depth, exists on the 2200-foot level, near the shaft.

A long crosscut on the 2200-foot level from the Junction shaft now is a short distance from the Campbell, with connection expected this month. It is said that for forty feet the drift passed through an attractive heavily mineralized section of badly shattered ground. Then came driving through chalcopyrite sampling between 1 and 2 per cent copper.

Some speculation is rife whether the C. & A. may not have reached a point where it would be profitable to concentrate its reserves of low-grade, such as in the body just found. Nothing but direct smelting ores have been shipped to date from the local mines, though the company's main output at its Douglas smelter is from Ajo concentrates.

The Ajo product, from the mill and leaching plant of the New Cornelia subsidiary, amounted to 38,274,000 pounds of bullion for the first seven months of this year, compared with over 49,000,000 pounds for the same period last year.

The statement is made that the production is to be doubled at the Eighty-five mine of the C. & A. company, at Valedon, N. M. From Valedon the Douglas smelter now is receiving about 10,000 tons a month of copper ore, welcome in the furnaces because of its high percentage of silica. A. J. Balmforth is superintendent, with 275 men employed. New turbo-generation equipment recently installed gives the powerhouse capacity for supplying 1500 kilowatts of electrical energy.

PLANT CONTRACT LARGE

CARRIZO SPRINGS (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—A contract has just been signed by Earl McClendon, manager of the Dixon Doll plant farm, whereby McClendon will increase his plant-growing industry from 75,000,000 plants to 300,000,000 this year. He specializes in cabbage and onion plants.

ERECTION OF SMALL MILL ON PROGRAM

Arizona Redlands Plans Fifty-Ton Ball Plant at Mine Near Mayer

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The Arizona Redlands Company has plans for the early erection of a fifty-ton ball mill for the development of its Miner mine, near Mayer. The main shaft is 470 feet deep. Most of the ore is reported to be on the 350-foot level, but later development has been started on a lower level.

The Mogul Merger Mines, Inc., of Los Angeles, owning property in this county, has been given authority to sell 200,000 shares at $1 and to exchange 400,000 shares in payment for its mining ground.

Machinery has been ordered for further development of the Barbara Mountain property in the Mayer section. According to Albert S. Konselman, general manager, recent development has been made of a large quantity of good ore. This is to be reached by a new tunnel, 400 feet long, cutting the fifteen-foot vein 250 feet below the bottom of a glory hole.

The Sheldon Mining Company at Walker is reported to be preparing to resume operations and to have a large dump of good lead ore ready for treatment.

The Blue Dick mine is shipping an average of five tons of ore per day to the Magma smelter at Superior.

ROYALTY ASSIGNED

One-Seventh Interest in Lost Hills Passes to H. M. Wade

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Clara Voight and associates have assigned to H. M. Wade, one-seventh of the oil royalty accruing from 2800 acres just west of Lost Hills, according to an agreement filed for record here. Consideration involved was not stated.

Dr. O. P. Goodall and Fred Baker have leased from F. S. Finlayson, ten acres in the Chester tract, Sec. 35, 29-27. Drilling must begin within three years, and royalty is fixed at one-eighth.

HEAVY BENTONITE SHIPMENTS MADE

HOLBROOK (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Large quantities of bentonite are being shipped to Los Angeles by the Filtrol Company, which is working about fifty men on a deposit of material at Chambers, a Santa Fe station about sixty miles east of here. Local work is under charge of Tom Leaden. The material, a peculiar clay, finds ready sale in the oil and soap industries for filtration process.

WOMEN MADE DETECTIVES

PEKING (China) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—A corps of secret service women, 100 strong, is being formed in Peking by the Chief of Police with the object of helping his men in conducting investigations in women's circles. It is stated in the order that the corps will be 100 strong.

Plans for Honolulu's new $700,000 City Hall are being opposed by the public who desire delay until a more pretentious structure can be erected.

MINES GIVE REPORTS ON ORE OUTPUT

Group in Nevada County Files Half-Year Data With Tax Assessor

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) The Nevada Consolidated Copper Company, operating the largest red-metal mines in Nevada near Ely, has ported to the assessor of White Pine county that ore reduced in the first six months of this year yielded gross values of $6,396,208. Net profits were $1,908,414. During the period 1,211,960 tons of ore were concentrated and smelted.

The Consolidated Copper Mines, adjoining Nevada Consolidated, reported gross earnings of $1,166,805, and net earnings of $109,750. Mason Valley Mines Company, operating near Yerington, reports gross earnings of $542,217 for the half-year, but failed to state net profits. Tonopah Mining led the silver-gold producers with net earnings of $108,750 for the period.

The Brougher Divide Company reports that the ore-bearing area on its holdings at Divide has been extended 500 feet southeasterly by an important strike on the Butler-Morris lease. At a depth of sixty-five feet the lease is said to be in a strong vein of shipping ore the full width of the drift. Several leases are shipping steadily from the Brougher, with the product officially stated to range from $15 to $45 per ton, with silver largely predominating.

GASSER WILDCAT AT PIXLEY RECEMENTED

DELONA, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Unsuccessful in getting a water shutoff, Federal Exploration Company has recemented its wildcat at Pixley preliminary to another attempt to gain production indicated a week ago while the well was blowing as a gasser. While gassing, the well blew out slight amounts of oil, it is said.

HUNTINGTON BEACH TRIES NEW AREAS

Trading and Leasing Goes on Apace, Due to Hopes of Added Development

Believing that the west end oil development will be repeated in other sections, property owners at Huntington Beach are trading, selling and leasing property in the vicinity of five projects, which within the next ninety days should indicate the presence of lack of oil.

C. J. Yost, city street department head, has leased his five acres near the Muller tool shop on Seventeenth street and Huntington Beach Boulevard. Mr. Yost leased with a sixty-day drilling clause. He will receive $100 per month with the understanding that should drilling be delayed, the rental will be $200 per month until the well is started.

Wells expected to be tested within the next three months include the Petroleum Securities well on the Coast highway, the Five Points well, the Loftin well at the rear of Huntington Beach Inn, the San Martinez Oil Company's Brewer No. 1 well on the east side and the F. E. Bundy well on the Methodist camp ground.

The setting of casing at approximately 3100 feet in the Loftin well has added interest to the possibilities in that section. It is asserted that the Standard Oil Company's wells across the street were cemented off at a similar level.

Find in Wildcat Near Border of Texas Interests

ROMA (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Great significance is attached by oil operators to the discovery of oil in a wildcat well which is being drilled by the petroleum production department of the National Railways of Mexico eighteen miles south of Roma.

The location of the well is approximately thirty-six miles due south of the shallow field in Zapata county, Texas, and about fifty miles south of Rendado field in Jim Hogg county, Texas. The depth of the discovery well is around 3000 feet. The oil is mixed with a strong flow of gas.

It is stated that the well will be drilled deeper into the sand and an effort made to bring it in as a commercial producer. The nearest town to the new well is Ochos, situated seven miles south, on the Matamoros-Monterey branch of the National Railways of Mexico.

An active drilling campaign on the Texas side of the Rio Grande between the river and the Zapata county shallow field will be started as a result of the Mexico discovery, it is stated.

ALUMINUM SILICATE FOUND

YUMA (Ariz.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Discovery of a valuable deposit of aluminum silica was announced here yesterday by Harry McPhaul, prospector, about four miles south of Quartzite. Six mining claims have been located on the ledge.

The deposit is said to be located in a schist granite formation and there seems to be an unlimited quantity of the rare mineral. Aluminum of silica is extensively used in the manufacture of porcelain, which is to be subjected to intense heat or electrical current.

So far as is known, this is the only deposit of the mineral ever found in the Southwest, though some is found in Nevada. The discoverer intends to ship the aluminum silica to Los Angeles.

STANDARD GETS LARGE ACREAGE

Tract of 800 Acres Leased in Delano-Jasmine Area

Terms Call for Drilling of Eighty Oil Wells

One-eighth Royalty and Five-Year Limit Fixed

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Terms of an oil lease filed for record here call for drilling eighty wells in the Jasmine district east of Delano on Secs. 17 and 19, 25-27. If oil is found there in commercial quantity. The agreement, executed by Harry and Katie Quinn in favor of the Standard Oil Company, covers 640 acres designated as Sec. 19, and 160 acres in the southwest quarter of Sec. 17. Drilling is required within five years, on a one-eighth royalty basis. One well is to be drilled for each ten acres of the 800-acre holding.

Three other leases, covering 160 acres in the Union-avenue district at 11th of Bakersfield, also were filed for record. They are:

James A. and Laura Burnett to John E. Roberts, lease on twenty acres comprising east halves of lots 11 and 12, Sec. 18, 30-29; terms, one-eighth royalty, drilling in one year on payment of $1 an acre per month for the two subsequent years.

John and Agnes J. Kennedy, to George F. Getty, Inc., lease to east half of southeast quarter of Sec. 18, 30-29; terms, three years to drill and one-eighth royalty.

A. E. and Maude Hoagland to Barnsdall Oil Company, lease covering twenty acres in east half of northeast quarter of northwest quarter and forty acres in northwest quarter of northeast quarter of Sec. 6, 30-29; terms, three years to drill and one-eighth royalty.

ACTIVITY IN KERN FIELDS SHOWS DROP

Only Four New Projects Started in Week; Total for Year to Date 220

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Approximately one-fourth of the total of new wells drilled in California this year are located in Kern county. Kern has spudded in 220 wells to date, while the total for the State is 861, just two more holes than were begun for the same period a year ago.

New wells started in Kern county last week numbered four as against eleven for the previous week. Two of the new wells are located in the Kern River field and were started by the General Petroleum Corporation, which spudded in its No. 13 on the Westmore lease, Sec. 14, 26-27 and by the Wonder Company, Ltd., which began its No. 12 on Sec. 22, 26-27.

In the Sunset field the Union Oil Company began drilling a well to be known as No. 3. It is located on the Houchin lease on Sec. 10, 11-23.

J. F. Harrison & Co. spudded in No. 2 on Sec. 36, 29-20 in the Temblor field and is making good progress. They have already made a test for water shut-off in the well and prospects are declared to be good for production.

SHIPPING LINE TO START NEW SERVICE

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Fifteen-day boat service between Vancouver, Can., and Mazatlan and other Mexican ports will begin October 15, according to an announcement just made by Mexico South American Shipping Company, Ltd., who intend to operate the line. The purpose is to stimulate intercommercial relations between Canada and Mexico. The first boat to make the trip will be the Sterling, which will carry both freight and passengers. It will stop at the Mexican west coast ports of Mazatlan, Guaymas, Topolobampo and Manzanillo.

SHOW HUGE MELON

CUERO (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive) Claude Patterson and Merle Clifton of Hugo, Okla., who are visiting in Cuero are displaying a 104-pound watermelon, which they brought with them from their home county.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample at least an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what ores are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Write your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

F.

Crystalline Limestone

HAWTHORNE (Nev.) Sept. 1. Question:—I'm sending you a sample of lime. Will you kindly let me know if it is pre-Cambrian lime and oblige.

Answer: Whether the sample is Precambrian it is impossible to state, without knowing its occurrence. It resembles limestone altered by contact metamorphosis. Microscopic crystals sparingly present.

Silica

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 1. Q.:—I am inclosing under separate cover a parcel containing a crystalline substance and a cream-colored quartz, from near Rhyolite, obtained on my summer vacation. I am curious to know their classification. The man who owns the property thinks they are immensely valuable, but I have my doubts. Your advice has served me well before, and I am anxious to have your opinion upon these specimens. Thanking you in advance for a reply.

X.

A.: The crystalline substance is a crystal of quartz classified as between rose quartz and smoky quartz (cairngorn stone) and of very doubtful commercial value for so-called "gemstone." The milk-white, botryoidal specimen is opaline silica of problematical value. Opal occurs near Skidoo, but, so far, it in no way compares with the Australian fire opal (Girasol.) One should be sure of the facts in chemical mineralogy.

Tin Absent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1. Q.:—Will you please analyze inclosed sample for tin or any other commercial product and oblige.

T.

Two Samples

DINUBA, Sept. 2. Q.:—Under separate cover I am mailing you two samples of ore taken from a claim at Grant's Pass, Or. Will you classify these samples and tell me if they contain any free gold? Is there any tellurium in either of the two specimens? What is the soft gray matter in the white quartz? Thanking you for any information you can give.

M.

A.: The milk white sample is quartzitic rock. The soft grayish mineral is pyrophyllite, which analyzes on the order of talc. The specimen is from a narrow seam or stringer and has "Slickensalides," (as known to the mining boys in the hills) on both sides of the rock microscopical pyrite appears, sparingly, in the slickensalides with a little blende (zinc sulphide.) The other sample seems to be a mixture of ferro-magnesium silicate and chromite, and it also carries pyrite with more or less zinc. Both samples were analyzed for tellurium with negative results, and with certain assayers at Grant's Pass we agree that the first specimen of tellurium is yet to be received from the locality named. It may be that the pyrite in both specimens is auriferous, and a slight reaction for arsenic was noted in both rocks.

Carbonate and Silicate

CHAMBERS (Ariz.) Sept. 2. Q.:—Two samples from Navajo mining district on same property as Bentonite examined by you some time ago. Would appreciate information as to the value of the specimens for fire brick. Does not slack down in water as the Bentonite did. Sample No. 1 is white and No. 2 brown.

J. A. M.

A.: Sample No. 1 is a chalk-like marl, or soft argillaceous limestone and colored slightly pink with Halloysite. No. 2 is a double, hydrous silicate of aluminum and magnesium, silica present, with a little halloysite. Both samples rather doubtful for making bricks.

Silicates

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2. Q.:—Please make tests on samples 2 and 3 for gold and silver. They are from different claims, and please analyze separately.

D.

A.: The whitish sample is quartz-feldspar rock showing pyrite crystals sparingly. The blackish specimens are chiefly of hornblende and pyroxene carrying traces of pyrite, magnetite traces, and feldspathic matter. Silver, of mineralogy, not present. For gold and silver values please consult assayers. Free gold absent.

Native Gold Traces

WHITE WATER, Sept. 3. Q.:—I am sending you four samples found near White Water. Would like to know what they contain and values. The powder-like stuff was found about other ground. The white rock No. 2; the black No. 3, and the brown No. 4 are float found on top of the ground. The powdery mineral is just as it was found.

B.

A.: The powdery mineral is a white pulverulent mixture of hydrous magnesium and aluminum silicates of doubtful commercial value. No. 2 is silicate mixed with aluminum silicate and magnesium silicate, No. 3 is garnetyte (garnet rock.) and No. 4 is quartzitic rock which panned one microscopic color of gold.

Ores of Manganese

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4. Q.:—Herewith I hand you two chunks of ore that has me guessing. Over a dozen miners and mining men that have examined it, all pronounce it different, so I am submitting it to you for classification, and please state if it has any appreciable amount of silica, alumina, lime, or iron and greatly oblige.

S. S.

A.: Two samples were received from you not packed, but loose and opened, and it is a matter of doubt whether or not they are the ones you sent in. If not please mail a small sample for classification. The two specimens referred to are mixtures of silica, with aluminum silicate, iron oxides present, and the fingers are not stained by either sample. The percentage of manganese is not given; the samples showing radiated and concentric forms of manganite sparingly, with manganese silicate found. In contact with hydrochloric acid but little chlorine is given off. The sample is classified as an impure manganese ore, showing some high-grade ore mixed with the named impurities.

Two Specimens

LONG BEACH, Sept. 4. Q.:—Please analyze samples.

T.

A.: The large specimen is amphibole with a coating of yellowish lime carbonate on one side. The other sample is jasper iron ore, impure. The amphibole specimen shows traces of pyrite, but no free gold.

Platinum Present

RAWLINS (Wyo.) Sept. 5. Q.:—Please analyze the two specimens. The grayish rocks are said to contain more or less platinum, but I have my doubts about it. I also forward a sample of mineral that should make good pigment colors or probably a good base for paints. Both samples are from claims located twenty-two miles northwest of Rawlins.

"PITT."

A.: Good, old Pitt! Glad to get a line from you! and, you should have seen your letter as received; it looked as if it had been sent by a "Red"—The yellowish-gray samples of quartzitic rock react for platinum, and the microscope shows traces of platinum arsenide (Sperrylite) more or less present. The red sample is high-grade "mineral paint," and should be easily marketed.

Three Samples

GLENDALE (Utah) Sept. 5. Q.:—Am sending three samples for analyses. Please give me results.

D.

A.: The massive mineral is lime carbonate stained with earthy limonite (hydrous iron peroxide.) The two other specimens are chiefly sand, showing some microscopical yellow mica known as "cat gold." No free gold in the samples.

"Salts"

ROSCOE, Sept. 6. Q.:—Find inclosed samples of mineral found on the desert, near Bakersfield. Please tell me all you can about same, kind of mineral; value, and if of any use as a fertilizer or what?

E.

A.: The samples have a most nauseous taste and are impure so-called "salts." The reactions shown in analysis prove that glauber salt (sodium sulphate;) and epsom salt (magnesium sulphate) are both present in greater or lesser percentages. Sodium chloride found in low percentage. For commercial values of the mixed and impure minerals consult wholesale chemists.

CADET ARRIVES

SAN ANTONIO (Tex.) Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—The first of thirty-two West Point graduates of June, 1927, assigned as students in the basic flying school for the class that starts November 1, arrived at Brooks Field Tuesday.

CHEERFUL CHAFF
BY TIMES READERS

ENTRY FOR THE "MOVIES" AND WIN CASH PRIZES

The Sunday Times produces a popular fun reel called "Cheerful Chaff." Its readers send jokes submitted weekly by readers. Twelve $1 prizes are awarded each week, the names and addresses of winners together with prize-winning jokes appearing on the screen.

Any joke, old or otherwise not adapted for screen use, are accorded space in The Times comic page, receiving a souvenir of acknowledgment.

SMALL FIRE DAMAGE

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 18.—The best fire season in many years is drawing to a close in the Santa Barbara National Forest, and Forest Supervisor William V. Mendenhall discloses that fires this year have burned only 1166 acres within the forest since the season opened.

The fact that hunters have been careful with their fire, and that a dozen or more registrars were on duty during deer season, just closed, was the determining factor in preventing fires, Mr. Mendenhall said.

Santa Paula Arranges for Model Airport

SANTA PAULA, Sept. 18.—Organization of an aero club, the first of its kind in Ventura county, has today eighteen members and will have the first real airport in this county opposite the Ventura County Country Club, the land having been purchased some time ago by the county for a memorial building.

Permission has been obtained by the airmen to use this field, to erect a hangar, and keep the latest model plane they intend to purchase at this port. It is planned to purchase a plane and employ an experienced pilot to instruct the members in flying. The airport will be placed in condition for easy landing and take-off and all necessary equipment added.

An effort will be made to have one of the new beacon lights installed at the field by the government as air experts who have seen the field say it is the most ideal in Ventura county for an airport, there being a marked absence of fog and contrary winds. Later it is planned to purchase one of the new model planes of the Wright whirlwind motor type.

ADVERTISING STUNT

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 18.—A group of Inglewood business men are planning to provide funds and arrange for the printing of an entire series of postcards of local views, in color, of local points of interest, including public buildings, the churches, schools, streets and residences of architectural and historic interest.

John L. Steinbarger, president of the Inglewood Chamber of Commerce, has been authorized to appoint a committee to work with J. Warren Lane, chairman, and other members of the Chamber's publicity committee, in selecting the views.

LIBRARY MAKES SHOWING

INGLEWOOD, Sept. 18.—By circulating 80,444 books during the last fiscal year, the Inglewood branch of the Los Angeles County Library made the largest record of any library in the county system, according to Miss Lenore Forker, the librarian in charge, this fact being shown in official figures in a report just received from the county.

Inglewood also held the record for July, the final month of the fiscal year, 7678 books being loaned here in that period.

SOUTH SEAS GREAT PLACE FOR DRINKERS

PASADENA, Sept. 18.—"There is more drinking of hard liquor in Tahiti than in any place I have ever seen," said James W. Morin, prominent Pasadena attorney, today on his return from a trip to the South Sea Islands with his family.

Morin was impressed by the general esteem in which he says the United States is held by the people of the South Seas. Part of this may be due to the fact that the best physicians in the region are on the American island of Pago Pago, he said. Both natives and white people travel many miles to visit the American doctors.

SECRETARY RECOVERS

ARCADIA, Sept. 18.—R. C. Cutter, former secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here, who was forced to resign because of an eye affliction which threatened him with total blindness, is rapidly recovering and seeking recuperation in outdoor work. He is now serving as a fire warden with the forestry service, stationed in the Monrovia Canyon district.

COUPLE MARRIED IN AIRPLANE

Judge Baird Reads Service While Another Craft Showers Flowers

A wedding in which all concerned were higher up in the air than usual took place yesterday over Los Angeles when Della Heithcock became the bride of Olna Turnbo with Municipal Judge Baird reading the service. The wedding took place in the Fokker monoplane of the Aero Corporation of California.

Lieut. Jack Frye piloted the wedding airship and took off promptly at 10 a.m. After the ceremony, and the plane landed, it was showered with rice and flowers by another ship piloted by Lee Wiley. Eli Owen acted as bridesmaid and George Neubert as best man.

CROSSING RULE TO BE ENFORCED

Police Ordered to Make Rigid Application of Law for Children's Safety

Better protection for school children is expected to result from strict enforcement of the pedestrian-crossing provisions of the traffic ordinance following the issuance of an order by Acting Chief of Police Spellman on request of the Traffic Commission. Chief Spellman's order reads as follows:

"To all officers: Make a special effort to enforce the pedestrian-crossing ordinance, especially where school children are concerned.

"Schools have opened again and motorists are apparently more careless than usual. Last year 26 per cent of all persons killed in traffic were under 16 years of age. This drive will be State-wide. Make Los Angeles the most efficient unit in this movement."

Every police department in the State is putting on a drive to reduce accidents to school children. The provision of the ordinance which will be rigidly enforced is that prohibiting a motorist entering any marked crossing until pedestrians in that half of the roadway have passed in front of his car.

Cinema Merger Plan Denied by Universal Man

Universal Pictures Corporation is not involved in any merger plans and no part of Universal is to be sold or its control changed, it was declared yesterday by Reno Rubel, executive assistant to Carl Laemmle. Rubel said he made the declaration on the authority of Laemmle himself, who cabled a message from Germany, where he is at present, to spike rumors current in Hollywood.

The rumors are to the effect that Universal, P.B.O. and First National are to be combined in the near future. Local officers of the latter two organizations said they have no confirmation of merger plans and that if any negotiations are being carried on between the two producing companies they are proceeding at the New York office.

Laemmle's cable, according to Rubel, said plans have been made for the Universal producing schedule for a long time in the future and that these will be carried out.

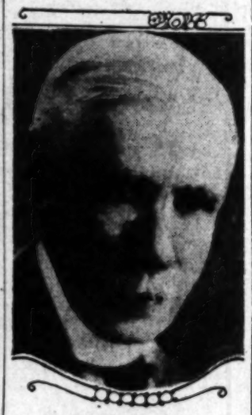
Dead Man Found in Pico Canyon

The body of a man, dead probably for five months, was found yesterday in Pico Canyon, three miles north of Whittier, according to a report to the Sheriff's office. The body had been dismembered, apparently by wild animals. Identification will be difficult, if not impossible, it was said.

WIDENING UP TOMORROW

The City Council tomorrow morning will consider the proposed assessments for the widening of Ninety-sixth street from Hoover street to Vermont avenue.

FUNERAL SERVICES SET FOR TOMORROW



W. C. Mushet

EX-MEMBER OF COUNCIL SUCCUMBS

W. C. Mushet Loses Fight Against Cancer, Dying at Family Residence

W. C. Mushet, 67 years of age, former City Auditor and Councilman of Los Angeles, died at 1 p.m. yesterday at his home, 2431 North Catalina avenue, following an illness of six months from cancer.

The body is at the T. B. Worley mortuary, 2517 Pasadena avenue. Funeral services will be conducted at St. Paul's Cathedral at noon tomorrow.

Mr. Mushet, who was born in Manchester, Eng., in 1860, came to the United States in 1886 via Cape Horn, landing at San Francisco, where he resided for three years. In 1889 he removed to San Bernardino and ten years later came to Los Angeles. He has resided here since. Mrs. Mushet died March 9, 1920.

The ex-Councilman for many years was a public official of Los Angeles. From 1907 until 1910 Mr. Mushet occupied the position of City Auditor. In 1911 he was a candidate for Mayor. In 1921 he was elected to membership in the City Council and immediately became chairman of the finance committee, a position which he filled during the entire four-year term of office. It was while Mr. Mushet held this position that he was credited with saving Los Angeles taxpayers $2,000,000 by blocking, single-handed, the proposed sale of $13,500,000 power bonds at a discount.

At the time of his death he was an active member of numerous civic and social organizations here. He was a member of several Masonic bodies, including the Shrine. He also was treasurer of the Los Angeles diocese of the Episcopal Church and a member of the mission board and was directly affiliated with the Church of the Epiphany. He served as a high official of the Los Angeles Board of Trade and the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association.

He leaves a son, William L. Mushet of Los Angeles; two daughters, Mrs. Caletta M. Van Valkenburgh of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Isabel M. Stockland of Pasadena; a year old grandson, Robert Lee Stockland; a brother, Robert Mushet of this city, and two sisters, Mary C. Mushet of Los Angeles, and Mrs. Eliza Jessen of Santa Paula.

Students to Try Kindness on Freshies

Freshmen on the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles will be met with cordiality and kindness instead of hazing, as has been the custom in past years. Flogging of the freshmen was abolished this year as a result of action taken by the student council.

As a further consideration to the freshmen, the student council of U.C.L.A. has substituted small "dinkies" for the larger felt hats of former years. Freshmen are still required, however, to observe certain traditions, such as sitting in the balcony during assemblies, refraining from wearing high-school jewelry, and smoking only corncob pipes.

VIADUCT COST PACT NEARS

First-street Project Contract to be Awarded When Agreement Comes on Division of Expense

The Board of Public Works is planning to award this month a contract for the new First-street viaduct across the Los Angeles River to the North Pacific Construction Company, which is the low bidder. The company's bid is $613,477. Bids were opened by the board last month, but the contract cannot be awarded until all agreements have been signed as to the division of the cost of the bridge between the city, county, Los Angeles Railway, Union Pacific and Santa Fe railroads.

The Railroad Commission has approved plans of the viaduct, and Councilman Sanborn, chairman of the City Council's Tunnels, Bridges and Viaducts Committee, will work this week to bring about the approval of the County Supervisors as to the division of costs. The Councilman says that with the approval of the Supervisors, he way will be cleared for the Board of Public Works to award the contract.

The opening of the new $1,400,000 Seventh-street Viaduct for traffic this morning clears away another obstacle to the construction of the First-street viaduct, as neither the city, nor the railroads desires to have more than one viaduct under construction at the same time.

The new First-street modern reinforced concrete viaduct will replace the existing inadequate wooden bridge, which was built in 1889. It is the oldest bridge now in use in this city. The First-street viaduct will be 2062 feet long, which is 800 feet longer than the present bridge and 482 feet longer than the new Seventh-street viaduct. Elimination of dangerous railroad-grade crossings on the west side of the river will result from the construction of the new bridge as the viaduct will pass over Santa Fe avenue and other streets and railroad rights of way.

While the contract price for the new viaduct is $613,477, the total cost will be about $1,500,000 as the expense will include railroad-track changes and damages for land obtained for viaduct approaches.

J. ROSS CLARK, CAPITALIST, DIES

Was Forty Years Identified With State Growth

He and Brother Built Salt Lake Railroad

Banks and Large Industries Among His Interests

J. Ross Clark, 77 years of age, pioneer capitalist of Southern California, one of the founders of the Citizens' National Bank and the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank, and one of the builders of the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad, died suddenly at his home, 710 West Adams street, last night, after an illness of several months.

Born in Pennsylvania, Mr. Clark migrated to Montana with his brother, the late Senator William A. Clark, who died several years ago, and started in the banking business. He came to California about forty years ago and was identified with the early industrial development of the State.

BUILT RAILROAD

With his brother, he built the Salt Lake Railroad, floating a bond issue of about $70,000,000, tremendous undertaking for those days. The road was later sold to the Union Pacific. He was vice-president and executive head of the road for many years. In addition to his banking activities here, he also was head of the Los Alamitos Sugar Company, the first organization of its kind to be formed in Southern California, an president of the Montana Land Company, which owns large tracts of valuable land on Signal Hill. He was vice-president of the Citizens' National Bank and Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank at the time of his death as well.

PROMINENT IN CLUBS

Mr. Clark was a Mason, a charter member of the Jonathan Club, and a member of the California Club, the Los Angeles Country Club and the Midwick Country Club.

He leaves his wife, Miriam A. Clark, one grandson, J. Ross Clark II, now a student at Lawrenceville Academy; William A. Clark, Jr., nephew, and three sisters, all residents of Los Angeles.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Wilshire Exposition to Have Varied Features in Entertainment Program

The fifth annual Wilshire District Trade Exposition will open its doors to the public tonight at 7 o'clock in a tent on Western avenue at Third street. It will portray the growth of the Western avenue-Wilshire Boulevard business district and is given under indorsement of the Western-avenue Business Association.

Opening ceremonies include a band number and remarks by A. H. Vossmeyer, president of the association, after which the program will be placed under the direction of Al St. John, comedian.

An entertainment program including the Merrle Holmes Orchestral Sextet, Lydia Josey, Russian vocalist; Eilene James, dancer; the Melody Trio and other vaudeville acts has been arranged for tonight.

Tuesday evening Master Ramon Laon, boy monologist and film player who is well known to KHJ listeners-in, will appear. Tomorrow night is Gita Rayeva night in honor of the ballet coach.

Decorations have been hung for two miles along Western avenue, and all is in readiness to make the affair a gala occasion. The exposition pavilion has been draped in rose and gold hangings.

Exhibits include all classes of merchandise from household appliances and labor-saving devices to expensive wraps and evening clothes. Many food manufacturers and dealers will present demonstrations and give away free samples.

New 1928 models of several motor cars will be seen in the auto-show section for the first time in any exhibit in Los Angeles.

Italians Mark Day of Nation

A celebration commemorating the anniversary of September 20, 1870, when Italian rule was transferred from the Vatican at Rome to the control of the state, was held yesterday at Rose Hill Park under the auspices of local Italian societies.

A secondary purpose of the affair was to raise money for the Italian school on Avenue 20 and for a charity fund for deserving Italians. Approximately 3000 people attended.

Judge Desmond of Superior Court delivered an address on "The New Italy," and Dr. Tullio Balbono spoke for the city.

SICKROOM SESSION LIKELY

Mrs. Jacobson, Councilman's Chief Defense Witness, Still Unimproved, May Testify From Bed

A bedside session of the court hearing the trial of Councilman Carl I. Jacobson, on a morals charge, was regarded yesterday as a possible development in the case this week as the condition of Mrs. Jacobson, announced as one of the chief defense witnesses, was reported unimproved.

Mrs. Jacobson, who attended the first scenes of the trial with her husband, suffered an attack of lumbago when the trial reached its most critical stage and has been confined to her bed since.

YOUTH TO TESTIFY

Following an opening statement to the jury today by O. N. Hilton, who, with W. V. Anderson, is acting as Jacobson's counsel, Donald Crawford, a high-school pupil, is expected to be called to the stand to resume testimony which was started on Wednesday, last.

Crawford, the defense asserts, witnessed the raid on Mrs. Grimes's Beagle-street home from his car, which was parked in the street near the house.

Mrs. Grimes, who also has been ill, suffering from nervousness and an anemic condition, was asserted to be somewhat improved. Her attorneys, Hickson & Steffes, however, are expected to request a continuance of her trial on a charge of being a disolute person. Mrs. Grimes is scheduled to go to trial as soon as the Jacobson trial is concluded.

JACOBSON MAY TALK

Although defense counsel declined to name witnesses which they expect to call to testify in Mr. Jacobson's behalf following young Crawford, it is believed that the Councilman will take the stand himself to tell his side of the raid which resulted in his arrest.

Mr. Jacobson also has been subpoenaed as one of the defense witnesses at the trial of Mrs. Grimes.

UNITARIANS' NEW CHURCH DEDICATED

Nine Hundred at Services and Crowds Inspect Edifice During Afternoon

Nine hundred persons yesterday morning attended the dedicatory services at the First Unitarian Church, 2936 West Eighth street, completed a few days ago at a cost of approximately $250,000. The capacity of the main auditorium of the beautiful Spanish-Colonial structure was overtaxed. During the afternoon hundreds of visitors inspected the new church building.

The dedicatory address was given by Dr. A. Eustace Hayden, head of the department of comparative religion at the University of Chicago. The Rev. E. Burdette Backus, pastor of the church, presided at the service.

The former church building of the First Unitarian Church, at 925 South Flower street, was sold two years ago to commercial interests, and since June of this year the congregation has been without a meeting place.

Naval Board to Conduct Inquiry in Plane Deaths

The bodies of the three naval flyers who were killed when their plane crashed Saturday near Palmdale in the Mojave Desert were returned to San Diego yesterday by Lieut. McDade. He announced that a naval board of inquiry will be conducted to determine the cause of the crash and no inquest will be conducted, Coroner Nance stated.

Lieut. McDade was on the scene of the crash a few hours after the men were killed and took charge of the bodies. The three flyers, who were on their way from San Diego to attend the national air races at Spokane, were Lieut. Eaton Boothe, 26 years of age; Kenneth McRae, 27, and C. S. Harrison, 27.

The plane is believed to have fallen into a tailspin.

Five Tax Liens Filed by Welch

Clarence Blazier, 213 West Twenty-seventh street, said to be a real estate operator, was named in five income tax liens on file yesterday in United States District Court. The liens filed by Galen H. Welch, collector of internal revenue, are as follows: 1920, $5887.06; 1921, $45,689.72; 1922, $81,-040.67; 1923, $82,868.83; 1934, $28,-860.45.

GIRL KILLED ON BETROTHAL DAY

Youth Found in Garage Unconscious and Fiancee in Car Beside Him Dead From Monoxide Gas on Day of Party to Announce Engagement

SANTA ANA, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—On the day of the announcement of her engagement to be married, Alice Richards, 18 years of age, was killed by monoxide gas from the exhaust fumes of an automobile, and her fiance, Victor Walker, 22, may die from the same cause.

The announcement party was scheduled to be given at the Walker home, 1066 West Third street, tonight. Last night the young couple went for a ride in Walker's car and are believed to have returned late at night. This afternoon neighbors heard groans coming from the garage in which Walker kept his car, at 1079 West Third street, and, investigating, found Miss Richards dead and Walker unconscious. Walker was taken to his home and treated by Dr. R. A. Cushman of 710 South Birch street, who expressed the belief that, though the young man was still unconscious, his chances of recovery were about even. Miss Richards made her home with Dr. and Mrs. Cushman, her parents being separated.

The engine of Walker's car was not running when the discoverer opened the door of the garage, but the ignition switch was turned on and the engine evidently stopped of itself.

CITY WAITS FOR ARRIVAL OF 'WE'

Preparations Complete for Riotous Reception

Crowd of 200,000 Expected to Greet Lindbergh

Half-Million to See Hero at Three Appearances

The following program announcing the details of the arrival, welcome program, reception at the Coliseum and banquet in honor of Col. Lindbergh, will be broadcast over Radio KHJ, The Times, Los Angeles, commencing at noon tomorrow:

12 noon—Lindbergh program from KHJ studio, Times Building, Uncle John announcing.

1:15 p.m.—Boadcast by direct wire from Vail Field. Review of Lindbergh's achievements in the air service and his epochal flight from New York to Paris. Bill Henry announcing.

2 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.—From Vail Field Describing the landing of Col. Lindbergh and his reception.

2:30 to 3:15 p.m.—Microphone on Broadway at First. Uncle John announcing the formation of the Lindbergh parade and the many colorful details of the gerat celebration.

3:15 to 4:15 p.m.—Broadcast from Coliseum. Col. Lindbergh's message to the people of Los Angeles and Southern California.

7 to 9 p.m.—Broadcast from the Ambassador with microphone in the banquet room.

With preparations completed for one of the greatest receptions ever accorded an international celebrity, Los Angeles is eagerly awaiting the arrival here tomorrow afternoon of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the former air-mail pilot who leaped into world-wide fame when single-handed he piloted his trim monoplane, the Spirit of St. Louis, from New York to Paris in one of the greatest serial feats in history.

When the hero drops from the skies over Vail Field after his flight from Reno, Nev., he will land amidst a welcoming throng which is expected to overshadow all crowds that have greeted him since his stirring feat.

FIFTIETH LANDING

Not less than 200,000 Angelenos are expected to witness the official ceremonies at Vail Field where Col. Lindbergh will be welcomed to the city by Mayor Cryer and members of the reception committee of the Chamber of Commerce in charge of the day's events. The focal point of the city's interest is regarded as the flying field as there opportunity will be afforded all to see the daring flyer land aboard the plane in which he flew his way to fame.

When Col. Lindbergh and the Spirit of St. Louis land at Vail Field, it will be the fiftieth such landing the famous "We" team has made since the start of the nation-wide flight under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc. The tour was started just two months ago.

PARADE THROUGH TOWN

Los Angeles' program for the intrepid trans-sea flyer calls for a parade through downtown Los Angeles to the Coliseum where Col. Lindbergh will make his one open-air speech while here. Following the Coliseum gathering, the flyer will later appear as the principal speaker at a banquet to be given at the Ambassador before a crowd anticipated at more than 1200.

It is expected that nearly 500,000 people will see or hear Col. Lindbergh in his three appearances—the flying field, the parade and the Coliseum meeting. Many thousands more will hear him by radio over KHJ, which will broadcast exclusively from Vail Field, along the line of the parade and will later hook in on the Coliseum and banquet programs.

Col. Lindbergh will land at Vail Field at 2 p.m. After a brief welcoming ceremony there he will be rushed to First and Broadway where the parade will be formed. The parade will follow along Broadway to Twelfth street, then to Figueroa and out Figueroa to the Coliseum. Elev-

FLEET STARTS ON TRAINING

Gunning and Tactical Schedule Will Take Up Time Until Christmas Holidays

Hard work to last until the Christmas holidays begins this morning for the battle fleet with the opening of annual gunnery and tactical training schedule. The dreadnaught squadron will put to sea for practice runs and rehearsals for short-range battle practice and antiaircraft practice, returning to port each evening until Friday.

On next Friday morning the whole fleet will participate in the first of the monthly tactical exercises, carried out to attain a maximum coordination between the battleship divisions, destroyers, submarines, aircraft and other arms of the fleet. The fleet will be at sea Friday night on the problem, returning to port about noon of the 24th inst.

Short-range battle practice will be fired by all dreadnaughts during the week of October 3 to 6, while during the fortnight of October 10 to 13, the squadron will make practice runs for battle torpedo practice, to be fired during the week of November 7 to 13.

The week of October 24 to 30 will be spent at anchor by all units except the battleships of Division Four, which will go to San Francisco for the celebration of Navy Day, October 27. During the run north these ships, including the Mississippi, New Mexico and California, will conduct radio compass problems.

November will be spent in the firing of battle torpedo practice, night battle practice, "B" rehearsals, antiaircraft practice and fleet tactical exercises on November 18 and 19.

The U.S.S. West Virginia, flagship of the battleship divisions, will return the 31st inst. from her annual overhaul at the Puget Sound Navy Yard. The U.S.S. Texas, flagship of the United States Fleet, and carrying Admiral Charles F. Hughes, retiring commander-in-chief, sailed from Panama for this port on the 16th inst., and will join the fleet here on the 27th inst.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

LITERARY critics are exasperated beyond expression because no one will dish all the dirt about poor old Queen Victoria.

The letters of her secretary, Lady Augusta Stanley, recently have been dug out of the trunks; but her loving relatives have withheld all indiscretions.

After all, there wasn't probably a great deal to tell. Victoria was an honest German woman—except for her job, no more or less interesting than 10,000,000 other honest German women.

HAUGHTY PUGS

Only yesterday, as it were, prize fighters were more eager for publicity than soubrettes.

In their present haughty mood, Messrs. Tunney and Dempsey are less approachable than the spokesman of the White House.

Only those sporting reporters who have never been guilty of less majeste are admitted to The Presence.

No one is permitted to interview them. Their deathless remarks are all sold to tabloid syndicates.

MADE TO ORDER

The irony of which is that this fight is not a whit more important in reality than a brawl between two teamsters in an alley.

They have been made into heroes by the congenital inferiority complex of the American reporter.

It would be just as easy to make a hero of a street sweeper if he had the same amount of free publicity.

THE ARTISTS' LOT

Wall paper is coming back into fashion. It is not impossible that pictures may come back to the walls with it.

The present fashion is tough on painters. Most of them are on an enforced diet.

Some of the very best of them have turned to painting hosiery ads. Which isn't such a misfortune at that. Subscribers to cheap magazines are getting some very fine work on the advertising pages.

PHILOSOPHY

The Indian pageant, which closed at the Hollywood Bowl Saturday night . . .

The most interesting thing about it was old Pablo, the Governor of the Isleta Indians.

In a simple sweet natural way, he reproached the white people with being slaves of a clock. Having to do this at 11:30; and that at 9:15.

After all, as he says, what does it matter?

THE NATIONAL WAY

"We Indians," he said, "live by the sun. We get up when the sun gets up; and go to bed when it is dark." And do the other things of life when they feel so inspired. And they seem to get along about as far toward happiness as we do.

Realty Board to Hear Address by Local Traveler

Frank J. Buckley, real-estate dealer and member of the Chamber of Commerce harbor committee, will be the speaker today at the Realty Board luncheon at the Biltmore and will discuss European real-estate and port affairs.

He returned yesterday from a trip to the continent, where he visited six countries and studied real-estate and harbor methods.

INGLEWOOD MAN TWICE WOUNDED

Host of Evening Sought for Firing on Guest

H. C. Mitchell Facing Death; Hunt A. H. Vande Mark

Eyewitnesses Vary in Story of Near-Tragedy

H. C. Mitchell, Inglewood real estate dealer, was in a critical condition at the Milton Hospital, in Lennox, last night, following a possibly fatal shooting in a liquor brawl early yesterday morning in the frame shack of A. H. Vande Mark, used car dealer, 10836 Hawthorne Boulevard.

Mitchell, in occasional lucid moments at the hospital, accused Vande Mark of doing the shooting.

His story is corroborated by Charles Proctor, a guest at the party, and Mrs. Proctor, but Grace C. Haynes accuses Proctor, according to the story she told her brother upon returning home after the tragedy early Sunday morning. Mrs. Haynes, who is separated from her husband, was held at the General Hospital as a material witness to the shooting.

FOUND HOURS LATER

J. P. Kline, an employee of the used car plant, found Mitchell lying in a shed in the rear of the place about 8:00 o'clock Sunday morning, several hours after the shooting. He was rushed to the Milton Hospital.

According to the story told deputy sheriffs, Mitchell took the Proctors out to look at a house, and later all three of them went to a party at Vande Mark's shanty. Shortly after Mitchell entered the place, they say, Vande Mark accused him of "turning him in" for selling moonshine, and a fight started. Mrs. Haynes, intervened, they say, but Vande Mark was knocked down, and later procured a rifle and shot Mitchell through the chest.

Mrs. Haynes, however, who lives at 10704 Fir street, Lennox, told her brother, Walter McMains, a different story upon returning from the party, just prior to her collapse. She declared that there were several fights, and that Mitchell knocked out Vande Mark.

VANDE MARK DISAPPEARS

Later she said, according to her brother's story, Proctor became incensed at Mitchell and took the rifle and shot him. Vande Mark has disappeared, and was not found at a late hour last night. Mrs. Haynes had taken part in the fight, according to both stories and had endeavored to break up the scuffles.

When Mitchell was shot, the Proctors stated, they were rushed out of the house and did not know of his condition until officers called.

Vande Mark and Mitchell had been close friends for a number of years, Mrs. Mitchell said last night, and she does not know of any enmity between them.

Mitchell had at one time held a minor office in the Ku Klux Klan. Friends and relatives said, but had not been active in that organization for a number of years.

FOURTEEN BATTLE OIL INDICTMENT

Invader Company Trial Begins Today If Judge Refuses Motion to Quash

United States District Judge James today will rule on a motion to quash the indictment of B. Frank Wood and thirteen associates in the asserted $20,000,000 Invader Oil Corporation mail-fraud case. Irregularities in the voting of the indictment is asserted by the defense.

If the motion to quash the indictment is overruled, trial of the defendants will begin tomorrow morning before Judge James.

That the government considers the Wood case of great importance is attested by the fact that John S. Pratt of Toledo, O., special assistant to the United States Attorney-General, has been sent to Los Angeles to conduct the prosecution. Pratt was the prosecutor in the famous mail-fraud trial of Dr. Frederick Cook, self-acclaimed discoverer of the North Pole, who was convicted in Ft. Worth in connection with the promotion of a gigantic oil swindle.

Assisting Attorney Pratt will be J. Edwin Simpson, first assistant United States Attorney at Los Angeles, who last week obtained the conviction of E. O. Lewis, Atascadero promoter, and his chief aide, Maj. Henry L. Kramer, on mail-fraud charges.

Wood and his codefendants, all of whom are Texas and Oklahoma oil promoters, are said to have obtained more than $20,000,000 from investors in Southern California, Texas and Oklahoma in the alleged fraudulent promotion of the Invader Corporation.

Generalissimos Summon Private

Mystery surrounds the calling to Washington yesterday of Thomas Rollin, veteran prohibition agent. Rollin was instructed to report immediately to Washington to confer with Prohibition Commissioner Doran and other high officials of the department.

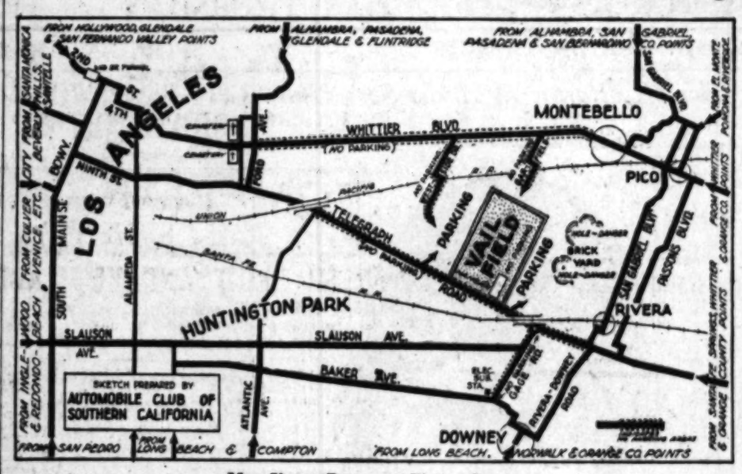
Rollin is a veteran of approximately thirty-five years in government service. His calling to Washington is the first time on record that an agent has been summoned to Washington to confer with high officials, it is said. Neither Rollin nor Prohibition Administrator McReynolds would comment on the action of the Washington officials.

BOULEVARD STOPS ASKED

City Attorney Stephens has been instructed by the City Council to present an ordinance making Pico street from Figueroa street to the west city boundary a "boulevard stop" thoroughfare.

EASIEST WAYS TO VAIL FIELD OUTLINED

Preparations Made for Crowd to See Col. Lindbergh



Map Shows Routes to Flying Center

Vail Field, where Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the Spirit of St. Louis will land at 2 p.m. tomorrow, is easily accessible from all parts of Los Angeles. From the city the field can be reached by two routes. It can be reached by automobile via Fourth street and Whittier Boulevard to Westside Drive or Garfield street, then turn to the right to parking spaces beside the airport. The other route is out Ninth street and Telegraph Road directly to the field. Suitable parking spaces have been provided and no parking at the field will be allowed. No one will be allowed on the landing field proper. The above map was prepared by the automobile Club of Southern California.

AUSTRALIAN TO TALK ON THEOSOPHY

Dr. G. S. Arundale to Give First Lecture Thursday at Hollywood Club

Public lectures under the auspices of the Theosophical Society will be given this week by Dr. George Sydney Arundale, general secretary of the Australian section of the Theosophical Society in this vicinity. The first will be at the Hollywood Woman's Club Thursday evening. Another will be from the Hall of Theosophy at 804 West Fourth street, Saturday night.

Dr. Arundale is accompanied by his wife, Rukmini Arundale, a Brahmin woman of the highest caste. Dr. Arundale has been associated with the poet Rabindrinath Tagore, Ghandi and Dr. Annie Besant, international president of the Theosophical Society. He edited Dr. Besant's Home Rule newspaper New India for a time. He was also principal of the Central Hindu College at Benares and held the office of Minister of Education under the Maharaja of Indore in the Holkar State during his stay in India.

He is founder of the Order of the Star in the East and a bishop in the Liberal Catholic Church.

KIMMERLE TRIAL WILL OPEN TODAY

Julian Row Assault Case Slated for Start Before Judge Stephens

H. J. Kimmerle, accused of mayhem and assault with means likely to do great bodily harm, will come to trial today as an offshoot of the Julian Petroleum case, before Superior Judge Stephens.

Kimmerle, according to the charges, was in the office of the stockholders of the Julian Petroleum Corporation in the Wilcox Building, while D. Spurlin was head of the stockholders' committee. It is asserted that Arthur M. Loeb, who was reported as the victim of the attack and lost an eye as a result, persisted in talking to Spurling and that Kimmerle attacked him.

The asserted attack occurred on June 21, last, shortly following the Julian disclosure. Loeb was taken to a hospital.

Fear for Beery Held Unfounded

That Wallace Beery, screen actor, is not lost in the region of Silver Lake, where he is spending his vacation, but is merely out of touch with the world at large, is the opinion expressed yesterday by a member of the Famous Players-Lasky publicity department.

Beery, according to word received here Saturday night, had been missing for several days, it is explained by persons familiar with the remote locality that this does not necessarily give cause for alarm since the actor was accompanied by a guide.

However, an inquiry has been launched by officials of the film company.

ESTATE OF $10,000 LEFT GRANDCHILDREN

Barnett Goldstein, who was killed when his automobile was wrecked by a street car recently, left twenty-one grandchildren and $10,000, according to his will, filed yesterday for probate by Attorney J. C. Goldstone.

He devised his property to his widow and his grandchildren. The matter will come on for hearing before Judge Valentine October 10.

COUNCIL TO BE GUEST

The members of the Los Angeles City Council will be guests of the Masonic Club of Los Angeles Wednesday noon. William G. Bonelli, president of the Council, will be the principal speaker. E. Justin McCully will preside at the meeting and Carl Pirie and his Masonic Club orchestra will furnish the musical program.

CITY AWAITING ARRIVAL OF 'WE'

en bands will appear in the line of march and at the Coliseum.

At the Coliseum, the distinguished visitor will speak briefly to the capacity crowd expected there. Joseph Scott, local attorney, will also speak on the program.

At the evening program, D. F. McGarry, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside and Mayor Cryer will make a short speech in appreciation of Col. Lindbergh and his achievements. Oscar Lawlor will speak on the life of the flyer, and Col. Lindbergh will close the program with a short talk on commercial aviation.

As Los Angeles will center its interest on the landing field where both he and his plane can be seen, The Times today prints a map showing routes to the flying field and also showing where automobiles may be parked without charge.

VIADUCT TO BE OPEN

The Seventh-street viaduct will be opened to automobile and street-railway travel this morning, J. C. Shaw, City Engineer, announced yesterday. The contractors, Lang & Bergstrum, at the request of the City Engineer, have been working extra large crews night and day in order to have the viaduct completed in time to open up a new avenue of approach from the west to Vail Field.

The new viaduct will enable motorists to reach Whittier Boulevard and Telegraph Road quickly and easily.

While there is still a few finishing touches to be added to the viaduct this work will not in any way interfere with traffic.

It was announced at the headquarters of the Los Angeles Railway Company last night that the "R" car would be routed over the Seventh-street viaduct starting this morning.

Col. Lindbergh will leave Los Angeles early Wednesday morning to fly to San Diego, where he will spend two days. There will be no ceremonies at the field on his departure but a special police detail has been ordered for duty there to control any crowd that may gather.

FREE PARKING FOR 100,000 . . RS

The J. P. Ransom Corporation will provide free parking space for 100,000 automobiles in Montebello Park near the scene of Lindbergh's arrival. This is intended to eliminate some congestion along Telegraph Road to Vail Field.

Free access may be gained to Vail Field and landing area from Whittier Boulevard, through Montebello Park, south on West Side Drive and Garfield avenue. The two roads have been graded across the Union Pacific Railroad tracks to Vail Field.

The park is on Whittier Boulevard, just west of the city of Montebello. From Los Angeles it may be reached by crossing the First, Fourth or Ninth-street viaduct over the Los Angeles River, and driving directly east on Whittier Boulevard for about five miles.

LINDBERGH'S PLANS FOR FLYING SHIP REVEALED

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18. (Exclusive)—Before Col. Charles A. Lindbergh left this city yesterday for Oakland, Sacramento, Reno and Los Angeles, members of his party revealed that the ace of the Atlantic envisions an amphibious "flying ship" as the ultimate solution of transoceanic air commerce.

When hidden away from acclaiming throngs in the privacy of hotel suites, with only those around him who are as vitally interested in the future of aviation as he, Lindbergh, they say, loses the restraint which he must, perforce, maintain in public appearance and his boyish exuberance breaks forth without bounds.

In those intimate moments his mental conception of ocean travel by air is a matter of common discussion. It was during such a "hidden" conference that Lindbergh is said to have set forth his ideas of the "flying ship." In the opinion of those closest to him, his beliefs are practicable.

"Possibly engineers may perfect an amphibian plane with a passenger hull built on the order of a yacht," one of his party quoted the New York-to-Paris flyer. "Wings, landing gear and motors of such a flying 'ship' could be removed in case of a forced landing at sea. Masts fitted for sails and radio antennae could be raised from the buoyant hull and the boat navigated ashore."

Local aviation experts, following the discussion, expressed the belief that Lindbergh himself may supplement his present national tour with work on such a plane.

COLONEL TAKES REST BEFORE RESUMING FLIGHT

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 18. (AP)—Going into complete seclusion, Col. Lindbergh rested here today in preparation for his hop tomorrow to Reno and another of his nation-wide receptions in the interest of commercial aeronautics. Col. Lindbergh and his aides throughout the day refused to see anyone, and kept to their rooms.

The flyer will take off from Mather Field, the government landing field here, where his Spirit of St. Louis has been on display, late tomorrow morning, and will fly across the Sierras to Reno. After the reception there he will hop to Los Angeles and San Diego, the last two stopping points in California.

The tour, under the auspices of the Guggenheim Foundation, will end in New York October 23.

LECTURER WILL TALK ON FOREST

Protective Association is Trying to Educate Public on Value of Trees

Representing the California Forest Protective Association, Winfield Scott of San Francisco is here today to start a sixty-day speaking campaign in Southern California planned to bring about a better understanding of the part that forests play in the economic life of California, of the role that systematic reforestation has assumed in placing trees on a crop basis, and of the latest measures being adopted in the Sierras and in the north Coast region of fire prevention and fire fighting.

Scott came south with an assured booking of fifty-five meetings with men's and women's clubs, colleges and high schools. His first talk in Los Angeles will be to the Rotary Club next Friday. Among the clubs that have arranged to hear him are the Friday Morning, the Ebell and the Wednesday Morning clubs of Los Angeles and the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena. Pomona College and the State Teachers' College of San Diego have provided special meetings for him. The campaign extends from Santa Barbara to San Diego, and as far east as Riverside.

ARSON CASE MAY REACH JURY TODAY

South Gate Man Accused of Burning House to Promote Fire Department

The case of Peter De Yager, former chief of a voluntary fire department at South Gate, on trial for a second time on a charge of arson, is scheduled to go to the jury today in Judge Kegeler's court.

De Yager is accused of having fired a house in the suburban city in an effort to create interest in the organization of a regular fire department. According to testimony which came out at De Yager's first trial, the members of the voluntary department received $2 each for every fire to which they responded. Efforts were made to show that several buildings had been fired.

The jury in De Yager's first trial disagreed after more than twenty-four hours of deliberation.

Actress to Take Dempsey Scroll East via Plane

Bearing a composite message of greeting from sixty-six film celebrities of Hollywood to Jack Dempsey, Marion Mack, screen actress, will take off from Clover Field at 9 a.m. Wednesday bound for Chicago in a plane which has been christened the Spirit of Hollywood. She expects to arrive in Chicago Thursday in time to deliver the parchment to the fighter just before he enters the ring for another go at Gene Tunney.

The idea was suggested at a party at Miss Mack's home a day or so ago at which many film players were present. The parchment will be delivered to Miss Mack by Tom Mix at 8:30 a.m. and a number of screen folk are expected to witness the take-off. The plane, which is one of the Ryan type, will be piloted by Frank Tomick and the air mail route will be followed.

PROTESTS DENIED

The ornamental lighting of Hoover street from Alvarado street to Venice Boulevard has been ordered by the City Council and protests against the improvement have been denied.

BETTER HARBOR FIGHT RENEWED

Battle Fleet Needs Will Be Urged on Congress

Long Beach Plans Drive for Sea-wall Extension

Closing of Gap to Provide Great Outer Anchorage

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Sept. 18.—The needs of the United States battle fleet, at anchor off Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors, will be the lever used by Long Beach civic authorities in their renewed attempt to induce the Federal government to extend the San Pedro breakwater to meet the new Long Beach sea wall, now being completed by this city.

Efforts will be made to obtain an appropriation at the forthcoming session of Congress for the breakwater extension, which, when completed, will provide a great outer harbor covering the frontage of both Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, that will give sheltered anchorage to the biggest navies of the world.

The present anchorage of the battle fleet, part of which is behind the San Pedro breakwater and part of which is in the open sea to the east of the breakwater and extending seaward to a point off Long Beach, is declared to be unsatisfactory. The needs of the Navy will be presented to United States district engineers by Long Beach Harbor officials.

METHODISTS IN SURVEY OF WORK HERE

Conference on Conditions of Pacific Field Called for End of Month

Bishop Thomas Nicholson of Detroit will preside at the Pacific Japanese conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Los Angeles from the 29th inst. to October 2. District superintendents will report on conditions of the church in their territories.

Eminent clergymen and officials of the general boards will discuss the program of the World Service Commission as it affects the work of the Board of Foreign Missions, the Board of Home Missions and the other missionary and benevolent agencies of the church.

It is expected that the bishop will read the appointments of the ministers to the various pastorates on Sunday evening. The presiding bishop will ordain deacons and elders and consecrate deaconesses at the Sunday services.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons from the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Active kidneys free the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system. If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly assist them by using a tested diuretic.*

Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have established a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

...L TORN OFF FINANCIAL ORGY IN JULIAN DEBACLE

...nett and Lewis Handle Millions in Frantic Quest for Cash as "Suckers" Go on Biting

This is a continuation of quotations from Walter V. Woehlke's "The Great Julian Pete Swindle—Why Los Angeles Still Believes in Santa Claus," which appears in the October number of Sunset Magazine, and is reprinted by permission. The third and last installment of the article will be published in The Times tomorrow.—Ed.

...December, 1924. C. C. Julian, founder and president ...Julian Petroleum Corporation, is worried, much worried. ...mpany, with a capitalization of 600,000 shares of preferred stock, worth a par of $50 or a total of $30,000,000, of which a sale of 230,000 shares was authorized, plus an equal ...ber of common-stock shares without a stated par value, ...ld for the rocks. It has a string of gasoline filling sta... ...ut no gasoline of its own. It has fine pipe lines and ...ne and a marine loading station, but no oil production ...whatever.

...ian-investors know Etheridge. When he was running the Morris Bond house in Portland, they paid him cash for bonds and received "interim certificates" which turned out to be worthless, indictments following. Both he and Bennett had been selling the securities of the Lewis Oil Corporation for their master. Now a bigger job was theirs.

Trust was the lay-out. In front, the utmost respectability; "Judge" Lewis using the names of Senator King and of William Gibbs McAdoo freely, borrowing money legitimately from the banks, buying more oil leases, drilling new wells, seeking a refinery; in the half-light of the rear, his chum directing the worst financial skullduggery that has been pulled off in many a year.

Through Wagy & Co. Lewis and Bennett boosted the sale of Julian Pete preferred. "Buy! Buy! Buy! It's going up," they urged the 7000 clients, the 40,000 Julian stockholders. "If you haven't the cash, send us your Julian shares or other securities. For every share you send, we'll buy another one for you. When the rise comes, you get the profit on both."

MULTITUDE OF SINS

That was good business for Wagy & Co., considering the fact that Bennett could produce stock certificates for the cost of printing them. If the stock went up, the owners could always be induced to reinvest their profits in more stock instead of drawing the winnings out in cash; if the market went down far enough, they lost everything—and the Wagy company won. To cover up queer transactions, a $1,000,000 entry was credited on the books to R. M. Rees, the dummy president of the concern put in by Lewis. President Rees bought and sold to Wagy & Co., and that $1,000,000 account covered a multitude of sins.

An episode revealed by C. C. Julian before the grand jury throws a significant light on the character of the chief actors.

Before he quit the ship in December, 1924, Julian had made desperate efforts to keep the price of preferred up, knowing that he would be unable to sell new stock at $50 while the stock already sold could be bought on the exchange for $10 a share. To put the price up he tried to create an artificial scarcity by inducing his stockholders to keep their shares off the market for a certain length of time, permitting them in escrow during the period.

PLAN FALLS DOWN

Though he rented the huge Hollywood Bowl with a seating capacity of 20,000 to expound his plan, though he explained to the multitude of his followers that a conspiracy of the big oil companies and bankers was responsible for the low price of their stock, the scheme was not a success. The element of personal profit was missing. At best the stockholder could hope to get the satisfaction of seeing his stock rise in value while it remained in escrow. So long as the company continued to lose money, a permanently higher price level could not be expected.

So Julian employed a hoary Wall-street device to accomplish his purpose. He organized a "pool."

The operation of a pool is a simple matter. A hundred men agree to put up $5000 apiece to buy a certain stock on margin. As the pool manager buys, the price rises, other owners of the stock see the rise, hang on or buy more and push the price still higher. The art of pool manipulation consists in knowing when and how to sell without causing a violent slump so as to get rid of the pool holdings at the higher prices.

Soon after Lewis assumed control of the corporation, he suggested to Julian that the stock needed support and another pool was in order. Julian agreed and put up $200,000, according to his grand jury testimony, only to discover that Lewis put one over on him by selling him not stock in the hands of the public but shares Lewis had acquired. Whereupon Julian, so he told the grand jury, induced Lewis to go into another pool and sold him back the shares owned by the first pool.

LOANS GO ON

In the meantime Jake Berman, alias Jack Bennett, was manipulating the market, drumming up new speculative clients for Wagy & Co., organizing sure-thing pools and borrowing money on Julian Pete preferred stock at an ever-increasing rate. Julian Pete preferred dropped steadily, sank from the January quotation of $94 for a $50 share to $6.25 in August. In the face of this drop, aggravated by the concern's reputation, no bank would lend money on the stock, but private individuals could be induced to come through with loans at an interest rate commensurate to the risk, provided enough stock were put up to protect them against loss.

Jack Bennett's pool operations were of a similar character. They were merely group loans on stock for a short period, thirty or forty-five days, Bennett agreeing for Wagy & Co. and Lewis to buy back the stock at the end of the period at an advance of $2 a share. As security he put up an additional share of stock for every share bought by the pool. And the buying was always done through Wagy & Co. Sometimes the pool members received their investment and their $2 "profit" back in cash, most of them eager for more easy money, putting capital and profits back into another pool. Sometimes Bennett didn't have the cash, in which case the original pool stock plus enough of the security stock was sold on the open market to pay capital and interest. Whereupon the price would sag some more. But on every transaction Wagy & Co., owned by S. C. Lewis, would take a small rake-off per share.

ILLINOISANS PLAN REUNION

The Illinois State Society will have a reunion and dancing party at 1187 South Hope street Friday evening next. There also will be an entertainment program.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY WEDS PRESS AGENT

Kathryn McGuire

GIRL LAUDED AS PERFECT BLOND WEDS

Former Sennett Actress and Studio Press Agent Married by Rev. Dr. Dyer

Kathryn McGuire, declared the most beautiful blond in Hollywood by James Montgomery Flagg, the artist, became the bride of George ...Landy, director of publicity for First National Studios, in a ceremony at noon yesterday performed by Rev. Frank Dyer, pastor of the Wilshire Congregational Church.

GEORGE LANDY

Miss McGuire is a native of Hollywood, having launched her screen career in Mack Sennett comedies. Recently she has been awarded more serious roles.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mervyn LeRoy, First National director, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Kline of San Francisco, Mrs. Lester Adams, sister of the bride, and her mother, Mrs. Ellen McGuire. The couple left for a motor honeymoon trip to Vancouver, B. C., and Banff, Canada.

HIKES FOR EMPLOYED SCHEDULED

Playground Department Plans Series of Jaunts to Attractive Spots

A series of once-a-month hikes for employed men and women and their families has been arranged by the industrial recreation division of the Los Angeles Playground and Recreation Department and the first will be held next Sunday to Switzer's Camp, in the Mt. Wilson district.

These hikes will be under leadership of Mrs. Laura Swartz, a playground department director and an expert on Southern California trails. A number of the jaunts will occupy two days. Mount Lukens, John Brown Peak, Fish and Monrovia Canyons, Winter Creek, San Dimas Lookout and many other points are listed in a schedule that continues until next June.

Any employed man or woman may register for the hikes at the playground executive offices. The expenses involve only the matter of transportation to the starting point, the hikers bringing their own lunches.

HEARING IN RING DEATH TOMORROW

Promoter of Fatal Fight and Boxer Due to Appear in Municipal Court

Accused of manslaughter as a result of the death in a boxing bout at Bell of Harold Williams, 17 years of age, A. D. DeWeese, promoter of the fight, and James Campbell, alias Jimmie Blake, opponent of the deceased youth, will be given a hearing tomorrow before Municipal Judge Baird.

The two defendants are being held in the County Jail on $10,000 bail. It is charged that DeWeese conducted the prize fights without a permit from the State Boxing Commission, and failed to have a doctor examine each contestant before entering the ring.

The bout occurred on the 14th inst., and the youth died the next day. He is reported to have been knocked down twice before the fatal blow.

Sleeping Potion Brings Death to Mystery Woman

Known only to the police as "Mrs. White," a woman about 40 years of age, died at the General Hospital yesterday from the effects of veronal poisoning, according to a Coroner's report.

Police records show that the woman was found in an unconscious condition in a room at 414 South Grand avenue the 12th inst. by the landlady, Mrs. James Ross. A bottle bearing evidence of having contained veronal was found by Detective Lieutenants Miller and Stevens.

Mrs. Ross stated that the woman had registered at her rooming-house the day before as "Mrs. White." She told Mrs. Ross little of her affairs, saying only that she was a waitress and that her home was at one of the beaches.

Police have been unable to determine whether the woman took the veronal with suicidal intent or as a sleeping potion. Further investigation of the case is being made by members of the homicide squad.

NEW TRIAL DATE TO BE SET TODAY IN SLAYING

Dr. Louise Cable, woman physician, recently on trial on a charge of murder of Ronaldo Franzini last June while he was hunting rabbits on her ranch in Lankershim, is scheduled to appear in Superior Judge Stephens's court today to have her new trial date set.

Dr. Cable was tried once and the jury failed to agree and was dismissed. It is charged that while the youth was on her property he was discovered by her husband, H. C. Cable, who called to her to bring a gun. Dr. Cable asserts that while she was approaching the group, she stumbled and the gun was discharged, causing the boy's death.

HOSPITAL CONGRESS DATE TO BE SET TODAY

Representatives of twenty-nine countries meet in Paris today to decide the time and place for the first international hospital congress and exhibit, according to G. W. Olson, superintendent of the California Lutheran Hospital, which is a member of the American Hospital Association, sponsors of today's gathering.

Los Angeles ranks eighth in the United States in both personal and institutional membership in the association, having twenty-three personal members and fourteen institutional members, the superintendent declared. California ranks sixth in institutional and eleventh in personal membership, he added.

DELEGATES AUTHORIZED

The City Council has authorized the attendance of Assistant City Engineer Stewart, Deputy City Engineer Knowlton, Deputy City Attorney Bryan and Councilman Sanborn at the meeting of the League of California Municipalities to be held this month at Sacramento.

BARNUM UP TO DATE

From the way in which they are holding out, there must be a pedestrian born every minute, too.

FEW LEFT

The suburbanite says he saw a woman riding horseback with a sidesaddle the other day, but he had to go to the circus to do it.

MONARCH SCALES

If some people, as they often are counseled, weighed every word they uttered they'd have to do it on the coal yard scales, not on the pharmacist's scales.

YOUTH'S VOICE

"Church to Hear Voice of Youth," announces a headline. Complaining about the length of sermons?

ALL THEY'RE AFTER

"Munn Easy for Godfrey," says a sport page headline. Well, it there's anything that delights a modern pugilist it's easy Munn.

SUPERFLUOUS TEARS

Tear bombs broke up a negro dice game in Long Beach. Seems like a waste of ammunition, when dice games are noted for making you "read 'em and weep."

THE QUICK AND " 'S DEAD

'Tis better to be well than wealthy. 'Tis better to be sad than sick. One may defy the threat of hell if healthy—or baffle death if one be mighty quick.

NOT THE FIRST

Arizona pioneers protest the plan to erect a monument to Geronimo, famous Indian warrior, because they charge he was just a murderer. But why hold that against a successful warrior, just because he happens to have been an Indian?

NO WORRY—ABOUT THAT

We don't have to buy the public school pupils any textbooks now, but the thoughtful purveyors of children's personal outfits do their best to keep us from worrying about what to do with all the money thus saved.

LOOKING UPWARD

The family of fishes known as star-gazers—because of having eyes directly on top of the head, are not such poor fish after all. In the processes of evolution we may develop a race of humans with their optics at the peak of the beam. This will permit them to stare readily at Lindy and other wonders of the heavens.

UNION NOT NEEDED

If union musicians demand an extra $2 an hour per man if their music is broadcast by radio it will be simpler to use the work of nonunion performers. The Lord knows that the unions have no monopoly of harmony. There are enough saxophones outside of the union to keep the country's feet wiggling.

GIRLS ON WHEELS

Three English girls led all the rest in an international motorcycle race. It was a long reliability run and much of it was through rain, fog and mist. The girls did not lose their way, miss their course, or have any accidents. As against the picked teams of men they were all trumps. Thus proving that you never can tell.

COLORS FOR MEN

Paris is having some success in putting men into bright colors but there is still a long ways to go. The Frenchmen are wearing fancy hats and two-toned spats, but the revolution in evening dress has not materialized. It may come, however, and some day a man will be put to the necessity of raising magenta whiskers in order to express his individuality and defy the women.

EAT NO TOO MUCH

A dietitian emphatically asserts that since the world began more people have died from overeating than from starvation. This is a rather abrupt statement to make and will doubtless be disputed. It would serve as a subject for school and social debates. The trouble is that most of those who died from a surplus of fodder never knew it and even their relatives failed to realize it. But the starvation records are plain and gruesome.

THE IRON VILLAGE

Up in Minnesota lies Hibbing, having a population exceeding 20,000, but declining to incorporate as a city. It is only anxious to be known as the biggest and richest village in America—and it has a $4,000,000 high school plant as an exhibit in furtherance of the latter claim. The place is in the midst of the finest iron ore deposits in the country and there is no bottom to its mines. Looks as if it could go on forever and be rich all the time.

THE FRENCH TARIFF THREAT

It becomes increasingly harder for American economists and statesmen to justify or even to understand the attitude of French statesmen toward the United States. There appears to be no reason for discrimination against American goods in tariff regulations except exclusion, for French consumers will not pay more for American goods than for German, British and Italian products of the same class. There is no sound economic theory applicable to the situation which would show that discrimination against American goods would tend to aid the French treasury in discharging its American debt. French people would not pay more for American products than for other manufactures and if they did the extra sums would come out of their own pockets, thus robbing Peter to pay Paul.

France owes the United States billions of dollars in debts contracted since the war and is even now negotiating through private bankers for the loan of $100,000,000, yet she deliberately aims to enforce tariff regulations against us twice as severe as those against German manufacturers and agricultural producers. An attempt to exclude American goods through the application of tariff rates that are virtually a boycott can have but one practical explanation and that is the use of a discriminatory tariff wall as a pry under the Americans who steadfastly demand a reasonable debt payment plan. France imports only what she does not produce and there is no sound economic reason for imposing tariff rates that would shut out American goods in favor of European products. The answer must be found in the political situation touching upon the debt. Is it by way of saying to America, "If you will not be more lenient in your demands for payment of our debt to you, we will exclude your products by means of a discriminatory tariff?"

If so, it will not work. There is a friendship between the American people and the French people that transcends the somewhat mistaken diplomacy of the French statesmen who control the present foreign policy of the French republic. At this moment the second A. E. F. is landing in Paris and a grand reunion of democratic veterans is taking place. The horizon blue and the olive drab are blending again on the streets of the French capital and these truest representatives of two great republics will not permit economic balances and international business relationships to be deformed by more or less shrewd French diplomats who seek to put on the screws and bring a howl from American producers that will react in their favor on debt negotiations. The French policy is the poorest kind of statesmanship with which to meet American extensions of debts.

A CUBAN PROTEST

President Machado of Cuba wants the Platt amendment repealed by our Congress. He says there is no longer any justification for its existence, if indeed, its application to Cuban affairs ever was warranted, and he vigorously protests against a further extension of our tutelage over Cuba for which the measure, adopted by the Senate as a part of the 1903 treaty, practically provides.

By virtue of this amendment it is stipulated that Cuba shall conclude no agreement which impairs its independence or concede territory or jurisdiction to other powers; that it shall contract no debts without voting the funds to pay them; that the United States may intervene at any time to guarantee the lives and property of its nationals; that Cuba shall cede to us coaling stations and confirm as valid all acts of our government during its military occupation.

President Machado says that the Monroe Doctrine covers the most important of the foregoing points, and that while Cuba is grateful to the United States for helping it throw off the Spanish yoke in 1898, the further existence of the Platt amendment "is alike harmful to the moral interests of the Americans and most painful to the patriotic sentiment of the Cubans." By "Cubans" he probably means Cuban politicians, for if the majority of the people of the island were consulted in the matter they doubtless would prefer a continuation of American guardianship over their country on the terms provided in the Platt document—at least, such is the report made by travelers in that country.

From the first, our government has recognized the independence of Cuba, but owing to peculiar conditions it has felt it necessary on two occasions to step in and straighten out its political affairs. Naturally this sort of thing has not been acceptable to certain factions, which have vigorously protested, though without avail. The policy laid down by the Platt amendment has been steadfastly adhered to, and it would be hazardous to our own and Cuban interests if we should abandon it.

Nine years after Cuba became a republic political disturbances occasioned intervention by the United States, which continued for more than two years, during which time American soldiers occupied the country, remaining there until the institution of electoral reforms superintended by Gen. Crowder. Again in 1921 Gen. Crowder was sent by our government to throw oil on the troubled waters during another stormy period, the result being the inauguration of Dr. Alfredo Zayas as President in 1922.

If the proud Pearl of the Antilles fully realized it, it has need of American guardianship during this period when "the next war" is being so frankly discussed. President Machado does not seem to be able to differentiate between the rather loose and easily stretched Monroe Doctrine, which has been made subject to so many interpretations of late, and the strict and fully protective terms of the Platt amendment. With all due respect to the "patriotism" upon which he so stoutly insists, he should be informed that his protests are not in the least likely to result in the repeal of that important and highly necessary measure.

THE OLD-TIMERS

At a recent reunion of old folks in Maine there were no less than sixty-seven couples who had been married more than fifty years. In the Pine Tree State the men seem to stick to their wives. Perhaps they figure that they will never get another and so they hang on like wall paper. Virtually all of those at the Maine reunion were more than 75 years old, but most of them came in their own cars and there were not half a dozen canes in the crowd. In these days a flock of pioneers doesn't so much resemble invalids' day at the old people's home. The old boys are keeping themselves fit and spry.

Not Needed

A POOR BARGAIN

The charge of S. C. Lewis that Dist.-Atty. Keyes has made a bargain with Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, by which Berman is to give aid in convicting Lewis and others of wrecking the Julian Petroleum Corporation, in return for which Berman is to receive a light sentence, is one that should be investigated promptly, and if such a bargain has been made, the facts should be dragged out at once where the public can look at them.

It would be a poor bargain for the county of Los Angeles and the defrauded Julian stockholders. Money variously estimated at $12,000,000 to $50,000,000 has been stolen from the public in the various Julian Pete deals, and the only basis upon which a self-respecting public official could agree to grant virtual immunity to anyone responsible would be on a basis of virtually complete restitution. Neither Berman nor Lewis will admit that he is in a position to make restitution of any material amount. Lewis talks vaguely of millions having been telegraphed to New York by Berman; Berman denies this and counters with the assertion that the assets of the Julian Petroleum Corporation have been "dissipated" and are not recoverable.

A lively disagreement between Lewis and Berman is obviously in the public interest, since between them the truth may come out; but until the truth does come out there should be no bargains with anybody. Berman is entitled to consideration, perhaps, for surrendering, and any aid he gives the State should be weighed in the scales of justice. But so far he has not produced anything solid and satisfactory in the way of evidence that will either show just what happened or how the damage done to innocent persons may be undone.

It is a poor consolation to defrauded stockholders to hear from one side that Lewis ordered Berman to leave town and never return, and from the other that Lewis spent most of his time begging Berman to come back. What the stockholders obviously want to know is, where is the money? Let Berman and Lewis point this out and aid the receivers to get it back, and something will be forgiven them.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP SCORED

Exposing the illusory nature of the theory of public ownership of utilities in a strong address before the Pacific Coast Gas Association at its Santa Cruz meeting, George L. Hoxie gave brief histories of the failures of several of these plans in this country, Canada and Europe. Mr. Hoxie made special reference to the much-touted Ontario experiment, which often has been held up to Californians as a success worthy of imitation, but which actually has been a very expensive and troublesome affair for the Canadian governments. Enormous sums of money have been demanded by the Ontario commission from time to time for carrying out its projects, and the government has been called upon to legalize by ex post facto legislation acts done by the commission in flagrant violation of statute law and even of the acts passed in behalf of the hydroelectric enterprise itself.

In its beginnings the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission was really an attempt on the part of a small number of politicians to establish an industrial monopoly and to manage this monopoly in such a way as to keep themselves in power. In order to effect this object they have violated constitutional law and practice, assumed absolute authority, closed the courts of justice against proceedings adverse to themselves and otherwise encroached upon the liberties of the people.

The Hoxie indictment of the Ontario Hydroelectric Commission, severe as it is, is not more condemnatory of so-called public ownership than what has been said by the friends of the people in various parts of the country of similar projects. Californians have been pretty well fed up with with municipal ownership and its fallacies during the last decade or two. We have seen how the taxpayers of San Francisco, in particular, have been bled by politicians who presented radiant schemes for great public utilities which the public was led to believe it might "own," but which in time owned them, as they turned out in nearly every case to be gigantic systems of tax-eating.

Secretary Hoover doubtless had this stifling of the individual in mind when he said: "We have seen nothing in our history to warrant us in the risk of stopping all progress by the deadening hand of government." And he had in view the taxpayer's interest when in 1924 he said of government ownership and operation of ships:

> "We paid $3,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money for a fleet, but we have written it down 90 per cent in six years to $300,000,000; and if the accounts were based upon true costs we should find that we are losing over $100,000,000 a year in operating it. Yet private shipping is earning profits. Nor is this the fault of the Shipping Board—it is inherent in the system."

President Coolidge has referred several times in his public addresses to "the undesirability of government in business," and this undesirability has been found in municipal as well as in State and Federal operations of public utilities. In Los Angeles we have witnessed the failure of the hydroelectric plants to supply anything like a full complement of electric power. In fact, as Mr. Hoxie said in his address, Los Angeles is falling behind in electrical generation, and in 1926 supplied but one-fifth of the city's total electric needs. In San Francisco, after a hydroelectric plant and a transmission line had been constructed to within forty miles of the city, it was found that no provision had been made for selling the electricity, thus proving that city officials not only have not run its commercial enterprises with forethought but that they are not competent to take on outside commercial burdens.

AN IMPROVEMENT
By James J. Montague

The Head Hunters Have Given up Head Hunting for Football

It's not the trophies of pursuit
For which we battle one another,
It's not for sordid love of loot
That man makes war upon his brother.
He fights, not for a noble cause
But for the shouting of the bleachers.
What most he craves is the applause
Of his admiring fellow-creatures.

The simple Sulu, it is said,
Was seldom very much enraptured
By merely cutting off the head
Of other tribesmen that he captured.
And being of an open mind,
When he was told decapitation
Was somewhat coarse and unrefined—
He banned it from the Sulu nation.

For when a warrior caught in strife
To some dark hidden spot was led off,
Where some one with a big sharp knife
In one swift movement cut his head off;
There were no crowds, there was no band
No leaping lads the cheers were leading—
Not twenty people were on hand
As witnesses to the proceeding.

But when the once wild Sulu came
To walk amid the paths of knowledge,
And learned the glory of the game
Which gives distinction to a college
When scattering players left and right
He hears the gallery acclaim him,
And loudly shout, "Go in and fight!"
He's glad the white man came to tame him.

SAXOPHONE SERMONS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

No one preaches more jazzily against the jazz era than the jazz preachers.

Actually, of course, the world is not full of jazz preachers, but, like the rest of the jazz addicts, they make the most noise.

This jazz that has beset us takes many forms other than music, dancing, entertaining, clothes. After all, jazz is mainly too much excitement, too much, too much of many things tending toward extremes. The jazz preachers love to go to extremes. Wildly they disapprove of wildness, so that we have the ironical condition of wild preachers wildly preaching a return to decorous conservatism—in everything but wild preaching.

None so theatrical, none so desirous of being conspicuous, none so noisy—and none so alarmingly frank as the wild jazz preachers. The flapper has nothing on them. Her speech is kind, benevolent, gentle by comparison. If the jazz flapper shows her knees and loves to dance wild dervish dances and defy home rule and speak her mind and attract attention with her make-up and her gay clothes she is only taking out her jazz in another way. Yet the jazz preacher wildly upbraids her and is quite convinced she is headed straight for the devil. And for good measure he upbraids her parents and condemns her home and upbringing and accuses all of them quite often of sins they never heard of.

There is nothing the jazz preacher discourses upon so frequently and jazzily as sin. He is quite a specialist in sin. And he is sumptuously frank about discussing sin. He makes sin sound tremendously interesting, alluring, irresistible, all-pervading. He makes it very enchanting, fascinating, overwhelming, even while he condemns it. A jazz preacher never by any means makes virtue interesting, attractive, irresistible. He never sends his congregation away emotionally stirred with passions for virtue, no matter how much he may excite them about sinners.

I once heard a sermon, given in a quavering voice by an aged minister who knew naught of jazz. He preached a quiet, gentle sermon on the exquisite joys of virtue, nobility, just dealing, family love, loyalties. He was nearing the end of his life—indeed, he died a few months later—and he made us realize that the virtues were beautiful, tremendously worth while. Never once did he mention sin. Never once did he upbraid and condemn his fellow-man. Never once did he give the slightest hint that the devil was infinitely more powerful than God and goodness. He made us feel that goodness surely ruled the world and that anything else was the regrettable exception rather than the rule. Somehow he managed to make us wish to look for the good and uphold it, rather than look for the evil and condemn it.

Rather heart-breaking to hear a wild jazz preacher a few days later . . . quite as unpleasant as associating with ill-boiled jazz fiends after a delightful visit with charming, well-balanced people for whom goodness is their natural environment.

Jazz, sin-slamming preachers are so much like privileged backyard scandal mongers. Talking about sins and sinners is so much like messy gossip—a whitewashed form of "dishing the dirt." But, oh, how the wild preachers slam the gossips. Phew! Yet the gossips, too, always essay to disapprove self-righteously of the sinners they discuss. They, too, however, find sin more interesting as a topic of conversation.

I can see where it is quite possible that a few successful jazzy wild preachers really started this taste for jazz in its varied forms. It was, perchance, they who instilled this rabid desire for exciting extremes, violent emotions, loud emphasis, being conspicuous.

It may have been they who discovered that jazz draws the crowds. They may very well have been responsible for making conservatism old-fashioned and sinful extremes interesting. And encouraged so many gentlemen of their cloth to rage and storm and try the methods of the wind, rather than the warm coaxing of the sunshine. Remember the little Aesop's Fable? It could apply to jazz preachers, too.

BLAMES FOOTBALL FANS

Admitting that football may be overemphasized in American colleges, Jess B. Hawley, football coach at Dartmouth College, contends that it is the fault not of the colleges, the student bodies nor the alumni but of the great American fan. Writing in Liberty, Hawley says:

"The contributing causes to this are so obvious as to be hardly worth naming. Our system of journalism, with its blasting headlines; our movie news and views; our high-salaried press agents, and our fanatical hero-worship of a champion—all these national appetites have found in the color and vigor of football a morsel of increasing delight.

"And because a ball has started rolling that threatens the sport itself," the writer continues, "many persons have turned alarmists, and, in the other extreme, have quite overlooked the rightful place of football in the college curriculum, in the morals of the student body and in the life and activity of the college alumni."

Members of the second A.E.F. may have learned how to say rabbit in French, but those who have neglected to do so probably still remember the old method of ordering the dish by wriggling their noses, loping their ears, nibbling the lettuce and hopping like a bunny.

WIDOW TO BE HEARD IN TOY DEATH

Mrs. Galloway Returns to Testify Against Accused Slayer of Husband

Returned from Omaha, where she directed the funeral of her husband, Walter F. Galloway, slain on August 26, last, as the aftermath of a quarrel over a toy wagon, Mrs. Madge Galloway will testify today in Municipal Judge Baird's court at the preliminary hearing of Thomas F. Christian, accused of the deed.

Mrs. Galloway, only eyewitness of the fatal shooting, was to have taken the stand against Christian on the 6th inst., but the case was continued until today when Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clarke explained that the woman had not yet returned from the Nebraska city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Cassidy, neighbors of the Galloways in the Mar Vista section, are expected to testify to events leading up to the murder, including a fist-fight between the principals the night before Christian was killed.

At the Coroner's inquest, Mrs. Galloway accused Christian of shooting her husband in cold blood. She related how a quarrel over a coop of pigeons had instigated the row. The strife became acute, she testified, when she found Mrs. Christian's small daughter in possession of a little red wagon she had given to her two children.

The fatal shooting followed a chance meeting of the two men near the Galloway home. Christian is asserted to have fired pointblank at Galloway after an exchange of remarks. Galloway died three days after the shooting.

Transfer to be Argued Today

Attempt will be made today in Superior Judge Stephens's court to have the case of Hattie V. Larson, accused of embezzlement of about $31,000 with Mrs. Margaret Nelson, 88 years of age, as the victim, transferred to the Long Beach Superior Court for trial. A motion calling for such a transfer has been filed and will be argued today.

It is charged that the defendant while acting as agent for Mrs Nelson mortgaged the latter's property valued at $100,000, for about $61,000 and kept the money asserted to have been thus obtained.

Tearing Up Bill Proves Costly

It will be some time before Mrs. Mary Willis decides again to tear up a $5 greenback.

At least this was the impression left in Municipal Judge Sheldon's courtroom when Mrs. Willis was fined $700 or eighty days in the County Jail for joint charges of sale and possession of liquor.

Policemen Washburn, Robertson and Mulligan testified they rented a room at 1121 East Seventh street on the 11th inst., and Mrs. Willis sold them two quart bottles of gin. But when the officers flashed their shields and attempted to place the woman under arrest, Mrs. Willis tore the $5 bill into assorted pieces, they stated.

Wife Lays Rift to Gong on Car

Street car heebie-jeebies is the basic cause of the marital troubles of Dan F. Buck, according to the divorce complaint which has been filed by Attorney S. S. Hahn, in behalf of Mrs. Alice Buck.

Buck, his wife says, is a motorman and extremely irascible. This condition, his wife declares, is due to the strain on his nerves caused by listening to the clatter of traffic and the clang of his own gong, eight hours a day. It has made him unbearably cross and fault-finding, she complains.

SERVICE TO MANKIND HELD TRUE SPIRIT OF LIVING

Dr. D. R. Huber Lauds Those Who Give Most to World, in Radio Sermon Over KHJ

"He that would be great, let him serve," was the text of Dr. David R. Huber's sermon yesterday over KHJ, in which he emphasized service as the true spirit of living as it is the true spirit of self-expression. Great souls, he declared, are those who finally come to the place where interest in others is a ruling passion, and men are not ruled by those who know most, but by those who care and who give most to the world. Continuing, Dr. Tuber said in part:

"And as He entered into a certain village there met Him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off; and they lifted up their voices and said: Jesus, Master, have mercy on us."

Here was indeed a unique congregation, a band of men with a common affliction. The Scriptures do not tell us who they were, whether rich or poor, learned or ignorant, Jew or Gentile, whether they were old men or young men. The center of interest is found in their common distress. They were lepers. Before this dread fact all else seems to sink into insignificance. These men were cut off from their loved ones for life. They were outcasts now whatever their former estate had been.

"Can you picture them sitting around a common table and rehearsing the happenings of other days? How they would like to return to the place of business where so often in bygone days they had lamented the hard fate that held them fast to the daily grind. Tears would fill their eyes as they spoke of home and the dear ones; they would speak with regret of the hasty words and the selfish actions of other days. They would discuss the politics of the day and then, with a lump in the throat, would they not speak softly of the place of worship?

"Do you believe with me that these men would see some things in a new light? Do you believe that they would think of the really fundamental things a little more?

"Every absorbing interest in life, whether it be of work or joy or some great sorrow, has both its costs and its compensations. The golden hours that bring their harvest from one field exclude us from other experiences.

"And then often after it all is over what seemed so big yesterday is today pitiably small indeed. My friend, is it not wise, indeed, to take invoice and decide whether we can afford to let some things consume our time and attention; whether it might be wise to devote more time and more life to some things that are going to seem mighty essential to us some day?

"Whatever robs you of your just share of life ought to be given serious attention. Will your companions in joy today be your companions in a common regret tomorrow? Are you cutting yourself off from the company of the truly elect by giving yourself to the sinful, and destructive forces of this world?

"Well, these men appealed to Jesus Christ for help. He gave it to them and they found themselves restored to life and joy. He is waiting now for you to turn to Him and let Him tell you how to find life and peace and joy. He can turn your workshop or your store into a garden of delights. He will take out all the dishonesty and the mean feelings that follow dishonesty. He will clean up the old place and men will have confidence in your word because your word will be good. He will come into your home and remove all the leprosy of selfishness and sin. He will show you that religion is a life not just a creed. He will help you to get away from the pride of possessions and into the joys of stewardship. You will smile at your old arguments over religion as you give yourself in service."

ANNIVERSARY YEAR OF CHURCH DISCUSSED

In his sermon yesterday at the Highland Park Christian Church, Alden Lee Hill said in part:

"Christendom is approaching a most interesting anniversary, for on Pentecost 1930, the church will be 1900 years of age."

"The members of our communion are unreservedly committed to a great three-year program in preparations for the celebration of this nineteen hundredth anniversary.

"Dr. Charles Reign Scoville writes: 'Both world conditions and the weakened condition of a divided, devitalized, denominationalized church demand a new Pentecost. If His kingdom is to come and His will is to be done on earths, it will require Pentecost spiritual heights, Pentecost power, Pentecost preaching and Pentecost practice to bring it about.' It is believed that a great religious awakening will be experienced among all peoples the world around."

ATTACKS ON YOUTH DECRIED BY PASTOR

At the South Park Baptist Church yesterday the pastor said in part:

"It is easy to condemn. Superficiality is a striking characteristic of popular discussions concerning modern youth. American youth has not absolutely sold out to the devil. The crime against youth is that so many people have lost their memories and their perspective. They have murdered the youth in themselves and consequently think youth has assassinated all virtue."

ERROR IN DIVISION OF UNITY SET FORTH

In an address delivered at the Mt. Washington Education Center last Thursday on the subject "Holy Ghost —Comforter and Preserver," Swami Dhiranands said in part:

"It is only when in our inner consciousness the Christian Trinity is felt as unity and not as trinity that we truly realize the futility of this theological platitudinos division hopelessly perpetuated from age to age. That is again another instance of the 'compartment complex' of the intellect of man unable to comprehend the transcendental Unity of Being. The Holy Ghost of the Spirit of Truth as described in the Gospels not only is the Comforter inspiring all the teachers of gospel truths, but also the Preserver of the infinite structure of this universe with its physical and spiritual laws. As every human law is human intelligence in operation, so the world is eternal consciousness in its full splendor."

SINCERITY IN RELIGION HELD NEED IN CRISIS

"If religion consists in certain beliefs about God and our relations to Him, it cannot hope to survive the present crisis," said Theodore Curtis Abel at services of the Unitarian Society of Hollywood conducted yesterday in the Hollywood Playhouse.

"Everywhere today—in Egypt, Turkey, India, China, Japan, Europe, in South America, as well as in the United States—people are revolting against the orthodox religious belief and insisting that all beliefs shall be based on known facts rather than traditions, and the old ideas about God have long since been demonstrated as false. But if religion consists, not in theological beliefs and the performance of certain fixed ceremonies, but in a passionate cry for justice, a 'hunger and thirst after righteousness,' and a whole-hearted devotion to our highest ideals, then it not only will survive the present crisis, but will be enriched 100-fold because of it. The brightest ray of hope today is the demand for truth and sincerity in religion."

FUTURE OF RELIGION DISCUSSED BY RABBI

"Many people define religion as that region of life not yet penetrated by human knowledge. They hold that religion's realm daily becomes smaller and that the day may come when man's stock of knowledge has so expanded that religion will no longer be necessary, inasmuch as science will have found an answer for every phenomenon. In their opinion, the need for religion will utterly cease at such a time as man comes into complete possession of all the facts of life. They concede that religion may exist yet awhile, in the dim hinterland of the unknown, but they sound the warning that some day men will advance on with microscope and test tube and drive religion and God even out of this territory," Rabbi Lissauer, Temple Emanu-El said Friday night.

"For modernists in religion this is the crucial problem of today. It is no longer the question of contradiction between the literal Bible and the findings of science. We have succeeded in ridding ourselves of that problem by frankly confessing that we do not take the Bible literally, that we look upon it as the record in which men of thousands of years ago wrote their overwhelming thoughts about God, in the best way of which they were capable at that time. The problem among liberals in religion is then not the conflict between Bible and science but the question of the diminishing value of religion itself.

"It is science and not prayer which will find us a cure for cancer. Inasmuch as we no longer look to religion to provide our specific material needs, is not the need for religion itself diminishing; will not religion some day altogether disappear?

"Our answer will require a new definition of religion. We shall have to look upon religion in the future not as a technique of obtaining for ourselves things by means of prayer and incantations. Religion must freely relinquish to science the field of providing for man's material needs and assume for itself the wider and nobler realm of the spirit.

"By science we shall build houses and bridges, by science we shall heal diseases, but by religion we shall build men's souls. There you have the crux of the matter. Prayer is the technique of soul building. It is the meditation upon the highest and the best; it is fortification against temptation and sin; it is self-discipline to enable us to hold fast to the best virtues; it is the process of patterning ourselves after the All Highest. Such religion will never be less essential, for increasingly the world needs fine souls."

IMPORTANT SIDE OF RELIGION DESCRIBED

Dr. Kerr Boyce Tupper of Philadelphia, who occupied the pulpit at the West Hollywood Baptist Church yesterday, declared that the most important side of religion is not that which deals especially with theology and creeds, but that which concerns itself with reality and life. "Christianity is not speech, or doctrine, or mystic faith, or martyr sacrifice," Dr. Tupper said, "but above all else is supreme devotion to God and unselfish service to man. The great problem of the church today has relation, not to Christianity's absoluteness, but to Christianity's adequateness. Are professing Christian men and women proving themselves to be illustrations, incarnations of the self-sacrificing spirit of Jesus Christ? In vain all our ecclesiasticism and professionalism unless there be genuine Christian living. Truth lived is always more than truth taught, the one a demonstration, the other only a system."

FARLEY UP TODAY FOR SENTENCE

Former Dry Agent's Plea for Probation in Auto Death Also to be Decided

Frank P. Farley, former undercover prohibition agent who recently entered a plea of guilty to involuntary manslaughter as the result of the death April 5, last, of E. P. Ingmire in an automobile crash, will appear before United States District Judge James this morning for sentence. At the same time Judge James will act on Farley's application for probation.

Before pronouncing sentence Judge James must rule as to whether or not Farley should be sentenced under Federal or State law. The maximum sentence under Federal law for involuntary manslaughter is three years, while under State statute, the maximum is ten years.

Farley was the driver of a government machine which crashed into the car driven by Ingmire, a San Pedro oil official, on the Wilmington Boulevard. Farley had been drinking, so it was charged, but he put up the defense that he was out collecting evidence against bootleggers and was on official duty.

COUPLE JAILED AS SWINDLERS

Spurious Bonds Plot Laid to Man and Woman

Assertedly Fake Securities Total $150,000

Bad-Check Charge Also Made After Inquiry

Prevention of the distribution of approximately $150,000 worth of asserted spurious real estate bonds and an undetermined amount of fictitious cashier's checks, the solving of one burglary mystery and the apprehension of an asserted woman "check artist," were announced by Detective Lieutenants Moore and Wilson of the police forgery detail with the arrest yesterday of Mrs. Ora Nye, 45 years of age, and Frank R. Harris, 32.

Mrs. Nye, who is said by the detectives to be a real-estate operator of Taft, was booked at Central Police Station for passing checks without having sufficient funds in the bank, and for grand theft by trick and device.

DOUBLE CHARGE

Harris was booked for forgery and burglary. He is asserted by the detectives to have distributed a large number of the bonds, having a face valuation of $100, using the aliases A. L. Kahn, A. L. Lewis, A. L. Richards, F. E. Sloan and H. C. Van Dorn.

Mrs. Nye, the detectives reported, passed fictitious checks amounting to $1500.

The arrests were made by Moore and Wilson following an investigation on the complaint of Frank Stapleton, assistant managing director of the Great Republic Life Insurance Company, and the manager of a local bank. Stapleton, according to the detectives' report, paid Mrs. Nye $660 for "phoney" building contract certificates and $1670 for an asserted forged mortgage on Mrs. Nye, the detectives stated, after depositing Mr. Stapleton's personal checks, checked out against them without permission of the bank manager. She then attempted to get Stapleton to stop payment on his checks, after she learned that the bank intended to attach her account, the detectives stated. This, they reported, constitutes grand theft by trick and device.

CHECKS SEIZED

Harris had in his possession when arrested in a hotel at Eighth and Flower streets the bonds and a large quantity of cashier's checks on the Beverly Commercial Bank of Beverly Hills. There is no such bank, the detectives reported.

Harris also is said by the detectives to have entered the apartment of Mrs. Laura Balme at 138 South Westmoreland avenue while she was absent, and to have taken a $125 diamond ring and valuable papers, and also to have destroyed $1500 worth of her clothing. The ring, papers and a suitcase full of slashed coats, dresses, shoes and other clothing were recovered by the detectives with the assistance of Detective Lieutenant Platt of the robbery squad, and are being held as evidence. The act of vandalism, the detectives said, was the result of a grudge held by Harris against Mrs. Balme because she accepted the attentions of other men while he was in the East.

Harris and Mrs. Nye, the detectives reported, lived together in Hollywood under the names of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lewis.

New Chief for Yellow Taxis in Post Today

George E. Worster, executive vice-president, is the new head of the Yellow Cab Company of Los Angeles. He assumes his post today.

GEORGE E. WORSTER

Douglas N. Newton, formerly general manager of the Yellow Cab Company of Los Angeles, is made first vice-president.

Before coming to Los Angeles, Mr. Worster was assistant general manager of the Yellow and Checker Cab Company (Consolidated.) a California company operating Yellow cabs in Los Angeles, Yellow and Checker cabs in San Francisco and Checker cabs in Oakland. He has had ten years' experience in the cab business.

Coincident with the coming of Mr. Worster to Los Angeles, William B. Cleves is promoted from superintendent of personnel to assistant general manager of the Yellow Cab Company of Los Angeles.

Joseph A. Baldi, who has been executive head of the Yellow Cab Company of Los Angeles, is chairman of the board of directors of the Yellow and Checker Cab Company (Consolidated.) The appointment of Mr. Worster as head of the local company releases Mr. Baldi for broader duties in connection with the entire business of the company in Los Angeles, Oakland and San Francisco.

USURY CASE DELAY SOUGHT

Continuance of Haldeman Trial, Set for Today, Said to Have Been Agreed On

A continuance in the trial of Henry M. Haldeman on a charge of usury arising out of the Julian Petroleum Corporation investigation will be sought today when the case is called before Municipal Judge Samuel R. Blake.

According to Oscar Lawler, attorney for Haldeman, the continuance has been virtually agreed upon between prosecution and defense attorneys and will be for the convenience of both sides.

H. L. Carbahan and Joseph Scott, receivers for the corporation, yesterday stated that they are concentrating their efforts on reconstruction work in an effort to retrieve additional assets through information furnished by Jacob Berman, alias Jack Bennett, asserted master pool operator who recently surrendered to officers.

At the same time it was learned the receivers have been conducting an investigation into the issuance and disposal of 750,000 shares of California Eastern Oil Company stock declared to have been ordered for the purchase of certain assets for the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

S. C. Lewis, resigned and indicted president of the corporation, states that the 750,000 shares in question are only a portion of the issue which was duly authorized for the purpose of purchasing assets of the Julian Petroleum Corporation.

FANS WILL ENJOY OLD CHAPLIN FILM

Charlie Chaplin's "A Burlesque on Carmen" and "The Clown," given its first showing in Los Angeles, head a double bill which opened at the Broadway Palace Theater on Saturday.

If one is a Chaplin fan, he will like "A Burlesque on Carmen" despite the fact that it is obviously an old print of the film and that bad cutting brings many a scene to an unexpected and abrupt ending. Chaplin portrays a dapper young army officer with the braided trousers of his colorful uniform voluminous in folds and very baggy, according to the Chaplin standard. Ben Turpin is a featured member of the cast.

"The Clown, the other film on the bill, is very weak and has not been helped by a loose, obtuse continuity. The action drags immeasureably. The photography is not noteworthy and some of the longer shots are badly blurred in appearance. The titles are weak and inane, dealing with the most obvious facts of the plot. The actors arouse no feeling one way or another by their portrayals. One neither hates the villain nor feels any sympathy for the heroine.

The story is of a circus proprietor whose wife is killed by a falling tent pole in the midst of a great wind storm. Inasmuch as the accident occurs while he is fighting his partner over the wife's affections, he is accused, convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment. The scene shifts to eighteen years later. The same circus comes to the prison to present a special show. His daughter, grown to young womanhood, is the featured acrobat. While the players are at the penitentiary theater, the old chap steals a clown's suit, dons it and escapes to rejoin the circus. There he proceeds about the matter of revenge. He lets loose a ferocious lion to kill the partner who had "done him dirt" years ago and is now trying to ruin the daughter's life. He saves the daughter from an elephant stampede and is himself trampled to death. As he dies, the daughter murmurs words such as these, "Poor old man, I wonder who he is," while her lover chirps up, "Maybe he has a daughter somewhere himself!"

Among members of the cast are Johnnie Walker, Dorothy Revier, William Mong, John Miljan. The director's name is not listed, nor is that of the individual responsible for the titles.

GLENDALE MAN SLAIN IN HIS CABIN

Deputies Seeking Friend; Tragedy Discovered by Fellow-Workman

George Moser, 55 years of age, an employee of the Patten and Davies Lumber Company of Glendale, was found shot to death in his cabin adjoining the lumber yards yesterday afternoon as a result of what police believe was a week-end drinking party with a friend.

The friend, Mike Curran, 56, who occupied the cabin with Moser, is missing and police and deputy sheriffs began a search for the man to question him. The body was discovered by J. M. Moore, also an employee of the lumber company, who called at Moser's cabin yesterday afternoon.

Detective Lieutenant Feland of Glendale and Deputy Sheriff Peters of the Sheriff's office report that they found a small-caliber gun hidden in a garbage can at the rear of the house. A quantity of liquor also was discovered in the cabin, according to the officers.

Joking About Fleshy Wives Has Its Perils

Husbands who wise-crack about the avoirdupois of their wives ought to be careful, if they wish to keep on having wives to crack about. For Judge Sproul now is hearing divorce cases, and he believes that such remarks are cruelty, and grounds for divorce.

He enunciated this rule after hearing the case of Betty Hofacker against Fred Hofacker, licensed master, of San Pedro.

"I know I am a little overweight," Mrs. Hofacker admitted, "But I do not care to hear it discussed, and the captain would always refer to me as his fat old hen, when people would come to visit us. It hurt my feelings."

Judge Sproul gave her a divorce, after Attorney Loyd Wright had shown him just how cruel this is.

COUNTY TESTS SET FOR CIVIL SERVICE

Billie Dove to Act as Hostess to Delegations

Selected by virtue of being one of the "Pals" elected by the Breakfast Club in Los Angeles, Billie Dove will be star hostess this evening at the celebration of "Breakfast Club Night" at Grauman's Chinese Theater, marking the first time officers and members of the five early morning feasting organizations have assembled at one function.

Special honor guests who will see "The King of Kings" with Sid Grauman's prologue will be headed by Maurice DeMond, founder and president of the Breakfast Club in Los Angeles, the original institution of its kind here, while the others will include L. W. Menge, organizer of the Pasadena Club; Supervisor Fred J. Beatty, president of the Foothill Breakfast Club; Mayor Harry G. McBain of Glendale, president of the Verdugo Club; and J. Lawler, president, J. Brunauer, secretary, and W. O. Browne, organizer, of the Palos Verdes Breakfast Club.

Sid Grauman, who is an enthusiastic member of the Breakfast Club in Los Angeles, arranged the novel party to bring the members of the five similar organizations together for their first communal function. Large delegations from each of the quintet of clubs are expected to attend the evening performance in tribute to the honored guests.

POLI NEGRI'S NEXT

Pola Negri is about to start on another Paramount production, the story based on the life of Rachel, actress of the early fifties.

CHINESE TROUPE PROVES HIT

It's a whole show in itself . . . is the act presented by Long Tack Sam, billed as "China's Wonder Worker" and heading the new program that opened yesterday at the Hillstreet Theater.

Everything from American jazz dancing . . . to the most intricate of Chinese magic and acrobatics was introduced. Mi-Na and Nee Sa Long, the two clever and talented daughters of Long Tack Sam, were featured.

With a setting of brilliantly-colored embroidery, and ornate costumes, the whole act took on the semblance of a gay tapestry come to life. Plate jugglers, acrobats, magicians . . . all working at once, much on the order of a miniature and picturesque three-ring circus.

Although the entire offering proved popular with the audience, it was the remarkable balancing stunts that stopped the show. The acrobats were unusually agile and performed on everything from a bamboo rod to tapes suspended from the top of the stage.

Next in line for popularity were Eddie Cole and George Snyder in their sketch entitled "The Director." These two had something novel besides a collection of stock wise-cracks. They presented on the screen a series of scenes from an early Chaplin film, adding comical and timely dialogue to fit the action.

"I Quit" was a skit, done in dialogue by Frank and Teddy Sabini. These two as well presented numbers ranging from a classical steel-guitar solo to "blues" singing. The encore introduced a piccolo.

Gags and tight-rope stunts marked the offering of Hal Hart. His nonsense was good, and his stunts of the heart-stopping variety. One of them consisted of a jump over a rack of upturned knives to a landing on a slack wire.

Other acts were presented by Davis and Darnell, and Shirley and Grant.

On the screen was "Lightning," a western drama. Jobyna Ralston, Robert Fraser, Margaret Livingston and Guinn Williams were featured in the production.

ACTORS MEET AGAIN ON GRIFFITH SET

Renewal of associations with prominent players with whom he has not been featured for many years is made through the engagement of Charles Hill Mailes to play the role of the Duke Demora, Mary Philbin's father in D. W. Griffith's "Drums of Love" for United Artists.

The veteran character star of stage and screen will be numbered in a cast with Lionel Barrymore for the first time since 1913, renewing associations of the old Biograph days. He also will be associated with Sydney DeGrey, with whom he played in Douglas Fairbanks's "The Mark of Zorro."

Mailes has just completed the role of the president of Atwater College in George Ade's "The College Widow" for Warner Brothers with Dolores Costello as the star.

TALMADGES GIGGLE, SO REMAIN APART

Norma Talmadge, during the filming of her latest picture, "Camille," which is showing at the Criterion Theater, was asked why she didn't make a picture with her sister. She replied, "We did try one together, but each time we had to meet we giggled —and, of course, spoiled the picture." Playing in motion pictures is so different from acting on the stage. One can say his lines on the stage and be thinking of a million other things, or conceal laughter in a tragic oration, but that's impossible in pictures. There we speak the only language in the world that cannot lie. An idea that exists in the mind writes itself immediately on the face, or reveals itself in the entire attitude of a player."

PERFORMS HER DANCE

The dance that took Louise Brooks out of Ziegfeld's Follies and into the movies is exhibited by her in a scene in "Now We're in the Air," in which she is leading woman for Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton, Paramount comedy stars.

ARMED SQUADS ON PATROL

Six Police Cars to Comb Streets and Help Ward Off Organized Criminal Gangs

Equipped with rifles, machine guns and sawed-off shotguns, eighteen picked detectives from the Central Division robbery squad, organized by Capts. Curtis and Lynn under the direction of Inspector of Detectives Cato, have been assigned to six fast police cars to patrol districts of the city in which robberies are likely to occur.

Believing that the crime wave presaged by the detail there will be a marked increase in the number of arrests for robbery and that an effectual curb will be placed on the activities of the hold-up gangs.

The new detail has been created to combat the depredations of the several so-called "girl bandits" who have terrorized storekeepers in all parts of the city with their nightly activities. The police have concluded that a group of motor-gunmen have resorted to the use of female disguises in robberies to assure the possibilities of detection. The new detail, it is believed will lead to the arrest of these "girl bandits" and other criminals.

HORTON AT MUSIC BOX PLEASES

Interest in 'So This is Love' Fragile; Leading Actor's Comedy Good

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The disproving, comically achieved, of the theory that romance is the result of environment may find no wild reaction of kindling interest, but whatever the idea of a play it is generally pleasant to find Edward Everett Horton identified as the leading player thereof.

Apparently a capacity audience found this to be the case last night at the Music Box Theater. William Le Baron's comedy, "So This is Love," was presented there, and Horton, as the exponent of the purely ridiculous notion that he had become a match-maker, enjoyed the approbation of a public that consistently admires his keen talent for humor.

Be it said in extenuation that Horton manages to invest many of the lines of Mr. Le Baron's piece with much more fun than they possess at this rather late date, and is successful in keeping up the tempo of a production that might otherwise have sagged considerably.

The opening evidently presented some obstacles or other, for the curtain was delayed both for the first and second acts, and the show ran past the 11 o'clock hour. Even though the performance needed speeding up, the majority of the audience found themselves entertained by what went on, with the possible exception of a few tedious spots here and there.

"So This is Love" concerns a wealthy bachelor's wager that, given a properly rose-embowered setting, moonlight and soft music, he can conjure an amatory sentiment in the hearts of any two individuals that might be named—provided, as a line in the play remarks quite gratuitously, they are of different sexes.

The subjects chosen for the experiment are a girl of some social standing and an electrician who happens to come in to fix the lights. The electrician, having duly performed his duty as a mechanic, is intrigued with the promise of the share of a bet, into posing as an old friend of the bachelor's. He is rendered personable in attire, coached as regards effete decorum, and introduced.

The complications are what might be expected. The lady is interested in somebody else—namely the butler, who is a graduate of Harvard and Oxford, but left his first position in the world of business because his employer said "I done it." There are momentarily trying situations for her and for the electrician when Horton attempts to further the proposal of an engagement between them.

Mostly through "So This is Love" is a series of mix-ups in which everybody is involved, from the maid who is the electrician's sweetie, to a grass widow from California, and certain others of the bachelor's social associates.

A very great part of the unraveling of the plot is accomplished with talk. It is pattering talk, light and easy, but not all lustrous. Horton is the most successful in giving the dialogue smartness, and the bulk of the lines he speaks are good for a laugh. His delivery of these lines is as usual, rapid-fire.

Rene Haisman (Mrs. Reginald Denny) has a winning manner, and a charming accent that endows her part of the dialogue with quaint grace, but the role she plays amounts to little or nothing until the final act.

Mabel Forrest, Una Allen, J. Anthony Smythe, Irving Mitchell, and Harriett George were the others in the fairly acceptable cast. Nearly all of the players subdued too much the voicing of their lines.

"So This is Love" will entertain.

RUBE WOLF TO CONDUCT SYMPHONY

Leader to Have 75-Piece Orchestra; Boulevard's First-Run Plan

Two announcements emanating from the offices of West Coast Theaters, Inc., concern the immediate future plans of the popular leaders, Rube Wolf and Abe Lyman.

Beginning Thursday at the Metropolitan Theater and continuing for one week, Wolf will conduct a seventy-five-piece symphony orchestra. Long an exponent of better jazz music, Wolf is said to be conversant with the technique of operatic and classical compositions.

One of Wolf's offerings Thursday will be a selection from Wagner's opera of "Tannhauser."

Abe Lyman will return to Los Angeles for an engagement at the Boulevard Theater on the 30th inst. For many weeks he proved an exceptional drawing-card at the Uptown.

With the installation of the Lyman band, the Boulevard becomes a first-run house. The opening feature will be announced later.

Of the "Gay Paree" company, which takes up its quarters at the Biltmore Theater for the two weeks commencing this evening.

MISSION PLAYERS TURN TO GUNPLAY

"Girl of the Golden West" Has Colorful Revival at San Gabriel

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

In the vast gallery of lily-white and scarlet-tinged women—the Lulu Belles, the Kikis, the Tiger Roses, the Wetonas, the Governors' ladies—that David Belasco has chosen in his long career as a producer to exhibit before the footlights, there is one, a Minnie Smith, who bids fair to go on hen most of her sisters will have stepped back into the manuscripts whence they sprang, to be seen no more. Her own name is seldom heard, she is much better known as "The Girl of the Golden West."

The Mission Players at San Gabriel, harking back to 1905, have brought Minnie to life again. Today the picturesque playhouse reverberates with the lines of a sturdy old melodrama, lines punctuated with offstage shots and barrages of oaths which faileth as the gentle rain from heaven upon 1927 ears.

But Belasco's play is fool-proof, and time cannot erode the base metal of its worth as a dramatic property. Its story is familiar even to the infrequent theatergoer and has twice found its way to the screen. In Act Two occurs the situation which is almost as famous as the play itself—and a shrewd piece of construction it is, too. Once again the bandit, Mr. Johnson of Sacramento, grievously wounded, lies hidden on the balcony in the cabin of the girl, while Jack Rance, the sheriff, seeks him out; once again the drip of blood leads to his discovery; once again Rance and the girl stack the cards to decide what his fate shall be.

Oh, it's all very theatric, if you will; but it will "get" you. It has more thrills than you can shake a gun at.

Norman Sprowl and his coworkers have lavished on it a painstaking production. Nothing is missing; even the offstage music—and whatever would Belasco do without his offstage music?—is present. A most effective setting has been devised for the brief epilogue, in the mountains to which the girl and her man are come at last. Almost, indeed, it is as though the back wall of the theater had been lifted out bodily, that the soft, blue-hazed ranges beyond San Gabriel might serve in lieu of man-made scenery.

Charlotte Treadway is the Girl, the well-loved proprietress of the Polka Saloon, she who has never been kissed, who "couldn't share the faro table and the Polka with no one, 'ceptin' there was a heap of lovin'." Her performance is excellent; and opposite her, in the role of the bandit, Harland Tucker is no less so.

Prominent in the score or more pages which go to make up the cast, Ferdinand Munier as Somora, Frank Bonner as Nick, and Art E. Witting as the sheriff stand out.

There was a great deal of low muttering offstage yesterday afternoon; and, perversely enough, every time one of the characters, as part of the play, would hold up a hand for silence and hiss, "What's that?" there would come to his ears and the noless straining ears of the audience, the terrible clash and tumult of . . . nothing at all.

COMEDY OF RURAL LIFE AT BELMONT

"Sure Fire," a comedy which has its setting in a rural postoffice, is the new offering at the Belmont Theater with Murphy's Comedians carrying the featured roles.

The play is light in character and follows in general the type of thing which has been seen of late at the Vermont and First-street house.

A young New York writer hies himself to the country to seek "atmosphere" for his great work. He becomes involved in a drama of the rural community in which certain mercenary persons attempt to defraud, rob of money and position the sweet, gray-haired postmistress. And there is a love affair between the writer and the postmistress's daughter.

Ruth Saville, Belmont leading lady, carries the role of the simple country lass, the daughter of the postmistress. Raymond Whitaker is seen as John Kenderton and Edmund Smith plays Robert Ford. Miss Saville is more pleasing in a sophisticated portrayal than in the part she carries in this play, but on the whole her work is good.

BOMBASTIC NAME FOR NEW PLAY

"Hell's Bells" Not Nearly as Wicked as Title Would Imply

BY MARQUIS BUSBY

"Hell's Bells" sounds like something you say when you run out of gas five miles from the nearest filling station.

But it isn't.

It's the bombastic title of a human, little comedy by Barry Conners which opened at the Morosco yesterday afternoon.

The title is rather misleading. One might expect one of those plays that the children shouldn't see, but it's all as pure and wholesome as Snow White in the fairy tale.

Of course, the two leading characters, visiting in a Connecticut village, all the way from the wilds of "Tuck-son," Ariz., do swear a bit occasionally, but then they don't say anything worse than "Hell's Bells," and that's how the play gets it's name.

Hokum of the type that made "The Patsy" a success is liberally sprinkled throughout the current opus. From a critical standpoint the play is nothing to write paeans of praise about, but audiences are going to like it. I heard more laughter at the Morosco yesterday afternoon, than in months before.

Into this moribund Connecticus village two travelers arrive, and register at the inn, kept by a peppery widow who is tired of being a widow. The town is the old home of "Jap" Stillson, one of the travelers. His sisters who refused him aid when he was poor are led to believe that he is now immeneely wealthy. They attempt to put him in the insane asylum in order to gain access to his property. Stillson, of course, fools them neatly, and the two friends return to Arizona, accompanied by the landlady who readily consents to the changing of her name.

The plot is pleasantly complicated by the romance of a young newspaper reporter, and the niece of the landlady. Both roles nicely played by James Bush and Kay Hammond.

Perhaps the chief novelty in the play is the appearance of John Litel and Mitchell Harris in middle-aged character parts as the two travelers. Litel, as Stillson, is a blundering, lovable westerner, out not so blundering as to be unable to outwit his grasping sisters. Harris is excellent as one of those strong, silent gentlemen from the great outdoors. Both Litel and Harris hold to character commendably.

Jane Morgan gives one of her best performances recently as the innkeeper, and Ruth Handforth is a memorable type as Abigal Stillson, the elder sister. May McCabe, seen last locally in "If I Was Rich" at the Hollywood Playhouse, is the other sister.

Good portrayals are given by V. Talbot Henderson as Pitkins, the lawyer, and Dorothy Shannon, who shows how "to register her emotions," a la the motion-picture training school. The cast is completed by Harry Garrity, Frederick Fymm, Art Belasco, Charles Buck and James Boggs.

The entire three acts transpire in the pleasantly old-fashioned living-room of the Connecticut inn. There are a number of steel engravings of family ancestors on the walls, among them a striking portrait of Johnnie Walker in "Old Ironsides."

Sarah Padden Scores Again in Drab Role

BY M. R.

There's a good bill at the Orpheum this week. One or two spots need cleaning up a bit, but the average is high just the same.

Parceling out the honors is none too easy when one program carries the names of Beatrice Lillie, Sarah Padden, Deiro, and a Ned Wayburn revue.

Perhaps Sarah Padden has a bit the best of it among the new acts on the bill. Always a favorite with Orpheum audiences since her appearance as the drab slavey in "The Clod," her new vehicle "Souvenirs" was especially well received last night. It is a pathetic story without being in the least maudlin. Time is at the close of the Spanish-American war. All the boys have returned bringing souvenirs to their mothers. Mrs. Higgins' boy brings only dirty clothes—clothes with the jail smell about them. Miss Padden contributes a fine bit of histrionics as Mrs. Higgins. Allen Stansell, the son, has a pleasing personality in an unpleasant role. The one act play was written by A. E. Giebler, connected with one of the local motion picture studios.

Beatrice Lillie remains a bright star of the program for a second week. With Noel Coward's "After Dinner Music" serving her as a vehicle she again reveals her ability at comedy. With her distinctive gift for entertaining it is regrettable, however, that Miss Lillie resorts to cheap vulgarity in several instances. She does a juvenile character song that would be in bad taste on any stage.

Edwin Burke, "The Monologist," presents an amusing novelty with the aid of four plants scattered through the audience. Some of the wisecracks are very good.

Ned Wayburn who has been responsible for the staging of a number of the gorgeous Ziegfeld shows has at last sent a smart dancing revue into the two-a-day theaters. "Buds of 1927" has plenty of the necessary verve and speed, two leading players who sing nicely, and an extraordinary eccentric dancer. Floyd Carder and Patricia Patti are agreeable leads, and Sammy Lewis does the eccentric dancing.

Some of the costumes need freshening up a bit.

Deiro is almost a vaudeville institution. He is the chap, you know, who gets everything from symphonies to jazz from the accordion. This time he is better than ever.

You would never know from their names that Dennie O'Neill and Charles Vermont are two black face comedians. Their act gets off to a strong start, but lags pretty sadly toward the end. Most of their jokes were museum material when New York was called New Amsterdam.

The Luster Brothers have an excellently staged acrobatic routine—far better than the usual opening turn.

FAWCETT GOES AWAY

George Fawcett left Wednesday night for Arcadia, near Eureka, where he will commence his work in "The Valley of the Giants" for First National, playing a featured role as a wealthy lumberman. Before leaving the actor was called for another prominent role in a forthcoming production.

SOCIETY

BY JUANA NEAL LEVY

With summer visitors to the Continent leaving in ever-increasing numbers and a goodly quantity of fall and winter transients crossing almost daily from the States, Paris again becomes, for a short time at least, the center of society.

This growth of the American population of the French capital is most noticeable, as always, at the Ritz, Ambassadeurs, Ciro's and other fashionable hotels and restaurants.

Among those encountered while lunching at the Ritz were Arthur Williams, president of the committee which gave the "American House" to the Bienvenue Francaise; Mrs. William Lowe Rice with Mrs. Francis F. Curtis and Mrs. Howard Hansell of Philadelphia; the Baronne Cartier de Marchienne, wife of the Belgian Ambassador to the United States, with the Baron and Baronne Eugene de Rothschild (Cathleen Wolff of Philadelphia.) Mr. and Mrs. Walter Russell of St. Louis and Louisville, Mme. Qunna Walska McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gould, and Mrs. Virginia Land Blanchard of Shreveport, La.

Mr. and Mrs. David K. Bruce, who have been at the Ritz, accompanied Mrs. Bruce's father, Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, when he sailed for home.

Prof. Irving Fisher, the American political economist, has been stopping at the Hotel de Crillon before leaving for Geneva, where he will deliver a series of three lectures.

Mrs. Harry Hayes Morgan, the mother of Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt, widow of the late Reginald Vanderbilt, arrived in Paris last week and is staying at the Ritz.

Gen. A. C. Dalton, a native of Lafayette, Ind., president of the United States Shipping Board, and Mrs. Dalton, formerly Caro Gordon of Columbia, Tenn., have sailed for home, following a tour of the Continent and some time spent in Paris.

Gen. Butler Ames, who crossed on the liner Aquitania, has arrived in Paris and is staying at the Ritz.

Burton Holmes, who has sailed on the Aquitania, passed the last three months in preparing a new travel lecture on "Paris by Day and Paris by Night." The picture will be released in October.

Robert Olds, assistant Secretary of State, and Mrs. Olds, who had been staying at the Palais d'Orsay, have left for the Tyrol.

Mrs. Bernard S. Van Rensselaer of Long Island, who arrived last week on the liner Berengaria, is staying at the Hotel Majestic.

Thomas W. Churchill, Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and Mrs. Churchill are at the Hotel Wagram after a motor tour of Normandy and Brittany.

Philip K. Rhinelander arrived aboard the liner Berengaria and is staying at the Travelers' Club.

Two expositions are now open for the benefit of visitors to the League of Nations in Geneva, official collections of engravings from Rome and Paris, and a show arranged by Swiss manufacturers of ceramics. Californians attending include Hugh F. Stewart, Jr., of San Marino, and Miss Kate Crane-Gartz, Miss Isabel Frazee, Miss Jean A. Young and Miss Gloria Gartz of Pasadena.

The September social season in Geneva has started auspiciously, and promises many brilliant events. Arrivals from California include Mrs. L. R. Austin and Miss Alice L. Austin of Los Angeles; Miss Irma Weill of Bakersfield; Owen Hornburg of Pasadena, and E. C. Hunte of Fullerton.

Weather favored the annual horse show at Interlaken, Switzerland, and the event attracted a large number of sightseers, including Mrs. J. Shanley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. King Gillette and family, Mrs. K. Nickland, who have been stopping at the Grand Hotel Victoria.

The American editorial writers who are touring Europe in a group this summer passed a week in Vienna, attending the receptions, banquets and sightseeing excursions the Austrian government and the city of Vienna arranged in their honor. G. Fred Hogue of the Los Angeles Times is a member of the party.

Miss Catherine Crowley has been stopping at the Savoy Hotel in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverley Scott of Hollywood, left Paris last week for Biarritz, France. They are sailing for home later this month by way of the Panama Canal.

Mrs. Emery Holmes of Pasadena, entertained at luncheon last week at the Hotel Ritz in Paris. Her guests were rdluetaoinshrdluetaostfitututfwmbgw Maury Madison, the American jazz composer; Jack Hone of London and Clarence W. Jackson.

Mrs. Eunice Carter Harding of San Francisco entertained at tea last week in Paris in honor of Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant of San Diego, who has been stopping at the Hotel Lotti. Mrs. Grant's husband is the son of Gen. Grant of Civil War fame. She since has sailed for New York on the liner Olympic. The guests at the tea included Mrs. Joseph C. Bailey, Mrs. Leslie Parry, at whose home the tea was given; Mrs. H. B. Rudgear of San Francisco, Princess Hall M. Osman, Baroness Vitta, Mrs. Van Busen, the wife of Col. Van Dusen of Honolulu; Mrs. Edward Holmes of Pasadena; Mrs. Jane Pitch, Miss Emily Nichols Hatch and Mrs. Baxter of San Francisco.

Robin Kinhead, who has been in Paris for the past year, studying at the Sorbonne, left last week for the United States. Mr. Kinhead will join his mother in Palo Alto, Cal., where she has made her home for several years. Mrs. Kinhead formerly was a professor of Greek at the University of California. Her son will remain with her for some time, going later to Honolulu and returning to Paris within the next year or two.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Lloyd of California have left Paris for London, but will return to the French capital before sailing for home the latter part of the month.

The crowd at the Ambassadeurs restaurant in Paris last week was most interesting. Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kelleher and Mrs. Robert McAdoo entertained a party of eight.

Mrs. F. L. Baker has been enjoying the Scotiah season in Perthshire as a guest of the Gleneagles Hotel and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Kemp are stopping at the same hotel.

Large numbers of Americans continue to register at the Hotel Adlon in Berlin. Latest arrivals include Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Howard of Los Angeles and Miss Florence Rickey of Hollywood.

Miss Florence Palmstrom, who also has been traveling in Germany, was a recent visitor of Frankfort, registering at the Englishcher Hof.

Mr. and Mrs. Tod Ford of Pasadena, have arrived in Paris from the United States and are staying at the Hotel Plaza-Athenee in the Avenue Montaign.

Principessa Orsini, formerly Mrs. Robert Rowan and Los Angeles, who has returned to Paris from Deauville, where she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Macomber of California at their chateau, was seen dining at the Hotel Ritz in a party recently.

Edward Clifford and Mrs. Clifford, who are traveling with Mrs. Frank A. P. Gazzolo, Dudley Gazzolo and Miss Bernice Gabbolo of Chicago, are staying in London at the Mayfair Hotel. The party is touring Europe by motor.

Mrs. Emily Loew has been in Wiesbanden, Germany, for the cure season there, stopping at the Hotel Rose.

Charles Murray of Santa Barbara and Paisley, Cal., arrived in Paris last week from Scotland, where he had been visiting friends in the Highlands during July and August. Mr. Murray will be in Paris for several weeks before sailing for home.

Mrs. Leslie Shackelton Parry of San Francisco is occupying the apartment of her friends, M. and Mme. Andre Cadeot, Place Daumesnil, Paris. Mme. Cadeot was formerly Mrs. Viola de Pomeroy of San Francisco and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Child of Los Angeles, is her guest for the summer in Fleurance, France, where the Cadeots have a villa.

Bridge Luncheon

Frances Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Jones of South Hudson avenue, gave a delightful bridge-luncheon Saturday afternoon at the Gables Club, Santa Monica.

The color scheme was carried out in lavender and yellow. This was the last of a series of summer parties given by Miss Jones before returning to Marlborough School. The guests were Muriel Burges, Lyda Richman, Marianna Makepeace, Amelia Strand, Jeanne Foulhes, Betty Lorci, Marjorie Hart, Frances Perry, Edna Flicker, Grace Basah, Natalie Jarvis, Jane Barwick, Karleen Sleeper, Andrey Wallhouse, Betty Roberts and Dorothea Butler.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The First Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Enclosed stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

DIAGNOSING "HEART TROUBLE"

Many cases of both functional and organic heart troubles are well developed before the patients experience any warning symptoms. A pain in the left chest is not necessarily an indication of heart trouble, but may be due to intercostal neuralgia, pleurisy, faulty position of ribs, gas pressure, or because of the stomach being overloaded with food.

The diagnostician must make a careful study of the patient's symptoms to determine if they are true "heart trouble" indications or merely due to some of the above causes. In addition to this, the physician needs to listen to the heart sounds as transmitted through the stethoscope, take the blood pressure reading, count the pulse during rest and after exercise, and use the fluoroscopic X-ray to observe the heart's action. Electrical cardiographic tracings and the recording sphygmomanometer are also helpful in making a visible record of the action of the heart valves.

In health we should be totally unconscious of the action of the heart, but when cardian disturbances manifest themselves the patient's report of symptoms is an aid to the physician's diagnosis, but cannot be completely depended upon, as the patient is prone to use his imagination in magnifying pains and disturbances which he believes to be of cardian origin.

One of the simplest safeguards in preventing the development of either functional or organic heart trouble is to have periodical examinations made and not wait until there is a consciousness of the disease. If this safeguard has not been used, the one who has gradually developed some heart disorder may notice some of the following symptoms: Fullness of the chest, particularly on the left side; intermittent heartbeat, hot and cold flushes, pain in the region of the heart, sharper "angina pectoris" pains through the whole pectoral region and down the left arm, aching between the shoulders, shortness of breath, severe exhaustion, giddiness, blue hands and feet, palpitation, spells of profuse sweating, and extreme nervousness.

These are a few of the symptoms which may indicate the onset of some kind of heart trouble, but it is unwise for even the physician to try to correctly diagnose his own case, as many valuable tests can be made which cannot accurately be used by the patient himself even though he is a highly trained physician.

The treatment of each kind of heart disorder must necessarily vary according to the individual case, but there are some general rules which are applicable to all types of heart derangements. If you suspect heart trouble, and have not been examined for some time, go at once to a good diagnostician who can assure you you are well, or warn you by naming your particular ailment. Meanwhile, read tomorrow's article, in which I will explain the causes of heart trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. J. O. T. writes: "I am very fond of fresh pineapple. May it be used as a dessert—does it combine well with an ordinary meal?"

Answer: The best way to use pineapple is to make an entire meal of it, or use it in combination with sweet milk. However, it may be used with a proteid meal, when no starches are taken. The acids interfere with the starch digestion, but the leafy succulent greens may be used freely with this meal. By proteid meal—take, for instance, any of the evening meals suggested in my Saturday menus. You may safely substitute the pineapple for the dessert suggested if you so desire.

Q.: Mrs. J. B. writes: "I have to clear my throat real often, although I don't bring up any phlegm. It doesn't seem to be a habit. Could you tell me what causes this?"

A.: Such symptoms are often forerunners of tuberculosis or bronchitis. Any irritation in the lungs may create the desire to cough, even when there is nothing to cough up. If the cause of the irritation is not removed, there may finally develop enough degeneration so that phlegm and pus will gather in quantities large enough to be coughed up. Every tickling cough without phlegm should be carefully considered and the cause removed.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Choose the Right Time

Pure candy is not injurious to children when given in moderation and directly following a meal. The harm comes when the child eats the candy and loses his appetite for the meal. Form the habit of giving him a piece or two after his lunch or dinner and he will not crave it later on.

In the Small Kitchen

If your kitchen is small and space is scarce, the most satisfactory table is the sort attached to the wall by hinges and which can be lowered out of the way when not in use. The top is of porcelain.

On Clean Dishes

Always remove the leftovers from the dishes on which they are served and place them on a clean platter before putting them away in the refrigerator. They will be much more suggestive of being turned into an appetizing dish of some sort if they are on a clean platter.

Small Portions for Small Folks

Through experience I have found that large helpings take away the small child's appetite. Give them small portions and frequently they will come back for more, but they will rarely finish a large helping because they feel they have to do it whether they want to or not.

Many Uses

Electric fans are become more than a summer necessity, for they are proving invaluable in the kitchen to drive out cooking odors, dry frosting or cake, dry fine articles of clothing and all the while making the room cooler for the housewife.

But Don't Scrape

Any vegetable that is discovered just starting to burn may be rescued by placing the pan in another pan containing cold water and then letting stand for about five minutes. Then shake the vegetable from the burned pan to a clean vessel for further cooking. But do not scrape out the bottom of the pan, thus getting the burned flavor along with the good.

What to Do

A safety razor blade will remove hardened paint from window frames.

Don't forget to cut the handles off the old brooms before throwing them away. They are useful for clothes bars in your closets.

Put crushed eggshells and a little water in your vinegar cruet when it is stained and shake vigorously. The stains will completely disappear.

Foolish Economy

Some people think they are saving on their bill when they wrap the ice that is in the refrigerator in newspapers. Newspaper over ice prevents the evaporation and lowers the efficiency of the refrigerator.

CLUBS WILL HEAR OF PACIFIC RELATIONS

A joint meeting of the League of Women Voters, Council on International Relations and the City Club Open Forum will be addressed by Chester Rowell on the subject "The Pacific Relations Institute" tonight at 833 South Spring street. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Alexander Bevani will talk on "Italy Under Mussolini" at the luncheon hour Wednesday.

Women jurors in the State of Washington must remove their hats while in the jury box.

NANCY PAGE

Nancy's Dinner Dress Has Style, Color and Drapery

By Florence La Ganke

Nancy and Peter were going to the hotel for dinner. Some special client of Peter's had invited them. Nancy felt that the occasion warranted a new dinner dress. After much looking she chose a georgette of royal blue. It had long sleeves, which were not only correct as to style, but also as to etiquette. Hotel dinners when held in the public dining room call for conservative clothes.

The flesh georgette slip is outlined at the top with silver ribbon. This defines a low line for both back and front.

The back has drapery in the form of a cape back fastened with ties of georgette. The tie at the back, the softness of fabric, the general effect of drapery and flowing lines are all hall marks of the new styles for fall.

When the bridge game is finished and the players are thirsty and tired, why not try one of Nancy Page's bridge beverages? Send stamped addressed envelope care of this paper for leaflet on "Beverages."

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

THE DANGERS OF IGNORANT SUPERSTITIONS

So many ideas have been handed down to us which have a slight foundation in fact, but which most persons accept at their face value because familiarity has given them almost the semblance of truth. For instance there is that old superstition about a child's eyes being sore when he cuts his eye teeth. So, if during any of the months preceding the cutting of teeth, a baby's eyes become sore the mother comforts herself that they will get all right when the eye teeth are in, and she does nothing about curing the sore eyes.

All of the ailments which are possible to afflict a baby during the two years in which he is actively teething will be attributed by such persons to teeth, with the result that the mother fails to look into the real causes of the baby's illness on the mistaken notion that he is bound to be sick when he teethes, so she just has to bear with it.

Laying at the door of prenatal influence the blame for a baby's bad disposition is another way of blinding one's eyes to what is really the matter with the baby. Mothers don't do this on purpose, but they listen to what others tell them and because they felt miserable and nervous during pregnancy and the baby acts that way after birth, they consider the prenatal influence ruined the child's disposition, instead of hunting down the reason for the baby's crossness.

If we could just urge mothers not to be satisfied with cut and dried explanations for a baby's unnatural behavior, we would feel that we had a real reason for existing. Don't let people hush your fears with the old hoaxes about: "It's his teeth;" or "think of the trouble you had before Junior was born, no wonder he's a cross baby." Babies aren't spoiled before birth by a mother's trouble, if that mother has fed herself properly, and mothers who have lived through frightful experiences and borne a perfect child will tell you so. Babies who are not well will teethe harder than well babies because they aren't well, and not because teeth in themselves are any more than a temporary disturbance which seldom lasts more than a day or two.

DOUGHNUT EGGS

While preparing a batch of doughnuts, a Franklin (N. H.) baker used a quart of eggs. There were more than twenty in the quart and every egg had a double yolk except one, and that had three. The eggs came from the David Atwood farm.

ESCALLOPED FINNAN-HADDIE WITH EGGS

One and one-half cupfuls minced finnan-haddie, two hard-cooked eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of buttered crumbs, one and one-half cupfuls white sauce.

See that the fish is absolutely free from small bones, mince it finely and chop the eggs coarsely. Oil a baking dish and place in it a layer of buttered crumbs (using three tablespoonfuls of melted butter or vegetable fat to one and one-half cupfuls of stale bread crumbs) then a layer of fish and egg which have been stirred into the white sauce, next a further layer of fish and so on until the dish is filled, having crumbs for the top layer. Bake fifteen minutes in a quick oven, 375 deg. F.

RAMBURGER CASSEROLE

Three cupfuls of canned tomatoes, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper, one teaspoonful sugar, one-half pound macaroni, boiled, three-quarters of a pound of hamburger steak, three minced onions, one cupful of grated American or Parmesean cheese.

Season the tomatoes with the salt, pepper and sugar. If very liquid strain off part of the juice. Thoroughly oil a baking dish, put in a layer of cooked macaroni, then one of tomatoes and a thin layer of meat to which onion has been added. Sprinkle with a very little cheese and continue in this way until all ingredients have been used. Cover with remaining cheese, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. for one hour.

BAKED CHICKEN, MARYLAND

One chicken, a few slices of bacon or salt pork, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper, two tablespoonfuls flour, one cupful of water.

Cut the chicken into convenient-sized pieces, rub each one over with bacon drippings, butter or oil, then roll in the flour, salt and pepper which have been mixed together. Place skin side up in a roasting pan and put a small slice of bacon or salt pork on each piece of chicken. Cook ten minutes in a quick oven 375 deg. F., add the water and cook until the chicken is tender (about an hour,) basting every fifteen minutes. When delicately browned, cover pan to prevent drying out. Arrange on serving platter, pour a rich cream sauce around it and garnish with small corn fritters.

CELERIAC SALAD

Three cupfuls diced boiled celeriac, two hard-boiled eggs, chopped, two teaspoonfuls grated onion, salt and pepper to taste, mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing, three tablespoonfuls salad oil, one tablespoonfuls vinegar, one teaspoonful of minced parsley (if desired.)

Combine the celeriac, while warm, with the oil, stir and add vinegar, seasonings and egg. Chill, add enough salad dressing to blend, arrange in salad bowl, border with lettuce and put a little extra salad dressing on top, sprinkling with parsley.

EMPTY HOUSE

Augustus Thomas, while discussing the prevailing emptiness of New York theaters a few seasons ago, recalled a trip which Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley made through Illinois. Nye's companion, looking through the peep-hole of a village theater curtain, remarked:

"Bill, the house is just about empty."

"I don't see why," replied Nye. "We've never been here before."—[Exchange.

Never touch your face with any but TRUE complexion soap

THE first rule in modern skin care is to keep the skin clean and pores free of accumulations. Use powder and make-up all you wish. But never leave them on overnight.

That means soap and water. But it means, too, a TRUE COMPLEXION SOAP only. A soap made for skin use. A soap made to protect and beautify.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

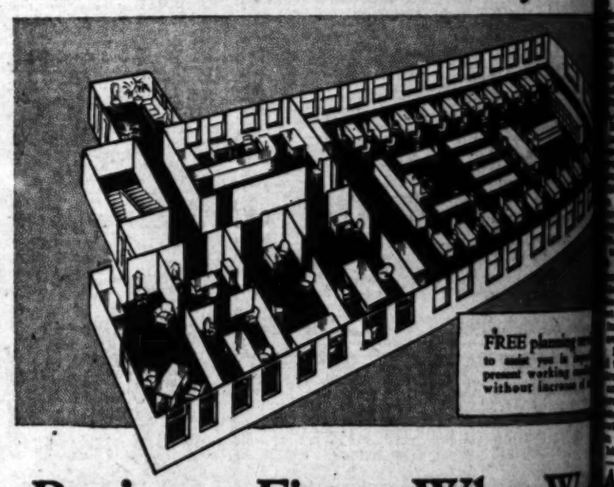
Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note then how much better your skin in even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE

Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c the cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

WESTERN PACIFIC BUILDING

1031 South Broadway



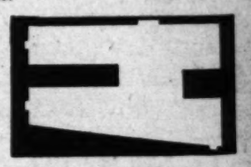
Business Firms Who Want Better Working Conditions

without increase of rent

Improper light and air, poor arrangement of partitions, odd or irregular spaces—these cut down the efficiency of your employees and increase your rental cost.

The floor design of the Western Pacific Building represents years of study and practical experience. Its scientific arrangement is unusually economical and efficient. Each office is flooded with fresh air and daylight. There is no unusable space. Partitions can be installed to fit your particular needs.

If you desire better working conditions without increase of rent, consult our Planning Department. We will help you arrange employees and equipment to the best possible advantage for space and working efficiency. This service obligates you in no way.



Every Office Flooded with Fresh Air and Daylight

Note that the shape of the building, in the form of an "H"—and protective alleyways on the south and west—insure light and air for every foot.

Strategic Location

The Western Pacific Building is adjacent to, but just outside the zone of heavy traffic, congestion and noise.

You can save ten to twenty minutes per trip in reaching downtown, the east and the west side business and residential districts. Expensive parking and street car fares are saved, nearer and delays in congested traffic are avoided. Valuable time is thus saved each week.

Make your space reservations while choice space is available. 'phone Mr. H. B. Zeigler, 1031 Broadway. Room 317. Telephone 5988 or WE. 0251.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

by Dr Frank McCoy

author of "The First Way to Health"

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him, care of The Los Angeles Times. Enclosed stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

DIAGNOSING "HEART TROUBLE"

Many cases of both functional and organic heart troubles are well developed before the patients experience any warning symptoms. A pain in the left chest is not necessarily an indication of heart trouble, but may be due to intercostal neuralgia, pleurisy, faulty position of ribs, gas pressure, or because of the stomach being overloaded with food.

The diagnostician must make a careful study of the patient's symptoms to determine if they are true "heart trouble" indications or merely due to some of the above causes. In addition to this, the physician needs to listen to the heart sounds as transmitted through the stethoscope, take the blood pressure reading, count the pulse during rest and after exercise, and use the fluoroscopic X-ray to observe the heart's action. Electrical cardiographic tracings and the recording sphygmomanometer are also helpful in making a visible record of the action of the heart valves.

In health we should be totally unconscious of the action of the heart, but when cardian disturbances manifest themselves the patient's report of symptoms is an aid to the physician's diagnosis, but cannot be completely depended upon, as the patient is prone to use his imagination in magnifying pains and disturbances which he believes to be of cardian origin.

One of the simplest safeguards in preventing the development of either functional or organic heart trouble is to have periodical examinations made and not wait until there is a consciousness of the disease. If this safeguard has not been used, the one who has gradually developed some heart disorder may notice some of the following symptoms: Fullness of the chest, particularly on the left side; intermittent heartbeat, hot and cold flushes, pain in the region of the heart, sharper "angina pectoris" pains through the whole pectoral region and down the left arm, aching between the shoulders, shortness of breath, severe exhaustion, giddiness, blue hands and feet, palpitation, spells of profuse sweating, and extreme nervousness.

These are a few of the symptoms which may indicate the onset of some kind of heart trouble, but it is unwise for even the physician to try to correctly diagnose his own case, as many valuable tests can be made which cannot accurately be used by the patient himself even though he is a highly trained physician.

The treatment of each kind of heart disorder must necessarily vary according to the individual case, but there are some general rules which are applicable to all types of heart derangements. If you suspect heart trouble, and have not been examined for some time, go at once to a good diagnostician who can assure you you are well, or warn you by naming your particular ailment. Meanwhile, read tomorrow's article, in which I will explain the causes of heart trouble.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. J. O. T. writes: "I am very fond of fresh pineapple. May it be used as a dessert—does it combine well with an ordinary meal?"

Answer: The best way to use pineapple is to make an entire meal of it, or use it in combination with sweet milk. However, it may be used with a protoid meal, when no starches are taken. The acids interfere with the starch digestion, but the leafy succulent greens may be used freely with this meal. By protoid meal—take, for instance, any of the evening meals suggested in my Saturday menus. You may safely substitute the pineapple for the dessert suggested if you so desire.

Q.: Mrs. J. B. writes: "I have to clear my throat real often, although I don't bring up any phlegm. It doesn't seem to be a habit. Could you tell me what causes this?"

A.: Such symptoms are often forerunners of tuberculosis or bronchitis. Any irritation in the lungs may create the desire to cough, even when there is nothing to cough up. If the cause of the irritation is not removed, there may finally develop enough degeneration so that phlegm and pus will gather in quantities large enough to be coughed up. Every tickling cough without phlegm should be carefully considered and the cause removed.

NANCY PAGE

By Florence La Ganke

Nancy and Peter were going to the hotel for dinner. Some special client of Peter's had invited them. Nancy felt that the occasion warranted a new dinner dress. After much looking she chose a georgette of royal blue. It had long sleeves, which were not only correct as to style, but also as to etiquette. Hotel dinners when held in the public dining room call for conservative clothes.

The outstanding style feature of the frock when seen from the front is the cascade drapery at the side of the skirt. This is held in place seemingly with a brilliant pin.

The flesh georgette slip is outlined at the top with silver ribbon. This defines a low line for both back and front.

The back has drapery in the form of a cape back fastened with ties of georgette. The tie at the back, the softness of fabric, the general effect of drapery and flowing lines are all hall marks of the new styles for fall.

When the bridge game is finished and the players are thirsty and tired, why not try one of Nancy Page's bridge beverages? Send stamped addressed envelope care of this paper for leaflet on "Beverages."

CHEF WYMAN'S Suggestions for TOMORROW'S MENU

Every Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southern California Manufacturers' Exhibit, 130 South Broadway.

Breakfast

Fresh Figs
Escaloped Finnan-Haddie With Egg
Toast Marmalade
Milk Coffee

Luncheon

Hamburger Casserole
Tomato and Lima Bean Salad
French Dressing
Floating Prune Whip
Tea

Dinner

Corn Chowder
Celery Radishes
Baked Chicken, Maryland
Corn Fritters Wax Beans
Celeriac Salad
Ice Cream and Fudge Brownies
Coffee

ESCALLOPED FINNAN-HADDIE WITH EGGS

One and one-half cupfuls minced finnan-haddie, two hard-cooked eggs, one and one-half cupfuls of buttered crumbs, one and one-half cupfuls white sauce.

See that the fish is absolutely free from small bones, mince it finely and chop the eggs coarsely. Oil a baking dish and place in it a layer of buttered crumbs (using three tablespoonfuls of melted butter or vegetable fat to one and one-half cupfuls of stale bread crumbs) then a layer of fish and egg which have been stirred into the white sauce, next a further layer of fish and so on until the dish is filled, having crumbs for the top layer. Bake fifteen minutes in a quick oven, 375 deg. F.

HAMBURGER CASSEROLE

Three cupfuls of canned tomatoes, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful pepper; one teaspoonful sugar, one-half pound macaroni, boiled, three-quarters of a pound of hamburger steak, three minced onions, one cupful of grated American or Parmesean cheese.

Season the tomatoes with the salt, pepper and sugar. If very liquid strain off part of the juice. Thoroughly oil a baking dish, put in a layer of cooked macaroni, then one of tomatoes and a thin layer of meat to which onion has been added. Sprinkle with a very little cheese and continue in this way until all ingredients have been used. Cover with remaining cheese, and bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F. for one hour.

BAKED CHICKEN, MARYLAND

One chicken, a few slices of bacon or salt pork, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, one-half teaspoonful pepper, two tablespoonfuls flour, one cupful of water.

Cut the chicken into convenient-sized pieces, rub each one over with bacon drippings, butter or oil, then roll in the flour, salt and pepper which have been mixed together. Place skin side up in a roasting pan and put a small slice of bacon or salt pork on each piece of chicken. Cook ten minutes in a quick oven 375 deg. F., add the water and cook until the chicken is tender (about an hour,) basting every fifteen minutes. When delicately browned, cover pan to prevent drying out. Arrange on serving platter, pour a rich cream sauce around it and garnish with small corn fritters.

CELERIAC SALAD

Three cupfuls diced boiled celeriac, two hard-boiled eggs, chopped, two teaspoonfuls grated onion, salt and pepper to taste, mayonnaise or boiled salad dressing, three tablespoonfuls salad oil, one tablespoonfuls vinegar, one teaspoonful of minced parsley (if desired.)

Combine the celeriac, while warm, with the oil, stir and add vinegar, seasonings and egg. Chill, add enough salad dressing to blend, arrange in salad bowl, border with lettuce and put a little extra salad dressing on top, sprinkling with parsley.

EMPTY HOUSE

Augustus Thomas, while discussing the prevailing emptiness of New York theaters a few seasons ago, recalled a trip which Bill Nye and James Whitcomb Riley made through Illinois. Nye's companion, looking through the peep-hole of a village theater curtain, remarked:

"Bill, the house is just about empty."

"I don't see why," replied Nye. "We've never been here before."—[Exchange.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

THE DANGERS OF IGNORANT SUPERSTITIONS

So many ideas have been handed down to us which have a slight foundation in fact, but which most persons accept at their face value because familiarity has given them almost the semblance of truth. For instance there is that old superstition about a child's eyes being sore when he cuts his eye teeth. So, if during any of the months preceding the cutting of teeth, a baby's eyes become sore the mother comforts herself that they will get all right when the eye teeth are in, and she does nothing about curing the sore eyes.

All of the ailments which are possible to afflict a baby during the two years in which he is actively teething will be attributed by such persons to teeth, with the result that the mother fails to look into the real causes of the baby's illness on the mistaken notion that he is bound to be sick when he teethes, so she just has to bear with it.

Laying at the door of prenatal influence the blame for a baby's bad disposition is another way of blinding one's eyes to what is really the matter with the baby. Mothers don't do this on purpose, but they listen to what others tell them and because they felt miserable and cross during pregnancy and the baby acts that way after birth, they consider the prenatal influence ruined the child's disposition, instead of hunting down the reason for the baby's crossness.

If we could just urge mothers not to be satisfied with cut and dried explanations for a baby's unnatural behavior, we would feel that we had a real reason for existing. Don't let people hush your fears with the old hoaxes about: "It's his teeth;" or "think of the trouble you had before Junior was born, no wonder he's a cross baby." Babies aren't spoiled before birth by a mother's trouble, if that mother has fed herself properly, and mothers who have lived through frightful experiences and borne a perfect child will tell you so. Babies who are not well will teethe harder than well babies because they aren't well, and not because teeth in themselves are any more than a temporary disturbance which seldom lasts more than a day or two.

DOUGHNUT EGGS

While preparing a batch of doughnuts, a Franklin (N. H.) baker used a quart of eggs. There were more than twenty in the quart and every egg had a double yolk except one, and that had three. The eggs came from the David Atwood farm.

SPITFIRE COPS TROPHY

Little Spitfire, the American speed boat owned by J. H. Rand of New York, and driven by Ralph Snoddy of Los Angeles, easily won the Duke of York's trophy this year in England.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Choose the Right Time

Pure candy is not injurious to children when given in moderation and directly following a meal. The harm comes when the child eats the candy and loses his appetite for the meal. Form the habit of giving him a piece or two after his lunch or dinner and he will not crave it later on.

In the Small Kitchen

If your kitchen is small and space is scarce, the most satisfactory table is the sort attached to the wall by hinges and which can be lowered out of the way when not in use. The top is of porcelain.

On Clean Dishes

Always remove the leftovers from the dishes on which they are served and place them on a clean platter before putting them away in the refrigerator. They will be much more suggestive of being turned into an appetizing dish of some sort if they are on a clean platter.

Small Portions for Small Folks

Through experience I have found that large helpings take away the small child's appetite. Give them small portions and frequently they will come back for more, but they will rarely finish a large helping because they feel they have to do it whether they want to or not.

Many Uses

Electric fans have become more than a summer necessity, for they are proving invaluable in the kitchen to drive out cooking odors, dry frosting or cake, dry fine articles of clothing and all the while making the room cooler for the housewife.

But Don't Scrape

Any vegetable that is discovered just starting to burn may be rescued by placing the pan in another pan containing cold water and then letting it stand for about five minutes. Then shake the vegetable from the burned pan to a clean vessel for further cooking. But do not scrape out the bottom of the pan, thus getting the burned flavor along with the good.

What to Do

A safety razor blade will remove hardened paint from window frames.

Don't forget to cut the handles off the old brooms before throwing them away. They are useful for clothes bars in your closets.

Put crushed eggshells and a little water in your vinegar cruet when it is stained and shake vigorously. The stains will completely disappear.

Foolish Economy

Some people think they are saving on their bill when they wrap the ice that is in the refrigerator in newspapers. Newspaper over ice prevents the evaporation and lowers the efficiency of the refrigerator.

CLUBS WILL HEAR OF PACIFIC RELATIONS

A joint meeting of the League of Women Voters, Council on International Relations and the City Club Open Forum will be addressed by Chester Rowell on the subject "The Pacific Relations Institute" tonight at 833 South Spring street. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. Alexander Bevani will talk on "Italy Under Mussolini" at the luncheon hour Wednesday.

Cultivating a Schoolgirl Complexion

By VILMA BANKY

© 1927 Pacific Beauty Features

Never touch your face with any but TRUE complexion soap

THE first rule in modern skin care is to keep the skin clean and pores free of accumulations. Use powder and make-up all you wish. But never leave them on overnight.

That means soap and water. But it means, too, a TRUE COMPLEXION SOAP only. A soap made for skin use. A soap made to protect and beautify.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions use Palmolive Soap; touch their faces with no other. It is made of cosmetic oils. It is made for one purpose only—to protect and beautify the skin.

Wash the face gently with Palmolive. Massage its balmy olive and palm oil lather into the skin. Rinse with warm water; then with cold. That is all—it's nature's rule for keeping that schoolgirl complexion.

Do that regularly, and particularly at night. Note then how much better your skin in even one week.

GET REAL PALMOLIVE

Get Palmolive today. Costs but 10c the cake. Use no other on your face. But be sure you get GENUINE Palmolive. Crude imitations, represented to be of olive and palm oils, are not the same as Palmolive. Remember that and TAKE CARE. The Palmolive-Peet Co., Chicago, U. S. A.

NOTED ARCHITECT TAKEN BY DEATH

Arthur B. Benton

REBUILDER OF MISSIONS PASSES ON

Arthur B. Benton, Famed as Architect of Southland Buildings, Answers Call

Arthur B. Benton, 70 years of age, Los Angeles architect who designed many beautiful residences and buildings here and in other parts of Southern California, died early yesterday at his home, 809 Kensington Road, after an illness of nearly a year.

Mr. Benton was an outstanding figure in the field of Mission architecture. Many of the fine old missions of the State have been restored and kept for posterity through his efforts. As a member of the Landmarks Club he carried on a wide program of reconstruction work. He designed the Mission Inn at Riverside and the Mission Playhouse at San Gabriel.

In Los Angeles the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. buildings, the Clark Memorial and many other buildings and residences are examples of his skill. He designed many hotels throughout the Southwest and had done much restoration work at San Juan Capistrano, San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara.

Born in Peoria, Ill., Mr. Benton received his early schooling in the city of his birth and as a young man moved to Topeka, Kan., where he went to work in the architectural department of the Santa Fe Railroad and aided in the designing of many of the stations at that time.

Forty years ago he came to Los Angeles and went into business as an independent architect. He remained here during the entire period of his practice.

He was a fellow of the American Institute of Architects, a former member of the Jonathan Club, a member of the Landmarks and Old Colony clubs, the Engineering and Architectural Association, the Southern California Academy of Science, and a member of the board of governors of the Los Angeles County Art Museum.

Mr. Benton leaves his wife and a daughter, Edith. Funeral services have not yet been arranged.

RITES FOR ELFIE FAY DEFERRED

Funeral Arrangements of Former Comedienne Wait Word From Relatives

Awaiting word from relatives in New York, funeral arrangements have not yet been completed for Elfie Fay, former musical comedy favorite, who died Friday at her home in Hollywood.

Miss Fay, who was 46 years of age, began [illegible] stage career at the age of 16. Her first success when she won wide notice from the critics came with her appearance in "Mamselle 'Awkins," after which she was identified with such productions as "The Belle of New York," "The Southerners," "The Milk White Flag" and "The Belle of Avenue A."

In 1921 the actress was married to Samuel Brenner, Pittsburgh steel magnate, who died three months after the wedding. Coming to Hollywood three years ago she appeared in various motion pictures and was preparing to play in a comedy series when she became ill.

Miss Fay's death was due to an illness said to have been brought on by grief over the death of her brother, Hughie Fay, motion-picture director, a year ago.

University Plans for New Course

The University of Southern California will sponsor, next August 13-18, an institute of municipal administration, it was announced yesterday by President von KleinSmid. Lectures will be given on municipal finance, public works procedure, street improvement and administration, personnel in public service, fire protection, police and police methods, citizenship and municipal administration, public health and social welfare, city planning and zoning, municipal engineering problems, city records, councilmanic problems, and legal problems of municipalities. The regular staff of the university and outside experts will give the course.

9:30 TO 11:30 MORNINGS.

SALESLADIES

Here is an opportunity for making big money. One of the largest mercandising institutions on the coast is starting the most remarkable sales campaign ever attempted. We need five ladies of refinement, with or without selling experience, who are willing to co-operate in building up an organization. This is a permanent position with an opportunity to make at least $35 to $75 per week. The proposition is new and exceptional. See Sales Manager, 4th floor, Milton G. Cooper Building, 321 E. 9th st., after 9 a.m.
